Louisburg needs some manufacturing enterprises.

Is a half dozen objections enough to keep a man out of public office?

The new congress is pressing forward with a pretty good record.

President Wilson is advocating a nation-wide primary for the Presidential nomination.

The name of Mr. W. A. Jones has been suggested for Franklin's next Representative.

The Norfolk-Southern railway has put on regular trains between Raleigh and Charlotte.

With all the new buildings nearing completion Louisburg is beginning to look right "cityfied."

Did you ever notice that the man who cries "ring" or "graft" is trying to get hold of matters himself?

There is more talk about getting Postal telegraph connection for Louisburg. It would be quite a convenience.

From a standpoint of public interest; where should there be any objection to a little friction between the cotton weigher and buyer?

The time is presenting itself when the farmer should be a little careful of those who are so especially interested in their welfare.

If we could get a sufficient amount of capital interested to establish a cotton mill for Louisburg we would be a great deal better off as a town.

About the best investment for the Farmers Union would be to build them a cotton mill and sell the finished fabric rather than the raw cotton. Getting the cash will be easy when they begin in earnest.

The Farmers Union Warehouse is proving of value these days as many farmers are storing their cotton and using their receipts to borrow money on if they should need it. It is serving a purpose that has been long needed in this community.

The extraordinary special session of Congress closed on Saturday and on Monday the regular session was opened. The currency bill however, will not lose its place, but will be among the first to be considered.

Its strange isn't it, a few days ago a man in Louisburg township who lives on a cross road that has not been reached by the force in building roads remarked to a gentleman whose plantation is on one of the best roads in the State, that he would vote against the additional bond issue. The gentleman addressed answered by saying that he had good roads but was willing to pay the little additional tax it would take to give them equal advantages. It seems strange that a man under such conditions would oppose a measure that is intended to give him equal advantages with his neighbors.

A gentleman of Franklinton says there is something wrong in Washington. He says "he knows there is something wrong. Why all the republicans in the county, and some of them mighty good men, men in whom he had the greatest confidence in their word, said that if Wilson was elected President the farmers would have to sell their cotton for 4 cents a pound and their tobacco for 5 and 6 cents a pound. When I sold my tobacco for an average of about 30 cents around, and my cotton for about 13 cents. These men would not tell a lie, so I know there is something wrong. I am going to find out what it is. Just the conditions that exist. Now that these good men who had gone astray have found out that the things they had been led to believe are all bosh, lets see how many will be men enough to come across and join hands with better government.

Younger Set Book Club.

The Younger Set Book Club was entertained Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. A. W. Person. O'Henry was the author chosen for the afternoon. The following interesting programme was rendered.

  - Vocal Solo—Miss Pearl Brinson.
  - The Whirligig of Life (Selection)—Mrs. W. Underhill.
  - Instrumental Solo—Miss Annie Allen.
  - Christmas Gifts (Reading)—Miss Alice Morrison.
- After the programme was finished a tempting salad course was served.

followed by coffee. The following club members and guests were present: Misses Pearl Brinson, Annie Bagley, Elba Henniger, Annie Green, Angie Allen, Eleanor Cooke, Bettie Stallings, Lynn Hall, Alice Morrison, Mary Stuart Egerton.

Mesdames Crowell, Baker, and Underhill.

The club will meet with Mrs. Underhill Monday, December 8. The study of Shakespeare's plays will be commenced at that meeting. The first play to be studied is King Lear and all members are requested to review the play before the meeting as it will add greatly to the enjoyment of the programme.

Baraca Reception.

One of the most enjoyable occasions of the season was the reception by the Baraca Class of the Methodist Sunday School to the business men of Louisburg on last Friday night at Louisburg hotel.

