"WETS" TRIUMPHANT.

WADESBORO VOTES FOR BARS AND DISTILLERIES.
 Provincialism Cut Out and Personal Liberty Reigns Supreme.

"A little more than two years ago a local option election was held in Wadesboro which resulted in a victory for the opponents of open saloons and stills by a majority of 8. Another local option election was held Tuesday, at which the following vote was cast:

"For saloons, 100; against saloons 107—majority for saloons, 63.
 "For stills, 187; against stills, 125—majority for stills, 127.
 The above appeared in the Wadesboro Messenger-Intelligencer in its first issue after the recent local option election. Commenting upon the result the Monroe Journal gets off the following:

"It is a great cause for rejoicing. The sturdy manhood of the good old county has asserted itself and freedom sits again upon the mountain heights. The preachers, the women and other fanatics have been put to rout. Everybody who believes in the natural rights of man should give a whoop and go to Wadesboro and take a drink. Narrow-mindedness and provincialism have been cast off by this cosmopolitan town, and it is now the only place between Wilmington and Asheville where free-born Saxons, cherishing all the ancestral hatred for oppression and tyranny, can walk up to the counter and drink out of the same glass that has been used by a free nigger a short time before. Sound the loud timbrel o'er this benighted section, for liberty again reigns in Wadesboro and only a few more policemen will be necessary to restrain her. Watch the good place take on new life and vigor and recover from the blight that the reign of the fanatics has entailed. Watch the thousands of horny-handed sons of toil who will trade where they can buy drink, rush from the pharisaical towns around and buy their goods from the town where the bird of liberty has again squatted. Not only will the sons of liberty in that town have somewhere to go and take a freeman's drink when they feel like it, but their sons will also. The boys and youth may not now sit at home or suck their fingers at the starvation parties as they were compelled to do under the rule of the oppressors, for now they may gather nightly in the nice warm bars and take a social game of cards and a drop of something to cheer the heart. Not only shall there be places where good liquors (no rot-gut dispensary stuff) can be mixed by a sleek, fat white man with a greasy fat black man to help him, and serve out to all who can raise the price, but right handy in the town will be the established rum mills to make the pure and unadulterated stuff that a man can drink and enjoy long without being killed than any other animal. Think of the pretty new still houses with sweet-scented hogs living sumptuously on mash! Think of the nice hogs that can be raised! And all that fine bacon lost under the reign of the fanatics! But the fanatics are routed and liberty reigns. Liberty and drunks!
 Liberty and more ragged and hungry children!
 Liberty and more haggard women with black bruised eyes!
 Liberty and more hands for the chain gang!
 Liberty and more blood money!
 Liberty and desolation, one and inseparable!
 Hamlet and Hoffman and Rockingham have lost their glory, but Wadesboro has found hers. She has not voted a graded school, but she has voted in the rum shops and the hell kettles!"

Bobbie's Essay on Girls.
 girls is what boys aint, and that aint much. I never cared much for girls, they are always giggling and making themselves silly which is easy for them. There is three kinds of girls, dark girls and light girls and old maids, old maids are girls that never had no sots in there houses, poor old things.
 girls has made trouble ever since the world began and I suppose they will keep on making trouble until there aint no more trouble to make, if we was all boys there would be no more funn.
 I dont know any more about girls and dont car.

Some Seasonable Advice.
 It may be a piece of superfluous advice to urge people at this season of the year to lay in a supply of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It is almost sure to be needed before winter is over, and much more prompt and satisfactory results are obtained when taken as soon as a cold is contracted, and before it has become settled in the system, which can only be done by keeping the remedy at hand. This remedy is so widely known and so altogether good that no one should hesitate about buying it in preference to any other. It is for sale by all druggists.

ATTRACTIVE HOMES.

TRY TO MAKE LIFE AT HOME PLEASANT.
 It is Always the Best Place If We Only Try to Be Cheerful and Happy.

How many boys and girls of today realize the meaning of home? Home! The dearest place on earth.
 The joy, happiness and pleasure there would be in this life if we would strive to make home what it should be. Every home could be made, when we come from our work or school, a place for happiness and enjoyment, if every member of the household would do his or her part. Love and kindness should not only be shown, but spoken. Mother and father would appreciate it so much if you would tell them that you love them and how glad you are that they can be with you. Don't wait until they are gone and then think of how you might have made them happy.
 Mother and sister should make the home so attractive that father and brother will not want to seek other places to spend their evenings. Then they should help make home pleasant by always trying to be cheerful and happy.
 If young people only know and could realize what a comfort and pleasure they could be in the home by always having a bright, happy disposition; and if they haven't one to try and cultivate one.

