PRETTY JUNE WEDDINGS

SOLEMNIZED IN LOUISBURG THIS AND LAST WEEK.

Detter-Hight at the Baptist Church—O'Donald-Hester at the Methodist Church—Bernhardt-Crenshaw at the Episcopal Church.

Bernhardt-Crenshaw.

St. Paul's Episcopal church was the scene Wednesday evening June 7th, of a most brilliant and beautifully appointed marriage when Miss Helen Shaw Crenshaw became the bride of Robert Linn Bernhardt, of Salisbury, N. C.

At 8:30 the doors of the church were thrown open and the hosts of friends were ushered in and soon filled the edifice to overflowing. An ante-nuptial orchestral concert with pipe organ accompaniment entertained the guests while waiting the hour of the marriage ceremony, among the selections were: Schubert's Serenade, Traumerli, Angela's Serenade, Evening Star—Tannhauser.

The church was decorated in most perfect taste in white and green, magnolias, carnations and lilies being combined with running cedar, ferns and laurel exquisitely combined with a large festoon of green hanging from the center of the chancel roof directly in front of the altar. The altar had its festal altar cloths of white silk and the floor of the chancel was covered with white cloth as was the main aisle; and the chancel was banked with potted plants, the whole making an exquisite setting for the beautiful nuptial ceremony.

Promptly at the appointed hour of nine o'clock the wedding procession entered to the strains of Lohengrin's Wedding March, played by the orchestra, accompanied by Miss Sallie Williams on the pipe organ, Right Rev. Joseph Blount Cheshire, Bishop of North Carolina, a life long friend of the bride's grandfather, the late Judge Jos. J. Davis and of her father Henry A. Crenshaw, and the assistant, Rev. John London, of Mineral Va., formerly rector of St. Paul's, entered from the vestry room; and at the same time the ushers, Edwin H. Malone, K. K. Allen, H. L. Chandler and G. L. Crowell, all of Louisburg, approached along the side aisles taking their places on either side of the outer chancel, then down the center aisle came the first groomsmen, Mr. Clarence T. Bernhardt, brother of the groom, next came the bridesmaids in couples down the center aisle, their gowns and bouquets having a rainbow effect as follows: Misses Janet Alston, of Tarboro, N. C., and Annie Allen, of Louisburg, gowned in white chiffon over white satin with yellow flowered borders, with yellow satin sashes draped in side effect, catching in graceful folds the billowy chiffon, and each carried shower bouquets of yellow daisies; Misses Helen Waddill, of Danville, Va., Bethany Hicks, of Opelika, Ala., gowned in pink bordered chiffons, made in the same style as the preceding couple, carrying shower bouquets of pink sweet peas, thus carrying on the rainbow effect. Misses Anna Dale Beard, of Washington, D. C., Florence Terrell, of Louisburg, gowned in lavender bordered chiffon, made in the same style as the other bridesmaids costumes, carrying shower bouquets of lavender sweet peas, thus completing the rainbow effect.

Next came down the main aisle in single file the maids of honor, Misses Rosalie Bernhardt, sister of the groom, and Hattie Lee Guess, of Denmark, S. C., Miss Bernhardt was gowned in white satin with Marquisette over drapery, high bodice effect with chrysalis trimmings carrying white Killarney roses, Miss Guess was gowned in white satin and chiffon cloth over drapery, with high bodice effect, with Duchesse lace bands for trimming, carrying white Killarney roses.

As the bridesmaids came down the central aisle the groomsmen came down the side aisles keeping pace with those with whom they waited as follows: Messrs. Henry Hobson, Stahlie Linn, Fred Palmer and Geo. Bernhardt, of Salisbury, Wilbur Cooke, of Spartanburg, S. C., and Will Davis, of Boston, Mass., the party arranging themselves into two semi-circles in the chancel, the groomsmen in full dress well adorned with white boutonniere of Lily of the Valley.

As the bride entered the main aisle on the arm of her uncle and guardian Mr. Jas. M. Allen, of Louisburg, the groom accompanied by his best man, Mr. Paul Bernhardt, of Salisbury, N. C., brother of the groom, entered from the vestry and awaited the bride at the altar.

The bride, as she came down the aisle to the inspiring strains of the wedding march, was lovely, and her tall beautiful figure exhibited her usual graceful poise, giving her a queenly bearing. She was handsomely gowned in ivory white charmeuse over charmeuse satin. The gown was an exquisite creation, with embroidered high bodice, with neck V shaped, elaborately trimmed with with real Rose point and Duchesse lace in wide bands; the embroidered chiffon was pannelled down the front and side with Rose point and Duchesse lace to match bodice. The veil of tulle was worn with a wreath composed of orange blossoms from the bridal wreaths of the bride's great-grandmother, Mrs. Helen Shaw, her grandmother, Mrs. Katherine Davis, her mother Mrs. Katie McA. Crenshaw and new blossoms to complete thus combining tender associations of four generations. The bride carried an exquisite bouquet of Valley Lillies, Lavender Orchids and Maiden's Hair Ferns.

