Death of Mrs. J. R. Frye

A gloom was cast over a happy home last Monday evening when the death angel entered and claimed for his own the wife of Mr. J. R. Frye in her 34th year, after an illness of about a week. It was about 10 o'clock just as her friends were about to take their rest after their days labors were over that she laid her head on Jesus breast and also fell asleep never to again awaken at the call of her loved ones. She leaves a husband and five children the eldest being eleven years, the youngest one year old. She was a devoted member of the Baptist church here and her funeral was conducted by her pastor Rev. G. P. Harrell Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock from the residence, and her remains were tenderly laid to rest in Fairview cemetery in the presence of a large concourse of relatives and friends. The many floral designs attested the high esteem in which she was held. The following acted as pall bearers: J. W. Daniel, R. A. Pruitt, I. H. Kearney, R. D. Collins, J. M. May and A. O. Perry.

A Card of Thanks.

Why does Great Britain buy its oatmeal of us?

Certainly it seems like carrying coals to Newcastle to speak of exporting oatmeal to Scotland and yet, every year the Quaker Oats Company sends hundreds of thousands of cases of Quaker Oats to Great Britain and Europe. The reason is simple; while the English and Scotch have for centuries eaten oatmeal in quantities and with a regularity that has made them the most rugged physically, and active mentally of all people, the American has been eating oatmeal and trying all the time to improve the methods of manufacture so that he might get that desirable foreign trade. How well he has succeeded would be seen at a glance at the export reports on Quaker Oats. This brand is without a rival is packed in regular packages, and in hermetically sealed tins for hot climates.
