Champ Clark's

(Special Washington Letter.)

NCE more Missouri will present, a favorite son to the national Democracy as a presidential candidate and ask the nomination, and she does well. His name is Francis Marion Cockrell, senior senator from that magnificent commonwealth. In 1896 she presented Richard Parks Bland, and had his forces been properly organized he would have won the nomination. In the Cockrell matter the Missourians are taking time by the forelock. For some months it has been doubtful whether the modesty of the senator could be sufficiently overcome to induce him to permit the use of his name in that connection, but the following letter removes all doubts on the subject. He will permit it, he will have a solid and enthusiastic delegation from Missouri, he ought to have lots of strength outside the state and | Queer. is in every way worthy of nomination and election. Here is the letter:

My Dear Major Salmon-Your favor duly received. As I have repeatedly said, I am a candidate for re-election to the United States senate and will be content with ment by the Democrats of Missouri to present my name for that nomination to the national Democratic convention is without my solicitation, directly or indihighly the honor conferred by the resolutions adopted by the Democratic mass meetings at Moberly and St. Joseph, Mo., ments of friends. These show clearly that the movement is not inimical to my candidacy for re-election to the senate and come from friends and loyal Democrats and that such apprehension is, in fact, without foundation. The proprieties of course ferbid that I should say I am or will be a candidate for the nomination the presidency. Perhaps I go far enough when I say I am gratefully appreciative of the continued confidence and friendship of the good people of Missouri and of the great honor they do me in the highest office in the greatest nation of the world, yet if the Democrats of Missouri deem me worthy and desire, without my seeking, to present my name to would be ungrateful in me to object. With best wishes, your friend, F. M. COCKRELL Quite a prominent gentleman in New Jersey writes me enthusiastically as to a reference I lately made in these letters to General Cockrell, but wound up by proposing the ticket, "Miles and Cockrell," which is clearly a non sequitur. Let it be understood, once for all, that the Missourians do not intend to offer Cockrell as a V. P. candidate. With us it is aut Cæsar aut nullus. If my Jersey friend wants General Miles and General Cockrell both on the ticket he must turn his proposition around and make it read "Cockrell and | Miles," but I am not, the Missouri Democrats are not, suggesting anybody for V. P. We propose to land the presidential nomination for General Cockrell if we can and let some other section of the country have the V. P. We will not object to any good and reliable Democrat as a running mate for Cockrell.

When Mr. J. Pierpont Morgan reads the denunciations of himself and partners in crime by Republican papers he must feel like exclaiming in the language of Caius Julius Cæsar, "Et tu. brute!" or in the words of Alfred Lord Tennyson, "I wish that my tongue could utter the thoughts that arise in me," or in the vernacular of the average earaged citizen, "D-n it!" For instance, here comes the Philadelphia Inquirer, one of the strongest Republican papers in the land, with this editorial upon Morgan and his meth-

It is high time that the board of di rectors of the United States Steel corporation should do a little explaining for the benefit of their tens of thousands of stockholders, men and women, who bought upon the promises made, promises which have not been kept. Both the preferred and common stock is worth a great deal more than the market quotations or it is worth nothing. Which Under oath Mr. Schwab, then presiden of the corporation, declared that in his opinion the actual intrinsic value of the properties owned was greater than the value of bonds and stocks outstand-

From the start the earnings have been sufficient, according to the official re-ports, to meet every obligation, to pay 7 per cent on the preferred and 4 per cent on the common and to lay aside a huge surplus. The promise was explicit that so long as the dividends were earned they would be paid, for the directors would have no right to withhold them. And yet they have done just this thing. They have reduced the 4 per cent dividend on the common to 2 per cent in spite of the fact that more than enough money has been earned to make the full payment. What is the reason for this? Why has the stock been falling until it has reached o a figure but a tenth of its par value? Why has the preferred, which has duced its dividend, been forced to half its face value when it once sold above 100? The corporation owns the same property that it did when Mr. Schwab swore that its intrinsic value was greater than the capital involved. There has been a falling off to some extent in orders, but that does not account for the breaking of dividend promises when dividends were earned and the bearing of the stock to uch a ruinous extent. If it is true that insiders are manipulat to know what this depression means, and it is the duty of the directors to make some lucid explanation. A Rising Jew.

Last week I referred to the fact that Hon. Isidor Rayner of Maryland, an eminent Jewish lawyer, is an avowed candidate for United States senator to succeed Hon. Louis E. McComas. Since writing that Governor Alexander Monroe Dockery of Missouri has appointed another eminent Jewish lawyer, Hon. Moses A. Sale, to a circuit judgeship in St. Louis, vice Judge Ferrin, who resigned to accept "Ten Thousand a Year" as general counsel for the Louisiana Purchase exposition. Judge Sale is said to be the first man of his race to hold judicial position in Missouri. He is an excellent lawyer and will in all human probability make an excellent judge.

Minority Report on Cuban Reciprocity. We, minority members of the committee on ways and means, make the following report of our views concerning H. R. 1921. being a bill entitled "A bill to carry into effect a convention between the United States and the republic of Cuba, signed on the 11th day of December, in the year 1902," introduced in the house of representatives on the 12th day of November, 1908, by Mr. Payne of New York and referred to the committee the committee on ways and means ought to have been amended in committee fore being reported and ought now to be the nomination for the presidency it as follows: By striking out the following language, beginning in line 15, page 2, and ending is

We believe that the bill as reported by

"Provided. That while said convention republic of Cuba and being the product of the soil or industry of the republic of Cuba shall be admitted into the United States at a reduction of duty greater thereon, as provided by the tariff act of the United States approved July 34, 1897 and no sugar the product of any other foreign country shall be admitted by or convention into the United States while this convention is in force ed by the tariff act of the United States And by inserting the following in lieu