The bride was met at the altar by the groom and the beautiful Episcopal wedding ceremony was most impressively rendered by the assistant, Rev. John London, and the Right Rev. Jos. Blount Cheshire, Bishop of North Carolina; thus uniting two of North Carolina's most popular young people.

The wedding procession then left the church to the happy strains of Mendelssohn's Wedding March, tenderly rendered by the organ and orchestra.

Immediately after the ceremony a reception was given at the home of the bride, on Main street. This handsome home was most beautifully and elaborately decorated. The entire first floor was thrown open for the occasion, the color scheme being pink and green for the parlors, white and green for the dining room, green for the hall and red and green for the library where the wedding presents were displayed. The presents were unusually large and handsome, consisting of a beautiful silver tea service, hand engraved, the present of the bride's mother and her brothers which was completed by a silver table service, the present of the bride's uncle and aunt Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Allen, and a chest of flat silver by the groom's family and many other handsome presents from the hosts of friends too numerous to mention. The groom's present was a circle of hand-some diamonds set in ring.

Those receiving were, at the front door, Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Davis, parlor doors Mr. and Mrs. Wm. H. Ruffin, and in the receiving line in the parlors were, Mrs. Crenshaw, the bride's mother, handsomely gowned in white voile de soi over white satin trimmed with point lace, the bride and groom, Mrs. Arthur Reynolds sister of the groom, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Bernhardt, of Salisbury, Right Rev. Jos. Blount Cheshire, Rev. John London, Mr. and Mrs. Jas. M. Allen and Mr. Hugh Davis.

Receiving the guests at the door of the dining room where refreshments were served by Mrs. John Winston, of Louisburg, assisted by Misses Wessie Lee Dial, of Laurens, S. C., Miss Sadella Guess, of Denmark, S. C., Annie Green and Alba Allen, of Louisburg; those receiving in this room were Mr. and Mrs. R. S. White, of Raleigh, Mr. and Mrs. Jas. A. White, of Augusta, Ga., Mr. and Mrs. H. D. White, of Raleigh, Mr. and Mrs. P. R. White, of Louisburg.

Receiving at the door leading to the punch bowl which was in the hall were Mr. and Mrs. R. G. Allen, Mr. and Mrs. F. H. Allen, of Louisburg; the punch being served by Misses Bethany Hicks and Allen Waddill.

The guests were then ushered into the library where the bridesmaids and groomsmen received. Throughout the reception, the most delightful music was rendered by an orchestra adding greatly to the pleasure of the evening.

The social functions of the evening concluded by a dance given by the bride to the bridal party at the Opera House, enjoyed to the wee, small hours.

The bride and groom took an automobile to Franklinton and then, taking a northbound train left for Boston and Canada for an extended trip.

The bride is a descendant of the distinguished Crenshaw and Davis families, being a daughter of the late Mr. H. A. Crenshaw and a grand-daughter of the late Hon. Jos. J. Davis, Justice of the Supreme Court of North Carolina, and was educated at St. Mary's School, Raleigh, Converse College, Spartanburg, S. C., and Guston, Washington, D. C., and her loveliness of person and character makes her one of North Carolina's most popular and attractive daughters.

The groom is a native of Salisbury, N. C., one of the most prominent young business men of that city, a descendant of the popular Bernhardt family of that section and the Linn family of Massachusetts, for whom the city of that name was called. The bride and groom will be at home in Salisbury after July 1st.

Detter-Hight.

The marriage of Miss Anna Starr Hight and Mr. Eli Earl Detter was solemnized at the Baptist church Wednesday morning June 14th at ten o'clock.

The church presented to the audience a scene most beautiful, bedecked as it was in daises and ferns. Before the bridal party assembled, Miss Williams played several selections. Just as the bride and groom arrived at the door Mrs. Arthur Hynes Fleming sang "Constancy." Then entered the bridal party. Ushers Mr. Samuel Perry Boddie and Mr. Jas. Lee Palmer, Dr. Thos. H. Royster and Mr. Grover C. Wiley. The maid of honor, Miss Johnnie M. Detter, handsomely attired in white marquisette over messaline, and carrying white carnations came down the side aisle and followed; came the bride with her brother, Mr. Hugh Edward Hight. They were met at the altar by the groom with his best man, Mr. Karl Detter Rev. L. W. Swope received the vows of the two and with the beautiful ring ceremony made them one in the sight of God and man.

