Mr. Ragland Writes Interesting Letter on This Subject.

Madison Heights, Va.—Mr. Chas. A. Ragland, of this place, writes: "I have been taking Theford's Black-Draught for indigestion, and other stomach troubles, also colds, and find it to be the very best medicine I have ever used."

After taking Black-Draught for a few days, I always feel like a new man." Nervousness, nausea, heartburn, pain in pit of stomach, and a feeling of fullness after eating, are sure symptoms of stomach trouble, and should be given the proper treatment, as your strength and health depend very largely upon your food and its digestion.

To get quick and permanent relief from these ailments, you should take a medicine of known curative merit.

Its 75 years of splendid success, in the treatment of just such troubles, proves the real merit of Theford's Black-Draught. Safe, pleasant, gentle in action, and without bad after-effects, it is sure to benefit both young and old. For sale everywhere. Price 25c. N. C. 12.

THE WORK OF FASHIONIS NEVER DONE

Blouses Newly Collared and Cuffed, and Skirts Uneven at the Bottom.

New York, July 7.—This is a season of many surprises. Each day sees a new fashion detail evolved—if it is only a cuff of the caprice of a hem. Style proceeds in a never-ceasing evolution, each fancy suggesting yet another, which is straightway put before the public. Fixed seasons for changes of fashion are entirely disregarded and, here in the midsummer, we find such features as Quaker collars, gauntlet cuffs and uneven skirts completely upsetting the equilibrium of established styles.

The soft low collar comes as a benediction after the up-to-the-ears stocks. The swift reverse of the style from one extreme to the other is more than a mere whim of fashion. Women by their grudging homage to the high collar, were, as ever, the wedge that forced the mode. Indeed, the American woman has been so humored by past fashions, it is not surprising that she refuses to be martyred to the stock. The broad Quaker and deep-pointed Puritan of Swiss, and the lesser collars grow out of these two, are far more likely styles for the warm weather.

If you intend being really well dressed, wear one of these and look to your cuffs as well as your collar. "Gauntlet" is the live-wire at present—the last word in cuffs. There is no need to describe the style the name implies its sleeve-protection appearance. To-day this is the extreme: to-morrow, when its newness is rubbed off by wearing, it will join the ranks of the regular summer fashion along with the organdy and Swiss turnback cuffs that match the Quaker and Puritan collars and the sheer inner sleeves that show below the "Castle" sleeves of taffeta.

Skirts mark the divergence of the mode. These defy all known rules of Fashion and dip and hike; in fact, do everything, except what is expected of them. Open-front overskirts are longer than the foundations they are worn with, and fly back in the wind to show bright inside facings. Full dress skirts have bound, cavalier slashes around the lower edges, and even tailored skirts show deep points front and back. These do not need even the excuse of a Flatiron or a Times Square white kid and the black velvet with white straw or white flowers. However, the fad of winter hats in summer-time is not taking to the extent that it did last summer, when black velvet in July was unanimous. The outdoor girl sticks to the leghorn and open-work "riksha" hat, although, after one coat of "tattooed" tan, she has learned to face the brim of the latter. In direct contrast with the domestic silks and velvets, Paris introduces midsummer hats of white crepe de Chine, made in large sailor shapes, to wear with the light summer dresses.

The Crinoline Influence Again Apparent in a New Model with Taffeta Coatee and Organdy Skirt.

Fashions equalize themselves—as hats and dresses grown frivolous, footwear returns to safe and sane black patent leather. This is shown in the most expensive long-vamp pumps, with curved heels and large square Colonial buckles or broad instep-straps. A very dark navy blue leather is featured in a smart tipless, side-laced tie, but this is worn only with a blue suit or dress. It is even rumored that heels will relinquish their curve by fall—if not all shoes at least in street footwear.

Nothing endures long in these days. A woman never wants the same thing twice, not even a shoe, a hat or a glove of the same design as her neighbor bought last week. It must be just as smart, but different. Such movements as "The Dress That Won't Go Out of Date" instigated by the Polimurjel cult do not act as a check, but are merely incentives that urge the designers to renewed efforts.
