Look out or the dog law will get you.

Town politics don't seem to be very inviting this year.

The confusion in the change to the new time has about been eliminated.

There is being some discussion of a Recorder's Court for Franklin County.

Since "Mum" is the word in town politics you may look for a sensation before the time for the primary.

Secretary Baker is scheduled to sail for France Monday to direct the winding up of affairs of the United States army in France.

Really will a recorder's court be worth the additional trouble and expense? If so and if it will speed up the trial of cases let's have it.

Another two years has passed and no town statement has been published. Mr. Voter it is up to you to say in your support in the primary whether you approve of such a course or not.

A great deal of complaint is being made about the sale of cider by many of our country stores. From reports received here these ciders are equal to moonshine in stirring up trouble and when they become mixed with "monkey rum" and other concoctions they are unsafe for a community. Our country merchants who are selling these drinks would do well to cut them out before they become involved in some unpleasant trouble.

It is again right square up to the voters of Louisburg. If you are in earnest about having the town make public its financial transactions you have another opportunity to select men who will do it for your officers next year. If you don't use your opportunity to advantage then you should stop criticising your officers for not publishing their statements or any other act that in your opinion is not exactly right and legal.

Two tickets for Commissioners have been suggested by two of Louisburg's citizens, for the coming primary, as follows: First—P. R. White, A. W. Person, E. S. Ford, M. S. Clifton, Ben T. Holden, F. W. Hicks. Second—M. S. Clifton, Ben T. Holden, E. H. Malone, W. H. Ruffin, E. S. Ford, C. C. Hudson. These are among Louisburg's most popular, successful and level headed citizens who would measure up to the people's expectations.

Among those of our citizens now being mentioned for Commissioners are the following: M. S. Clifton, Ben T. Holden, E. H. Malone, W. H. Ruffin, E. S. Ford, Dr. H. G. Perry, A. W.

To Install Flour Mill.
Mr. W. M. Person informs us that he would begin the installation of a big modern flour mill capable of producing a barrel of flour from two hundred and fifty-eight pounds of wheat, at Moore's pond this week. He will also have a large capacity corn mill attached.

Perry, Jr., J. D. Hines, A. W. Person, H. L. Candler, C. C. Hudson, P. R. White. There are some in this list that we know would not take active part in a primary, but if they were elected would give the town an administration that would be creditable to both themselves and the citizens. It is time the citizens were considering who they will have to conduct their town affairs another two years.

Shem Blackley Cooke.
Sad was the news that told of the death of Sergeant Shem Cooke. Some time in September he was wounded in a battle of the great world war, and never recovered of the wounds. All he had hoped for, all he had, he gave to save mankind himself he scorned to save. He left his home in perfect health; He looked so young and brave, We little thought how soon he'd be Laid in a soldier's grave. Never could it be more truthfully said than in this instance, that "Death loves a shining mark." Possessing a personality of unusual charm, and a remarkably unselfish and lovable disposition, he endeared himself to all who came in contact with him, and a host of friends are left to mourn their loss.

Oh! how sad it is to give him up and think he passed away so far from home and from the ones who loved him so dear. We do not know the path he bore. We did not see him die; We only know he went away And only said good-bye. But God sent his angel down and comforted him, and relieved him of his sufferings. Took him home to Heaven where no sorrows ever enter and no farewell tear is shed. Sorrow is a gentle tie that binds human hearts in a common brotherhood and makes all the world akin; and though the bereavement is not healed by human touch, it is greatly softened by being shared with sympathetic friends. In this world war the loss of one mother's son is shared by every other mother in the land. Wherever the tidings is carried, for not one knew when the brave boys sailed away just which mother's son would not return.

When the trumpet first sounded his country's alarms, he left his dear fireside and sprang to his arms. He fought, bled and died, to preserve freedom's flag. Now rest undisturbed by the turmoil of war. Sleep on honored dead e'er remembered you'll be. While zephyrs blow across the land, come free. Loving hands will erect, to your memory towers, and cover them over with beautiful flowers. Sleep, peacefully sleep in your dreams, never more, will your rest be broken by night-mare or war, nor re-veille call you at still morning hours. Sleep on covered over with beautiful flowers.

Not for self, but for Justice
And for Honor true, and bright;
'Twas for these he gave his heart's blood
When he perished in the light.