The bride wore a going away gown of blue with hat and gloves to match and carried a shower bouquet of brides roses and lilies of the valley. She is one of Louisburg's fairest daughters and the many charms of a sweet unselfish disposition have endeared her to the hearts of both old and young.

The groom is a young business man of Bessemer City of sterling worth and stands foremost among the pharmacists of the State.

The out of town guests were Mr. Karl Detter, of Charlotte, Misses Johnnie and Theresa Detter, of Gastonia, Mr. Grover C. Wiley and Dr. Thos. Royster, of Bessemer City.

Mr. and Mrs. Detter left on the 11:30 train for Asheville where they will spend several weeks in Western North Carolina.

O'Donald-Hester.

Perhaps the most beautiful of the June marriages was that of Miss Martha Lewis Hester, of Louisburg, to Mr. John O'Donald, of Lakeland, Florida which took place Wednesday morning at 11:30 o'clock in the Methodist church. The pastor of the church, Rev. R. W. Briley performed the ceremony in a most solemn and impressive manner, the ring ceremony being used.

The bride comes of one of the best families of the state, combining among its members many illustrious statesmen and noted beauties and is herself most attractive. The groom is a prominent railroad man of Lakeland, Florida, and is most highly thought of by all who know him.

After a short trip to northern cities Mr. and Mrs. O'Donald will go to Lakeland where they will make their home.

The bride will be greatly missed by her many friends in Louisburg, who wish for the young couple a happy and useful life.

A more descriptive article will appear next week.

Caught at Spring Hope.

Deputy Sheriff, Geo. A. Bell, of Tampa, Fla., who was on his way from Pautucket, R. I., with W. P. Pounds, who is wanted in Florida for bigamy and forgery, passed through Louisburg Wednesday night. It seems that Pounds made his escape from the officer at Norlina on Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock and made his way across country afoot to Spring Hope where he was detained by the officers of that place until Sheriff Bell could call for him on Wednesday. Sheriff Bell began tracing him as soon as he made his escape, tracing him through the eastern corner of Franklin county on to Spring Hope where he had him arrested and held for him. They retraced through Louisburg and spent the night here leaving on the 11 o'clock train yesterday morning.

County Commissioners.

The Board of County Commissioners met in an adjourned session according to adjournment on Monday morning for the purpose of completing the revision of the jury list. All members were present and after this duty was completed the following other business was transacted.

T. W. Stokes was appointed to take the tax lists for the special school district in Cedar Rock township.

Julius Lehman was reimbursed with $6.70, amount paid for land purchased at the Sheriff's sale for taxes, being the lands of J. J. Boddie, Cypress Creek township, and J. D. Wood, Cedar Rock township, listed through error, or twice.

The Board then adjourned to its next regular meeting.

Youngville Wins.

In a game of baseball here last Friday between Youngville and Louisburg, the visitors took the honors in a score of 18 to 1. The game was not close enough to be very interesting but the playing of the visitors was good. Quite a large crowd was out to witness the game.

Revival Services.

Revival Services started at the Methodist church on last Sunday morning and have been attended by good congregations. Rev. Mr. Bailey, the pastor, is being assisted by Rev. Ramond Browning, of Littleton, who is delivering some fine and forceful sermons. Services are being held in the morning at 9 o'clock and in the evening at 8:15 o'clock. There will be services on Saturday morning at the usual hour. The interest in this meeting is growing and no doubt much good will be accomplished. You are invited to attend these services and to take your friends with you.

W. H. Stallings Dead.

Mr. W. H. Stallings died at his home near Justice on Saturday afternoon in his forty-ninth year, after a short illness. Mr. Stallings was a good citizen and the community as well as his devoted family loses by his death. He served for a number of years as Secretary of the Farmers Alliance for this county and in this position made for himself many friends. He leaves a wife and eight children and a number of friends and relatives. The funeral services were held from his home on Sunday afternoon conducted by Rev. G. M. Duke and the interment was made in the family burying ground amid many friends and relatives who had gathered to pay their last sad tribute.

Misses Wilder Entertain.

On the evening of Friday, June 9th the hospitable doors of Mr. Jim Wilder's beautiful country residence, Crescent Farm, near Franklinton, were thrown open to a host of young people to whom had been conferred the honor of being entertained by his two elegant daughters, Misses Nellie and Annie.

The hall was beautifully ornamented with pot plants, and lighted by delicate red light from the shaded chandelier. The parlor was artistically arranged and decked with ferns and ox-eye daisies. The draperies were of sheer muslin exquisitely bordered with hand painting.

Promptly at the stroke of nine the gay party began to assemble. They were received in the hall by Miss Nellie, who in her usual easy, though graceful manner extended to each and everyone such a hearty welcome, that ere the evening closed it would be one of those events to be long cherished in their memory.