"That upon the making of said agree ment and the issuance of said proclams tion and while said agreement shall re main in force there shall be levied col on now provided by law on all sugar all sugar which has gone through process of refining imported into the United States 1.825 cents per pound." Our objection to the language propose to be stricken out is twofold First, as a general principle, one con gress has no right to attempt to bind succeeding congress, as is attempted t this bill in the case of sugars imported from Cuba, nor to attempt to bind the treaty making power of the United States in a succeeding congress or under a suc ceeding administration, as is attempted in the bill in the case of sugars imported from other foreign countries. We do not believe that the language proposed to be ing force and effect even if enacted into law. It is, ostensibly, at any rate, walver, to some extent, of the genera right to abrogation and establishes

In the second place, we are not willing in an attempt-although legally and in existence, at a given fixed rate, a duty upon any product imported into the Unit for any definite period, whether the article be sugar or anything else or whether it be the product of the island Cuba or of any other country or of al provision. We think, in the next place, that there ought to be inserted in lieu of the provi sion proposed to be stricken out or else where in the bill the language proposed to be inserted by the amendment above referred to, because, in our opinion, we would thereby deprive the great sugar trust of this country of some of its powe to extort from the consumer, curtail its power to bear down the price of the raw material, thereby injuring the suma planter and lessen its ability to dictate wholesale and retail dealers in sugar the manner in which they shall do busines and the price at which they shall sell re fined sugar. The house during the Fifty-seventh congress took this view and passed an amendment identically worded as now proposed by us. The house took that view after a full investigation and a comparatively full discussion of the question and the very treaty proposed to be put in force by this bill (H. R. 1921) would have been in force now had all those charged, with the duty of legislation in other branches of the government bee willing to see the burden upon the Ameri can consumer of sugars and other proucts imported from Cuba into the United to see the Cuban market for American products enlarged, even though at some expense to the great sugar trust of the United States. The only injury to the itself even would have been to lessen to a small degree its power to ex tort from the consumer and to tyrannise over producers and commerce.

the power of the sugar trust and the svil resulting from the bad precedent propos ing, ineffectually, it is true, to prevent the country from still further reducing the duties upon Cuban sugars and upon sugars from other countries whenever it shall appear wise and expedient to do so by reciprocal treaty agreement or statute law Believing, as we do, that commerce ought to be as nearly untrammeled as possible, consistently with the needs of a revenue for economical and effective governmental administration and consistently with a desire not to revolutionine existing conditions by destroying homest, legiti mate and nonmonopolistic enterprises, we find in this bill an affirmance of that principle, a step in the right direction and, furthermore, a recognition of the fact that a decrease of governmental tolls levied upon international commerce con-

which the commerce is carried on. Charged with the duty of legislating for the benefit of the American people, as we are, and friends to the newborn republic of Cuba, desiring her prosperity, we recognize that this bill will, to some extent Americans and Cubans, enabling the Americans to buy Cuban products at more reasonable prices and enabling the Cubans to buy American products at more reasonable prices, thereby enlarging the volume of trade between the two coun

If the amendment shall not be adopted we still recommend the passage of the bill despite its bad features, because we think that the good to be done by its passage will far overbalance the svill which will result from a failure to take advantage of the opportunity to diminish tries in both directions. We regret that the party in power line not seen its way to confer still further benefits upon citizens of both nations by providing for even freer and yet more untrammeled and unrestricted commerce between them. As long as the present party is in power we can perhaps hope for tariff reductions and revision only from reciprocity treaties. It is a piecemeal process, but it is better than no process at all. We hall it as a harbinger f future reciprocity treaties with other countries, especially those upon the American continent, and notably our neighbor the north, the Dominion of Canada. Commercial wars are detrimental, sometimes destructive. They are wars in aide, wars as a result of which both sides endure defeat. Friendly relations between peoples cannot be as certainly secured in any other way as by the reciprocal benefits of trade and commerce. Men of different nations bound to one an other by large and valuable trade reintions are bound by the closest tie of a materialistic character known to human nature, the tie of self interest. They have the physician's remedy given a mutual bond to keep the peace and strenuous "fingolam" itself healtates. under such circumstances, to disturb it.

He will be uproariously welcomed back in the house, where he made such a magnificent record in the Fifty-fourth con

For the sake of the good name of the American senate it is to be hoped that Senator Dietrich of Nebraska is not guilty of the crime of seiling post of fices, for which he has been indicted by a federal grand jury. Nothing is known here at least, generally-about the facts, but it would be a humiliation to the entire citisenship of the republic, without regard to political affiliations, if it should turn out that even one senator or representative should prove so recreant to duty and to honor as to sell offices.

Hon. Eugene F. Ware, poet, lawyer, soldler and commissioner of pensions, has undertaken a job of vast preper tions and of extreme difficulty. He proposes to stop the employees of the pen sion bureau from gambling on the stock market and from risking their money on the result of a horse race. Despite his ukase, those inclined to be sport; will probably find a way to be fleeced of their salaries. No doubt Mr. Ware's intentions are of the best, but, then it is said that the place which is dread ed by all of us on account of its heat is paved with good intentions.

Democratic leaven appears to be working among Republican statesmen up in Minnesota. One of the most pic turesque figures in the house of repre sentatives is ex-Governor John Lind. Democrat, who defeated Uncle Lorin Fletcher in a district normally Republican by several thousand. This is not Governor Lind's first service in congress. He was here before and served three terms as a Republican. He it was who appointed Charles A. Towne, an ex-Republican congressman, to succeed Cushman K. Davis in the senate of the United States. Should Towne succeed George B. McClellan in the house, as it is reported he will do, two of the most distinguished Minnesotans ever sent to congress by Republicans will be sitting on the Democratic side. There's food for reflection in that.
