REAL OPTIMISM.

Sanatorium Patients Give Expression to Their Faith in Legislature in Pollyanna Song.

Pollyanna never played the glad-game so well herself as the patients of the State Sanatorium. She couldn't, though she created it. The game never meant as much to Pollyanna in all her heart yearnings and unselfish devotions as it means to those at the Sanatorium taking "the cure." It serves as a fit expression of their optimism and gratitude and furnishes a bright outlook on life regardless of disease and adversity. The Sanatorium patients feel it and, furthermore, they apply it to their every day life and needs. It's not unusual to hear the Pollyanna song being sung about the place with a local application and personal adaptations. For instance, they are now singing it this way:

If patients have to go away Because they got so fat, We all may do the same some day, And we'll be glad of that.

(Chorus.)

And we'll be glad of that; And we'll be glad of that; We all may do the same some day, And we'll be glad of that.

(Chorus.)

We're tired of oleomargarine, It will not make us fat; We want more cows to give us cream, And we'll be glad of that.

(Chorus.)

Like sardines in a little can We're packed away so fat, But when we get our new "State San" Oh, we'll be glad of that!

(Chorus.)

'Twill be a building fine and tall; We won't know where we're at, With room for one and all, And we'll be glad of that.

(Chorus.)

The Legislature's meeting now; We'll pass around the hat; We're sure they'll do the proper thing, And we'll be glad of that.

(Chorus.)

And we'll be glad of that, And we'll be glad of that; We're sure they'll do the proper thing, And we'll be glad of that.

Falling Hair Mean Dandruff is Active

Save your hair! Get a 25 cent bottle of Danderine right now.

Thin, brittle, colorless and shaggy hair is mute evidence of a neglected scalp; of dandruff—that awful scurf. There is nothing, so destructive to the hair as dandruff. It robs the hair of its lustre, its strength and its very life; eventually producing a feverishness and itching of the scalp, which if not remedied causes the hair roots to shrink, loosen and die—then the hair falls out fast. A little Danderine to-night—now—any time—will surely save your hair.

Get a 25 cent bottle of Knowlton's Danderine from any drug store or toilet counter, and after the first application your hair will take on that life, lustre and luxuriance which is so beautiful. It will become wavy and fluffy and have the appearance of abundance, an incomparable gloss and softness; but what will please you most will be after just a few week's use, when you will actually see a lot of fine, downy hair—new hair—growing all over the scalp.

The Last Laugh.

William Allen White's story "What's the matter with Kansas?" in the Saturday Evening Post, has been, by this time, pretty thoroughly discredited. Many of the statements made by the gifted writer have been found to be inaccurate and the major part of his arguments have been punctured until they are seive like.

Evidently the author is proud of Kansas, or wants people, especially Kansas people, to believe he is. Judging from his statements Kansas had drawn into its confines the double-distilled extract of everything that was good; thrust out every atom of badness and then build a high fence around a regular little Heaven-on-earth.

He boasted about the big crops of Kansas, the per capita wealth of Kansas, the number of automobiles in Kansas and almost succeeded in making everyone believe that Kansas was wholly rich as well as richly holy. But he overdid it. And his home town, Emporia, is the goat.

For years the College of Emporia has been largely supported by means of donations from wealthy easterners, who imagined they were assisting "a poor little College on the wind-swept prairies." When these rich patrons read Mr. White's clever, but misleading article they withdrew their subscriptions. This year the College of Emporia must "look to home" for the annual donation of $200,000 which used to come out of the East. Washburn College, originally a Congregational school, has been, from the beginning, supported by the generosity of wealthy members of that section living in New England. She too has been told that she must look elsewhere for her $200,000 annual donation and that a rich State like Kansas ought not to be begging for support for her institutions.

So "Bill" White is not as popular in Emporia as he was the week after "What's the matter with Kansas?" was published.

But what all we've done with Fanny An' Looie an' Dewey? An' Spot, Spot, King an' Hawg? How'll we get set of Annie An' Downie an' Brownie, Of Nigger, Jigger, Ninnie, Ray an' Tray? Why, we wont have a dawggone dawg! E. F. McIntyre.

Many splendid bargains were offered during this sale and it will continue through the month of February. $50 in Gold will be given at the close of the sale now going on.

A very commodious dwelling is being erected on Warren Avenue, which will add much to the appearance of that part of the town.

The Betterment Association is doing splendid work, meeting every first Saturday and third Wednesday. The Motto of this band of community improvers is "To the Stars through difficulties." Judging from the earnest efforts being put forth the goal will be successfully reached.

The Grouch.

The Great Creator in His wisdom created many men of many minds and temperaments knowing that if the sons of men were alike in wishes and desire it would lead to unending strife.

He created well, for man is the noblest work of God. But in some way there crept into the world a creature God did not create—a thing self-made, be it male or female, that is hated, despised and abhorred; a thing self-created, self-pitied and abnormally self-loved.

This self-created creature is the chronic grouch that walks here and there in every town and community searching for happiness—that he may destroy it. Flowers and children, because they represent beauty and love, he detests. He reads as he runs that all men are liars and all women but creatures of evil.

In summer he reviles the bright sunshine and hates the green hills. In winter he reviles the cleansing snow and the purifying frost. The bitterness of gall and wormwood is within his heart.

Children flee from him and his wife can be classed among the martyrs. Men shun him and the world hates him. From an early age he walks this earth spreading unhappiness and unbelief—a maker of evil and discord.

Let us throw the X-ray of self-examination into our own heart and search out the little microbe that has a tendency to multiply and produce, in time, the hated grouch. There is too much love and sunshine in this old world of ours to spoil it with the canker of selfishness.