Miss Annie, with her refined grace and dignity received the guests as they entered the front parlor. For a season a social hour was enjoyed by all. Then the hostess introduced the many new and fascinating games, which had been pre-arranged. These were entered into and heartily enjoyed by the jovial party.

From the piano enchanting music was rendered by Misses Annie Wilder, Annie Perry and Lester Ray, and in turn Miss Ethel Perry by her skillful touch on the guitar sent forth airs of old time melodies which were as harmoniously and enthusiastically accompanied by the voices of the sons and daughters of the twentieth century as they were by those of the swains and lassies of ante-bellum days. Mr. Dick Hight also added to the evening's pleasure by his rendition of several pieces on his violin.

When it was announced that the entire party would repair to the dining room, each knight sought his lady with as much genuine gallantry as did the knights of the chivalrous days of yore. The way was led by Miss Annie Wilder and Mr. Ballard Pruitt, down the spacious corridor to an elated dining hall. The long tables were heavily laden with an abundance of flowers, delicious cakes, creams, and pickles of many kinds.

The merry party adjourned at twelve o'clock. It was evident that every one enjoyed it to the utmost by the flattering compliments that were bestowed on and the much felicity wished the two hostesses as they received the farewells of their numerous friends.

The following were present: Misses Annie, Ethel, and Florence Perry, Mamie and Lella Hight, Lester Ray, Janie Ethridge, Lola Fuller, Ida Conyers, Katie Wilder, Eva Moore, Annie Pruitt, Emma Perry, Mamie Dickens, Messrs. Fred, Julian, Hildrey, Thomas, Wilder, Grady, John and Wyatt Conyers, Ballard and Obie Pruitt, Fenner and Dick Hight, Carl Moore, Dixie Barrett, Sid Duke, Roy Parnell, Willie McGhee and Joe Cook.

The Orphans Class.

This Singing Class from the Oxford Orphanage has started on its second tour. The demand for the splendid entertainment which these children give has grown so much that it has become necessary to have the tour of the State divided into three trips instead of two, as has been the case for some years past. This enables them to take two resting spells instead of one which makes the work much easier on them.

The first trip, which was confined to the north-eastern and piedmont section of the State was a successful one, and the children's entertainment received most flattering compliments at every point visited. In fact we are informed that the invitations which come in, begging for a visit of the children, are so numerous as to make it, at times, not a little embarrassing to the management to know how to accept all of them. This is so much the case that after every effort is made by the management to show their appreciation of these invitations, some places have to be left out.

This is a noble cause and worthy of the help of all good people, but we feel sure that all who attend these concerts will get value received for all they pay to hear them.

Fundamental Principles in the Management of Smallpox.

First: The chief aim of public health agencies in the prevention of disease.

Second: The method of public health agencies is to remove the cause, and thereby prevent the occurrence of disease, to anticipate the expensive pound of cure with an economical ounce of prevention.

Third: The prevention of smallpox—the only prevention that the public health services recognize—is a vaccinated population.

Fourth: The ideal method of securing a vaccinated population is by a compulsory vaccination law, and, the more extensive the scope of such a law the better.

Fifth: In the absence of the ideal protection, through compulsory vaccination, we must regard anything tending to maintain or augment an unvaccinated population as a contributed factor to increased liability to smallpox outbreaks, with the expense and worries incident to such outbreaks.

Sixth: The quarantine of smallpox protects only the unvaccinated population.

Seventh: In proportion to the confidence of the unvaccinated in the willingness and ability of the public to protect them, in proportion to their feeling of safety will they remain unvaccinated and contribute their children to augment the smallpox liabilities.

Eighth: Quarantine of smallpox, therefore, encourages and harbors an unvaccinated population, and, is, therefore antagonistic to the public health interest of society.

Ninth: Those who do not accept the foregoing principles in the management of smallpox, or prefer to base their actions on unreasonable and hysterical public sentiment, have a right, under Sections 9 and 14, Chapter 62, Public Laws 1911, to pass laws quarantining smallpox, thereby maintaining and increasing their liability to the disease.

Tenth: There is but one right way for towns, counties, and states to handle smallpox, and that is by rigidly-enforced vaccination law.

By order of the Board of Health of Franklin county.

BEN. T. HOLDEN, Sec'y.

A practical committeeman, in presenting diplomas last June, to a graduating class spoke as follows: "Girls, in presenting you these diplomas, if, by their significance you are led to allow your mother to do all the work, bake all the bread, sweep all the floors because you can read Latin or demonstrate a theorem in geometry, then has your school been a most unfortunate course, and in all the teachings you have ever received at my hands, I trust there has been no lesson that has weaned you from the dish pan. Boys, if from this graduation you go out into the world too nice to carry wood and swill the hogs, if need be, then has our school failed in its purpose and sown the wrong seed."
