"Geneva Wilder."
On Sunday, October 14, 1918 the Death Angel entered the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Wilder, taking from them their only girl and oldest child, Geneva Wilder, age 12 years. She had suffered a long attack of Whooping Cough which culminated in influenza and pneumonia. By the genuine sweetness of her manner and sterling integrity of her character she drew closely to herself a large number of friends, both young and old. To say that she was a brilliant pupil would be measuring her ability by quite a small scale. She was a general favorite among her playmates and always their leader. Being recognized as such by her marked skill in everything attempted. She had been so successful as to win the scholarship medal in her grade for the past three years. This speaks for itself what might have been accomplished if this lovely flower had not been cut down in its youth, and had been allowed to grow to maturity. It seems almost impossible that so small a child could be an accomplished musician but such she surely was. None the same age could excel her in this accomplishment and few who were much her senior. The loving kindness she always showed toward her mother, father and brothers, bespeak the beautiful life she lived. She was reared in a christian home and herself was a true christian although being so young. She had never formally joined the church. Her loved ones tenderly laid her to rest in the little churchyard cemetery a Mt. Gilead Christian church. Bear this great loss tenderly, Mother, Father and Brothers, live a true christian life, so you may live eternally in Heaven with dear Geneva.
