Stay On The Farm and Be Your Own Boss.

There is one thing we should like to urge very strongly in this issue, Mr. Farmer Boy, and that is that you stay on the farm where you can be your own boss, instead of going off to the city to be somebody's clerk or hired man—that is, unless you have some special marked and definite talent for some particular work.

It is true, of course, that the farmer does not now get all the profit he ought to get—nor all he is going to get—but it is also true that the workingman in the country fares better than the workingman in town. Read all you can, study all you can, and prepare yourself to be a good farmer—a genuinely wide-awake, progressive farmer—and you will, nine chances out of ten, fare far better than if you should go to town.

As we see it, the farmers day is coming. The thought of the world is turned as never before to building up the country. The Government itself which was once interested in protecting manufacturers, developing manufactures, and building up the towns, is beginning to see the source of all prosperity is the farm. But the one best sign is that the farmers themselves are getting aroused and studying their privileges and rights. Already the awakening and organization of the farmers have resulted in untold good, and you ought to resolve now that there shall be a farmer's organization in your neighborhood as long as you live. (If you are 16 years old, join the Farmers Union or whatever other organization is nearest you, and take an active part in it. Speak to your father about it.)

Another thing which insures better times for the Southern farmer is this: For a hundred years until very recently we have had to compete with cheap lands farmers in the West. That is to say, any farmer could go out West and stake out a "homestead," and sell his crops without allowance for land values because his land cost him nothing, or practically nothing. But all that is past. The cheap lands of the West have gone, and now when the Western farmer sells his crops he must add $5 to $10 per acre an allowance for rent or for interest on land values. And because of this fact crops simply can't be sold as cheaply as formerly.

Then too, city populations have increased faster than country populations the whole world over, and it is becoming more and more difficult for the city people to get enough meats and food stuffs. There are several million more people in the United States than there were five years ago, while there are several million fewer meat animals. This is an indication that farm products must go higher, especially livestock.

One of the greatest of the world's students of rural problems declared recently that in the future labor on the farm is going to be better paid than labor in the towns, and we believe he is right. Stick to the farm—The Progressive Farmer.

Severe Attack of Colic Cured.
E. E. Cross, who travels in Virginia and other Southern States, was taken suddenly and severely ill with colic. At the first store he came to the merchant recommended Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. Two doses of it cured him. No one should leave home on a journey without a bottle of this preparation. For sale by All Dealers.

Planing Farm Work Ahead.

As this is read the active season so far as the production of our staple crops is concerned, will be drawing to a close. It is true that some cultivation still remains to be done; but at most the farmer can do little more henceforth toward making the crop. If the present outlook is poor, if stands are bad, and if unfavorable weather conditions appear to have cut yields, we believe in many cases the trouble may largely be attributed to a lack of vegetable matter—humus—in the land and to a lack of adequate preparation. Now that the less strenuous days are here and we have some time to look about us and plan the next year's work, the progressive farmer will begin to seek some way of avoiding a repetition of the losses sustained this year.

Right now one of the most profitable bits of planning any farmer can do is to arrange to plant some clover this fall. If a small patch was grown last year the acreage this fall should be increased, and if none has hitherto been grown, by all means a small patch should be planted. Bear in mind that here we have reference particularly to bur and crimson clovers, two great winter soil builders that have proved successful on practically every well drained soil type in the South. We want to emphasize, too, the importance of getting clover seed early, as it seems almost certain now that the demand will far outrun the supply.

We are here emphasizing this matter of a cover crop of clover because as we have often said before, it is only the farmer with a rich, clover-covered, humus filled soil that is ever to make anything farming. These cover crops offer such a cheap and splendid means of filling the soil with fertility that we believe no man is realizing on his opportunities who fails to grow them. Get in touch with reliable growers and dealers at once and prepare to become a clover grower and soil builder—The Progressive Farmer.

LABORATORY SWAMPED.

More Orders For Anti-Typhoid Vaccine Than Can Be Filled

The State Laboratory of Hygiene is up to its neck with orders for anti-typhoid vaccine. Everybody seems to want to be immunized against typhoid. The laboratory people haven't time just now to even count up the number of treatments sent out, but they estimate that it averages about 9,000 doses a week, or enough to immunize about 3,000 people every week. Within another week they hope to catch up with their orders, and after that they will be able to fill all requests the same day or the day after they are received.

The vaccine is sent out free of charge. The only condition being that people who want to be immunized have their family physician or health officer order the vaccine. The Laboratory will not send the vaccine to a layman, because it has to be injected under the skin and the layman has no means of administering it.

While requests for vaccine pour in from every part of the State, there appears to be record-breaking demands for it in counties having whole time health officers. These men are using it in hundreds lots. Here is a part of a letter sent the State Board of Health from Dr. Washburn, health officer of Nash County.

"My anti-typhoid campaign is about to get the best of me. People are coming in from all sides, and the work has been heavy. The biggest day I have had was last week at Spring Hope. 337 were vaccinated and probably 250 more turned away because the vaccine gave out. I never had a hookworm campaign in which so much interest was shown."

Administering the vaccine is practically painless. It does not hurt nearly so much as being struck with a needle or pin. No open or running sore results as in the case of small-pox vaccine. A slight swelling usually occurs, and some soreness and tenderness, but these begin to subside after twelve or fifteen hours and disappear in from thirty-six to forty-eight hours. Moderate headache occurs in about one person out of twenty, and in rare instances, one per cent or less, this symptom is quite severe. No serious results have ever occurred either in this State or in the hundreds of thousands of cases in the army or navy. Three applications about a week or ten days apart are necessary to produce immunity.

As to efficiency, it may be said that in the army where statistics are available anti-typhoid vaccination has reduced the typhoid case rate to less than one per cent of what it was prior to vaccination, and the typhoid death rate was entirely abolished last year.

The length of immunity conferred by the vaccine is not known, but it is thought to be at least four years. At least it is well worth one's trouble to be vaccinated when we recall that 1,200 North Carolinians died of typhoid last year and about 15,000 were sick for several weeks with heavy loss from doctor's bills and other expenses.