Colonel Doesn't Admire the "American Brand."
 Colonel Waterson has returned from Europe and opens his comparisons between the people he has seen and his own by discussing aristocracy. He says the aristocracy of this country is not to be compared with the European article which means "lineage and brains" while here it "ranges chiefly from bad whiskey to standard oil."
 Of course the Kentucky colonel could not find anything worse than "bad whiskey" nor more to be shamed than the tainted money of the great trust, but his conception of the aristocracy of this country is out of joint, in fact he mistakes the money bags of the country for its aristocracy, and seemingly takes as a standard those whose suddenly acquired wealth has found them without the good breeding and regard for others that stamps aristocracy whether in the mansions or the millions of quiet homes of the nation.

Colonel Waterson has made the common error of seeking aristocracy at Monte Carlo and Newport, and he has found a motley congregation of the rich and ostentatious, the idle and vulgar, the scandal mongers of two countries. To be sure not all such at either of these storm centres of social cosmopolitanism, but when the chief motives of life are to be found in intense rivalry of display and cheap vanity then does aristocracy take its leave even though by right of birth and breeding it might well be claimed.
 Aristocracy in this country means nobility, not in pictured coats of arms, but in those finer qualities of mind and heart that mark the conscious sincerity and unswerving probity of an honest, manly man, and a devoted womanhood. The News-Leader will say that "the best, highest and surer aristocracy in any country is that which is unconscious of itself and is content to live by its own ethics and standards, asserting no arrogant superiority, not obtruding itself on the notice of the public, demanding no homage but such as it may earn by character and achievement. We have people of that kind throughout these United States, crude, raw and busy as we may be. Colonel Waterson will do well to give them some attention and to comfort his soul with their characteristics instead of disturbing and dissatisfying himself with the antics and vulgarities of the suddenly rich and ostentatiously vulgar and idle."
 The aristocracy of this country is not heralded as hanging about the fringes of European courts nor picked from the roster of Newport arrivals, but rather is to be found in every part of the country in the lives of noble men and women whose altars are built in their city homes or who reverence God and cheer mankind under the quiet stars in humble country homes.—Norfolk Ledger.

WORDS OF WISDOM.
 Your little child is your only true democrat.—Mrs. Stowe.
 He who knows only his own side of the case knows little of that.—J. Stuart Mill.
 We are sure to get the better of fortune if we do but grapple with her.—Seneca.
 Every man, as to character, is the creature of the age in which he lives.—Voltaire.
 Religion converts despair, which destroys, into resignation, which submits.—Lady Blessington.
 The duty of man is not a wilderness of turnpike gates. It is plain and simple, and consists of but two points; his duty to God, which every man must feel, and with respect to his neighbor, to do as he would be done by.—Thomas Paine.
 God gives us always strength enough and sense enough for what He wants us to do. If we either stir ourselves or puzzle ourselves, it is our own fault. And we may always be sure, whatever we are doing, that we cannot be pleasing Him if we are not happy ourselves.—Ruakin.
 A lawyer isn't necessarily a beggar because he pleads for money.
 A judicious inquiry.
 A well known traveling man who risks the drug trade says he has often heard druggists inquire of customers who asked for a cough medicine, whether it was wanted for a child or for an adult, and if for a child they invariably recommended Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. The reason for this is that they know there is no danger from it and that it always cures. There is not the least danger in giving it, and for coughs, colds and croup it is unsurpassed. For sale by all druggists.

TALKING ABOUT TROUBLE.