Plates had been laid for forty guests and at the appointed hour the doors to the spacious dining room were thrown open and the guests all entered. The supper consisted of oysters, salads, celery, ambrosia, cake, coffee and was especially relished by the merry party. After supper cigars were served and the speaking began. Mr. Glen L. Crowell, President of the Class was master of ceremonies. Mr. E. H. Malone in a very clear and impressive manner stated the object of the occasion as an effort to assist in bringing as many men together as possible to extend an invitation to join their class and be present at the reorganization on Sunday morning. He was followed by Rev. Mr. Wilcox, who is teacher for the class, whose remarks were especially appropriate and made a strong appeal to the young men to take a part in this movement. The next speaker was Mr. Branham, of Raleigh, general field secretary of the Wesley Bible Class Department of the Eastern North Carolina Conference, who presented the work in detail and in such manner that the workings were thoroughly clear to all. He furnished a lot of statistics that showed a wonderful growth of the organization since its beginning. His address was an interesting and informing document and presented the work in a very acceptable manner. Next came Hon. Thomas W. Bickett, attorney-general who is always welcomed by a Franklin county audience, with his wits overflowing and his humor ready and awaiting. He made a splendid talk and used several personal illustrations that presented the workings of an organization of this kind in a more serious attitude, and importuned the men present to join hands in this movement as it was not only worthy but they would realize the need of their actions when they entered more mature ages. Mr. F. N. Egerton was then presented to the party who with his happy remarks added much to the occasion and registered his endorsement and support to the movement. In all the occasion was a grand success and the officers are to be congratulated for their efforts in giving such an enjoyable evening entertainment to those present. Upon motion a vote of thanks was extended the host for the excellent menu and after being dismissed by Rev. A. D. Wilcox, the party left for their homes feeling much indebted to the Baracas of the Methodist church for the evenings entertainment.

The Wreck.

During the past week it seemed that ill-fate visited the Louisburg railroad. On Saturday evening it seems the boiler sprang a leak at Franklinton and another engine had to be gotten from Raleigh. Upon coming in that night the locomotive ran through the derailing switch that was placed on the yards here to keep the train from running into the street, which necessitated calling out the wrecking crew to put it back on. The wreck train came over early Sunday morning and soon placed it in position on the track. It is said that the wreck was caused by the brakeman forgetting to open the switch when they went out at 5 o'clock and upon returning, he went down to close it and turned the lever without noticing the fact that he was opening instead of closing the switch and the train passed on off the track. The damage, save the expense and trouble of the wrecking train, was only slight.

Harrison-Person.

On Wednesday morning November the 26th at "Oakley" the beautiful old home of Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Alston there took place a wedding of much interest to the many friends of the contracting parties—Mr. Matthew Maurice Person and Miss Mary Burt Harrison.

At 10 o'clock Mrs. K. P. Hill, of Louisburg, an aunt of the bride took her place at the piano and charmingly rendered Lohengrin's wedding march to the strains of which the bridal party entered the grand old parlor as follows: Misses Sallie Taylor, of Louisburg, and Maudie Cole, of Winston-Salem, Misses Jennie Alston, of Louisburg, and Biah Person, of Louisburg, Misses Grace Carter, of Winston-Salem and Sue Alston, of Louisburg.

Then came the groom with his brother, Mr. W. S. Person, followed by the bride and her sister, Miss Willie Harrison. As they took their place under the pretty arch of evergreens, Rev. Mr. Bailey read the words of the marriage ceremony, and in the presence of many friends and relatives the fair young couple were made man and wife.

The bride wore a blue blue "going-away" gown with hat to match and carried a bridal bouquet of bride's roses and maidenhair fern. About her neck she wore a necklace of pearls, the gift of the groom. The maid of honor, Miss Willie Harrison wore blue crepe meteor and carried white chrysanthemums. At the close of the ceremony the bridal party hastened out of the house to a waiting automobile where amid showers of rice and all kinds of good wishes, they left for Franklinton, where they took the north bound train for Richmond, Washington and Baltimore. Miss Harrison is the oldest daughter of Mrs. J. D. Alston, is a young woman of many splendid qualities, and is popular with all who know her.

Mr. Person is the son of Mrs. S. J. Person and is a young man of the best and highest type.

To them both is a heritage of virtuous worth coming as they do from families who number among the truest and best of the great South.

The many and handsome presents received by them were only the attestation of the high esteem in which the young couple were held.
