RUDE THOUGHTS FROM THE EDITORIAL PEN

COMFORT.

He was wise who wrote: "Half the sting of poverty or of small length and bredth and magnitude means is gone when one keeps house and eternity of meaning, you would for one's own comfort, and not for the comment of one's own neighbors." Deny it as we will, few of us have the moral force to set up a stand- H.O.M.E. ard of our own, based upon our own incomes and our own particular home envitonments. We commit animal. In fact, most animals are the folly of regulating our expenses by the moome of some one else. If the browns across the street hang up expensive lace curtains, we are discontented until lace curtains have gone up to our windows, no matter how much smaller our income may be than that of the Browns. If the Smiths put down a velvet carpet our neat and pretty ingrain becomes an eyesore to us. We are extremely mindful of what our neighbors will think about many things that should not | concern them in the least. We have no standard of our own. Our cress and even our tables must, be regulated by the standard of others. We have not the courage nor the independence to be indifferent to the comment of our neighbors. This form of moral cowardice is causing many families to live beyond their incomes. They can face debt, and forfeit their self-respect easier than they can face the unfavorable comment of their friends and neighbors. The extent to which this imitation of others is carried would be ludicrous, but it did not bring so much unhappiness in its train. It is trequently the direct cause of discord and discontent and debt that have driven happiness from the family hearthstone. Let us have a standard of our own, based upon our own needs, and let us cheerfully and bravely adhere to golden coin of courtesy? this standard, heedless of that dreadful bugbear: "What will the neighbors say?"

"Where shall I draw the line?" says the anxious parent, who is solicitous for his boy's future. Give the young man the sympathetic companionship which he will find elsewhere if not at home; encourage him to seek elevating and refining associations, impress upon him the fact that many amusements are bad only in connection, with their associations and the atmosphere of temptation which leads to greater evil; demonstrate to him that the principle of "getting somothing for nothing" is bad, wholly bad and if followed will lead to his moral and physical ruin; make home such a bright, congenial place, that he will find more pleasure there than in the haunts of wickedness; more than all else, let him have in you an example of uprightness and moral health. Be sincere, for he can penetrate your disguises and despise you if a > Man is naturally a home-loving heme-loving. And when a man asks a woman to share his life, it is usually taken as a gentle bint that he wants her to make him a home and take a sort of general oversight the of his affairs and a special oversight of humself. He likes to know that she does things for him just for the reason that she loves him, and is interested in him and his well-being. He loves his home more if there is some impress of her personality upon it. He likes best the meal she prepares for him. Of course, he says very little-perhaps nothing-of all this, being a man.

. A gentleman stops at a friend's house and finds it in confusion. He does not see anything to apologize for-"never thinks of such matters." Everything is right, cold supper, cold room, orying children—"per-fectly comfortable!" Good homes, where hu wife has been taking care of the children or attending the sick; and working her life almost out. Then he does not see why things old. The above canbe seen at my shop ean't be kept in order; "there never were such cross children before!" No apologies accepted at home! Oh, why not look at the sunny side it home as well as abroad, and try pleasant words instead of sorely ones! Why not be agreeable at home? Why not use freely that

TEXAS WOMAN GETS RESULTS When the Doctor Failed to Help Mrs. Moncrief, She Helped Herself With Cardui.

Belton, Tex.-In a letter written from this place Mrs. Ethel Moncrief says: "I suffered with womanly troubles ever sibes I first entered wo-manhood. The doctors failed to help, so I began with Cardul. From the first I could see good results, and I kept on taking it. I was relieved of all my dreadful suffering. Cardul has built up ny system, and my friends are all surprised to she the good results I obtained. Cardul is as good a doctor as any woman needs. It can't be beat. I canjot praise Cardul too highly." For more than half a century, Cardul I cannot praise Cardui too highly." For more than half a century, Cardui has been used successfully to prevent unnecessary pains caused by womanly troubles, such as headache, backache, side ache, dragging sensations, etc. Italso acts as a general tonic, for the weak, tired, worn-out womanly system. Whether seriously sick, or simply weak and alling, take Cardui. It blend a willion other. It helped a million others.

Meddlesome persons who are continually prying into other people's affairs and carrying tales between friends and acquaintances create a great deal of mischief and are best contented when they can spread scandal. It seems more natural for them to speak ill of a person than to utter words of praise, and their habit of gossiping becomes so fixed that they can talk scandals almost unconsciously. It is just as easy to say a good word for friends and acquaintances, eyen if not wholly reserved, as it is to speak ill of 50 cents.