De Wolf Hopper, back in New York and at the Lamb's Club, is author of a story which contains rather a fair amount of philosophy. "Often when I have been having a run of hard luck," the comedian declares, "this tale has made me see the humorous side of the proverbial 'dust straw.'"
 "While we were traveling in the Middle West one day last March my attention was attracted to a sorrowful looking man with a small boy who sat across the way from me. Opposite the pair was a staid clergyman of the sort who makes every one's business his own. The man was berating the boy, and judging by appearance, the clergyman didn't like it. Finally, goaded on by some particularly violent rebuke, the minister leaned forward and said, 'I can't permit you to talk that way to your son! If you persist I'll make trouble for you.'
 "The father glared a moment, but made no reply. Presently I heard him scolding the youngster again and saw their fellow-traveler go to the rescue. 'I've admonished you once before,' he observed. 'The first thing you know I'll make trouble for you.'
 "Evidently this was too much for pater familias. He broke out violently: 'You'll make trouble for me!' he exclaimed, with infinite scorn. 'You'll make trouble for me! My wife fell off the train at Des Moines, I lost my hat out of the car window twenty minutes ago, this kid has just sat on the lunch, and you'll make trouble for me!' —New York Press.

Horse Sense Hints.
 Don't leave me hitched in my stall at night with a big cob right where I must lie down. I am tired and can't select a smooth place.
 Don't compel me to eat more salt than I want by mixing it with my oats. I know better than any other animal how much I need.
 Don't think because I go free under the whip I don't get tired. You would move up if under the whip.
 Don't think because I am a horse that weeds and briars won't hurt my hay.
 Don't whip me when I get frightened along the road, or I will expect it next time and maybe make trouble.
 Don't trot me up hill, for I have to carry you and the buggy and myself too. Try it yourself some time. Run up hill with a big load.
 Don't keep my stable very dark, for when I go out into the light my eyes are injured.
 Don't say "whoa" unless you mean it.
 Teach me to stop at the word. It may check me if the lines break, and save a runaway and smash up.
 Don't ask me to back with blinds on. I am afraid to.
 Don't run me down a steep hill, for if anything should give way I might break your neck.
 Don't put on my blind bridle so that it irritates my eyes, or so leave my forehead that it will be in my eyes.
 Don't be so careless of my harness as to find a great sore on me before you attend to it.
 Don't forget the old book that is a friend of all the oppressed, that says: "A merciful man is merciful to his beast."—Farm Journal.

A Warning.
 "You don't seem any the worse for your dissipation of last night," said Gaggly, who had responded to one of the toasts at the banquet.
 "No," replied the other, "I stopped drinking just in time, thanks to you."
 "Thanks to me?"
 "Yes. When you started speaking I caught myself laughing at your stories, so I knew it was time to stop."

Conviction Follows Trial
 When buying loose coffee or anything your greaser happens to have in his tin, how do you know what you are getting? Some queer stories about coffee that is sold in bulk, could be told, if the people who handle it (greasers), cared to speak out.
 Could any amount of mere talk have persuaded millions of housekeepers to use Lion Coffee,
 the leader of all package coffees for over a quarter of a century, if they had not found it superior to all other brands in Purity, Strength, Flavor and Uniformity?
 This package coffee of LION COFFEE can be had only in individual tins. There is no stronger grade of coffee than this command and leading product.

A SALE OF WHITE GOODS
 towels, counterpanes, comforts, table linen at great deal under price and actual value. Others will tell you of the advance in prices of both woolens and cotton goods. It is true, but we are enabled to state truthfully and to guarantee unreservedly, the price of every yard of dress goods in our big stock to be just as low as we can have sold you in the past twelve months. It took thousands of dollars to buy, and we will admit, some price cutting to enable us to make this guarantee, but nevertheless you will find the goods here at old prices!

Jackets, Raincoats and Furs.
 We devoted more time than usual in selecting our wares. We secured the best and latest styles paying cash for most of them, thereby procuring them at the lowest possible prices. We share this advantage with our customers; each garment you will find a distinctive bargain.
 The entire space of the Times would hardly do our shoe stock justice. We have shoes for everybody, the best shoes possible for the money. There is no investment so safe as buying shoes from us.

MILLINERY! MILLINERY!
 As in other departments careful buying here, knowing what and where to buy enables us to offer you unmatchable values. Don't wait until your neighbors have had the first choice of our large line of the newest fashions and styles in hats. We only ask you to come around and look at our stock, for we know that after you have seen our pattern hats they will sell themselves. This department is provided over by Misses Smith and Dranscock, two Baltimore milliners of taste and experience. Call on them for up-to-date styles and low prices. We are making a special this season of boys' and children's clothing (we have men's suits also). To fall in see our clothing before buying means money lost to you. If you think you have found them cheap elsewhere you may depend upon it that you will find them cheaper here. Come to see us for everything to wear.

Respectfully yours,
F. N. & R. Z. EGERTON.
