Another Order For the Mad Hatter.

President Taft has placed an order for another silk hat, the third one he has purchased on the present trip. He raises his hat to the crowd so often that it does not last long.—Chicago Dispatch.

The engine nearly is worn out, The rails show wear and tear; The choo-choo cars, once new and stout; Are ready for repair.

But on and on and on he goes For miles and miles and miles A-wearing out his voice and clothes And two brand-new silk ties.

From Massachusetts to San Fran. And more than half way back He talked about his tariff, Now frazzled like the track; The frosts fell thick upon the trip But could not chill his smile, Although to wave and lift and tip He needs another tie.

One day beneath the shining sun, With collar wilting fast, The next a mountain top upon in chilling wintry blast, With hat in hand or waved on high, With words berft of guile, He wore it out, and now must buy Another new silk tie.

And where they see that tall tile shrine, His henchmen, standing pat, Make it their oriflamme and sign— The President's silk hat.

But this is true in tale or song, Blank verse of simple rhyme, No hat can last for very long If talked through all the time.

—RICHARD LINTHICUM.

—It's a fine boy at T. C. Harris'. —You will have to "scratch it" 1912 now.

—Christmas week seemed to be a record breaker for marriages in this community.

—Misses Lina and Myrtle High entertained a few friends from 8 to 11 o'clock Friday night in honor of Misses Willie and Albie Simpson, of Wilson.

—Why don't some of the property owners build more houses to rent out? We have heard at least a dozen asking for houses in Franklinton this week. We can't expect people to come to our town unless we can have dwellings and business houses for them.

—The Franklinton Bottling Works has moved from Front street to a building in the bottom, owned by I. H. Kearney, formerly a meat market. Mr. Robert Collins, who is sole proprietor, is a hustler and we think from the looks of the number of crates, bottles, etc., they have a very large trade, and did a big business last year.

—Rachel Yarborough a highly respected colored woman who lives in the western suburbs of town was severely burned on Saturday before Christmas. It seems that she was cleaning up her home for Christmas and swept a paper bundle in the fire which contained powder. But for the timely assistance of Mr. Ed Tippett the house would have burned down.

—There was right much changing and "hustling around" on New Years day here. R. A. Pruitt has moved to the store occupied last year by Mr. Alcock and Alcock has taken the store room formerly occupied by Pruitt till the new brick building is completed on Main street when he will occupy a store room in that building, which they contemplate completing by February 15th. Work is progressing finely on this building and it is going rapidly up.

—Christmas passed off quietly in Franklinton. Very large crowds visited town each day but were quiet. There seemed to be less drinking and "rowdiness" than of former years and the "kids kept up a pretty regular "pop" and general racket with their firecrackers, etc., till a late hour in the night on Christmas day. Now that Christmas is over and the new year entered on its course let our good resolutions which we made on new years morn be cultivated and bring forth much fruit for 1912.

Zollie Furgerson Dead.

Zollie Furgerson, 32 years old, son of Charles Furgerson, of Mount Carmel section, Granville county, died last Wednesday evening at the home of his father, of pneumonia. He was sick only six days. In the death of Zollie a good boy has gone. He was well known in Franklinton where he had many friends. He had been afflicted all his life, but he bore his afflictions with Christian fortitude and patience. In early life he connected himself with the church at Mount Carmel and was a faithful and devoted Christian till death came. He leaves a mother and father and a host of relatives and friends to mourn their loss. The funeral was held from his house where a very large crowd of his friends were present to pay the last tribute of love and respect to their loved one. The burial was at the family burying ground at the late James K. Wright and was conducted by the Junior Order of Wilton, assisted by Rev. W. W. Rose, of this place.

The Literary Lady.

In the course of duty and society obligations a senator one evening was a guest at the house of a man noted for the number of literary people he gathered about him. The senator had been told that the guests would be either authors or people competent to discuss literature from Confucius down to the present day.

Finding himself beside a middle aged but handsome woman, the senator observed that she supposed she was a literary person. She pleaded guilty and added:

"I think the world of irides, and I like Hawthorne's 'Red Rover', and I'm simply mad about Dickens's works."

The senator has never been able to figure out who irides is, but he believes the literary lady meant Ouida.—St. Louis Republic.

One of Nature's Mysteries.

The sodalite light, still one of the unsolved mysteries, has shown very regular pulsations in intensity and form. In a communication to the French Academy, Louis M. Birkenland has pointed out that these variations agree closely with the periods of regular magnetic waves of polar regions, and this would seem to indicate that the sodalite light is an electrical phenomenon. A number of experiments suggest that it may be part of a ring of luminous matter surrounding the sun in the plane of its magnetic equator.

Universal and Eternal.

"Yes, life is universal and eternal, for there is one of its factors—yesterday the moon, today the earth, tomorrow Jupiter. In space there are cradles and tombs. The red carbon stars will soon be dead; the hydrogen stars, like Vega and Sirius, are the stars of the future; Procyon, Capella and Arcturus are the stars of the present. Aldebaran seems to be already an autumn fruit." So said Flammarion.

The Place to Paint.

A party of gunners were painting the guns and wagons of a field battery when a sergeant came up to them. "There will be an inspection tomorrow," he said. "Be sure you paint all those parts which no one can see, for that's just where the colonel is sure to look!"—London Telegraph.

The Aesthetic Beard.

A man does not properly appreciate the limitations of headgear until he grows a beard. A man with a beard cannot take liberties with his hat—Outfitter.

LAST CALL

FOR

COLLECTIONS DURING 1911

New gentlemen, colored men, cracker boys and coons, I want the balance you owe me on this year's account.

I once heard an old gentleman say:
Bad Debts and Bad Bargains Was Hell

Now I don't propose to have any old debts after Christmas. I am going to close up the deal, that is, get ready to have another big Mortgage Sale in January sometimes. Now don't tell me about holding your cotton any longer, I want you to settle because I need my money. Now I know several little stores that have bought seed cotton that did not keep any record of it, I know several men who owe me money who sold cotton that I had a mortgage on and would have them up but they have kin-folks who trade with me and pay me, and I don't want to have any arrearages, but unless I collect a lot of the money owing to me I am going to have a talk with the Solicitor about the business at January term of court. There is no use to have up negroes for shooting craps, and a few sorry negroes for selling whiskey and allow a lot of high church members to run little wet weather stores and buy cotton at half price when they know it was mortgaged and not keep any record as the law requires.

Now save your money and get ready for a big mortgage sale in January, dates to be announced latter.

At this sale I am going to sell all the buggies that people have bought from me and have not paid for, all the horses, mules, wagons, harness, mowers, rakes, disc harrows, cattle, hogs and a lot of house-hold and kitchen furniture. A lot of them owe me small accounts that I have carried a long time and are about as near out as they ever will be and now is the time to close down. Now you fellows who don't want to be closed-out make your arrangements to pay me or get somebody to take up your note. This advertisement will only appear once, after now this space will belong to the Hill Live Stock Co., for later announced sales of mules, horses and buggies on next years time.
