A Disrupted Cabinet. Joe didn't know that it was loaded. He dragged England into as unfoly a war as has ever been waged on earth and crushed the brave little South African republics at a fearful and unexpected cost of life and treasure. He is responsible for thousands of widows and orphans on two continents. .Hundreds of blackened chimneys constitute his monuments in the Transvaal and in the Orange Free State. Hewrought this red ruin because gold in large quantities had been discovered in the balliwicks of Paul Kruger and President Stein. At the close of the war which he had precipitated he was the foremost Englishman of his day and concluded that anything was possible for him. So, to show his power, te exploit his greatness, to pose as the master of the realm, he undertook to undo the beneficent work of Richard Cobden, John Bright and Sir Robert Peel and to once more fasten the high protective tariff system on the English people. It is as true today as when Shakespeare first wrote it that "vaulting ambition sometimes o'erleaps it self." So it was with Joseph Cham berlain. He has come down-"outside the breastworks," to borrow a famous phrase from President Benjamin Harrisen in his celebrated message of condelence to Warner Miller. His effort to build a new Chinese wall about his country has ended most disastrously for him and has disrupted the cabinet, he and two of his friends retiring therefrom. He, a renegade Liberal, has perhaps unwittingly prepared the way for the return of the Liberals to power, which will fill his cup of sprow to overflowing, for it is part of the nature of a renegade to hate those whom he has deserted. Joe miscalculated. He imagined, and vainly, that because the Britishers permitted him to plunge them into a disgraceful and inhuman war for which they had no desire they would stand anything, but when he touched their stomachs by advocating a law which would put up the price of victuals be committed political suicide. Since Governor Cummins of lows and his coterio hauled in their horns as tariff reform ers most people think that Bab, Hks the last rose of summer, is left blooming alone. Not so, however. The Detroit Free Press is for reciprocity with Canada. Wherefore? Because it would be a good thing for Detroit and vicinity. The Washington Post says:

Naturally the Detroit Free Frees, whose habitat is on the boundary line between this republic and his Britannio majesty's Canadian previnces, is deeply interested in subjects touching the relations between the United States and Canada. For reasons satisfactory to itself, although they antagonize a strong sentiment in the United States, the Free Press ardeally advocates reciprocity in trade between the two countries. Our Detroit contamperary says. The question is whether we shall negotiate a treaty of mutual benefit while there is yet an opportunity to do so or whather we shall permit past prejudices and present indifference to block the way until it might prove too

The mossbacks and wire pullers and ing the proposition to elect senators of the United States by popular vote politicians recognize the inevitable, as will be seen from this dispatch from Albany:

The New York state Democratic committee, controlled by ex-Senator D. B. Hill, has adopted a resolution favoring the election of United States senators by vote and directing that for the present since the constitution furbids the present vote, "the next call for a Dem-ocratic state convention for the nom-ination of candidates shall provide also mination of candidates for United States senator, the candidate of the con rention to be the party candidate and to be voted for by the Democratic members of the legislature for senator. It was offered by Tammany's new lead et, Charles F. Murphy.

Very True. It is sagely remarked by the St. Louis Republic that "a thorough house cleaning is required in the Indian Territory. The conditions existing there need revolutionizing to the cause of common decency," The Republic might well extend its remark so as to include most of the departments at Washington. In the immortal words of John Wesley, "Cleanliness is next to godiiness." Of course the reverend brother was not referring to politics when be nevertheless. "Turn the rascale out." Joseph G. Cannon denominates "rubber currency." For Diney.

Booms, presidential and otherwise come and go. For example, five or efx months ago the name of ex-Alter ney General and ex-Secretary of State Richard Olney of Boston was in everybody's mouth. In fact, at one time he appeared to be in the lead for the Democratic presidential nomination. Then his boom appeared to collapse gradually, but surely. Lately it has been newly inflated, and at their state convention the Massachusetts Democrats will place him formally before the Democrats of the country. Nobods disputes Mr. Olney's ability.
