Special Washington Letter 1 RE the Republican leaders scared? Perish the thought! According to their story, only a few weeks ago they had the world by the tail with a downhill pull. world by the tail with a downhill pull, Even now, according to all their prophets save one, we will get only 151 electoral votes out of 476, and that one General Charles Henry Grosvenor —reduces the number to 133. If these things are true, how does it happen one General Charles Henry Grosvenor —reduces the number to 133. If these things are true, how does it happen that the cabinot, all the member to can make a stump speech, will take the stump in bot baste and rend the circumambient atmosphere with the cry of "Roosevelt forever?" Mr. Secretary of the Treasury Leslie M. Shaw is to quit pestering his head about the growing deficit while he whoops it up for his chief. Mr. Secretary of War Hon. William H. Taft is to let the Philippines look out for themselves while he makes the welkin ring for the G. O. H. -the grand old humbug. The new attorney general, William H. Moody, is to give the trusts a rest from prosecution while he explains to gaping thousands the virtues of the president and the glories of the G. O. H. Mr. Secretary of State John Hay is to make a few speeches to select audiences. Mr. Secretary of the Navy Morton will explain to an astonished world how by the grace of Colonel Roosevelt he became a cabinet minister within three weeks after he was converted to the G. O. H., and so on through the list. But I repeat the question, If the Republican leaders are not scared within an inch of their lives, why are all these cabinet officers to abandon their duties, for which the people pay them each $8,000 per annum, to undergo the labors $8,000 per annum, to undergo the labors and dangers of stump speaking? This is a free country, and every citizen or citizeness has a perfect right to nominate a ticket for president and vice president. That many of them have availed themselves of this inalienable privilege is patent when we consider the presidential field as it now is, The Democrats have nominated Allen Brooks Parker and Henry G. Davis the Republicans, Theodore Roosevelt and Charles W. Fairbanks; the Prohibitionists, Swallow and Carroll; the Populists, Tom Watson and Tom Tibbles; the Socialists, Eugene V. Debs and Ben Hanford; the Socialist Labor party, Charles H. Corregan and W. W. Cox, and the National Liberty party, Payne and Scott. The last named party is made up of colored men who believe that they have not received a fair deal at the hands of the Republicans. There may be other party nominations which I have overlooked. But, so far as I know, the foregoing is a complete list to date, which the readers hereof will do well to post in a conspicuous place or commit to memory. as it will be convenient many times during the campaign now just beginning, for reference or quotation. The which he became a major general. He consensus of newspaper opinion apwill not poll enough votes to affect the ways been contended that Birney's can-didacy in 1844 defeated Henry Clay in under Hayes. He was the bosom New York, the pivotal state, though Birney received only a few thousand votes. In 1876 the small vote cast for good old Peter Cooper in Oregon gave the electoral vote of that state to Rutherford B. Hayes and enabled the Republican freebooters to steal the presidency for him. Had be not carried Oregon, stealing the electoral votes of Florida, South Carolina and Louisiana would have done him no good, for they would not have furnished him enough votes to elect. In a close contest in any particular state a few thousand or a few bundred or a dozen or even one vote might make a president. How Parker Saved the Bank. The following luminous editorial presents a picture of Judge Parker that is equaled in dramatic strength by but one similar incident of fiction. We refer to the scene drawn by Miss Mulock in her masterful book, "John Hallfax, Gentleman," wherein Halifax drives his foaming horses to the Jessup bank and springs out with his load of rold and bank notes in time to save the institution. The editorial is from the St. Louis Republic:

Of Judge Parker's qualifications there can be no question. His illustrious judicial career of litself is a guaranty proclaiming him sound in judgment, safe in decision, strong for the right. His opinions, writings and addresses exhibit breadth of grasp and a profound statesmanly intellect. But that he is a man of action and a doer as well as a man of thought is equally plain.

thought is equally plain.

No one incident manifests more characteristically the business and executive qualities of Judge Parker than does the much discussed matter of the Ulater County Savings bank. No more fortunate story could be developed about a candidate than that which the Republican press brought out many months ago and then, finding that it reflected tremendous credit on the candidate, dropped quite suddenly.
