IS THE SWEET POTATOE STORAGE HOUSE A SUCCESS!

Raleigh, N. C. May 20.—Nash County farmers are leaders in North Carolina in the saving of sweet potatoes during winter by proper storage methods. Over 25 houses were constructed here last year, according to government plans, and with the assistance of County Agent G. D. Burroughs of the Agricultural Extension Service. In every house the loss of potatoes was very small, while practically every owner conceded that the building was one of the most valuable on his farm from the standpoint of results obtained.

Collecting statistics on this matter recently, the Division of Horticulture secured several voluntary letters from Nash County farmers giving their experiences.

Mr. N. B. Boddie, of Nashville, who has a 1500 bushel capacity house, stored 1,000 bushels in 1918 and kept them through the entire winter until this spring, with an approximate loss of one percent. In writing to Mr. Matthews, he states, "I consider it to be one of the most profitable investments that I have ever made on the farm in every sense of the word. All of my neighbors are exceedingly well pleased, and will consequently build for the coming season."

Mr. W. W. Westray of Spring Hope, has a 500 bushel capacity house in which he kept 485 bushels, with a loss of one-half of one percent last year. He found that his storage house was not difficult to operate, and says, "I consider a sweet potato house one of the best investments that a man can make. It is the only way to succeed in keeping sweet potatoes. My neighbors think that it is the only way."

Mr. T. L. Bland, of Rocky Mount states, "I consider the potato storage house of government plan one of the best improvements that can be put on a farm. I have stored from 800 to 1,000 bushels of potatoes every year for the past 15 years, and have never been able to save over 25 to 33 percent until this year." Mr. Bland stored 500 bushels last fall, with a loss of less than 5 bushels. He has found that the storage house is a good investment, and is easy to operate.

Mr. O. K. Taylor, of Whitakers, says that he would not be without his house for several times its cost. Last year he stored 750 bushels, with a loss of less than three percent.

Mr. C. D. Jones of Rocky Mount stored 400 bushels last year, at a loss of about 3 percent, and states that his house is one of the best investments that he could possibly make.

Mr. R. H. Ricks of Rocky Mount converted an old house on his farm into a sweet potato storage house, by directions furnished him through County Agent G. D. Burroughs. He kept 500 bushels in it last year, at a loss of less than three percent. He states that the house is a good investment, and is easy to operate.

These experiences show that where a storage house is on the farm, sweet potatoes may be easily kept during the winter and sold in the spring at a good price, because the market is not glutted. According to Mr. Matthews, their construction, wherever sweet potatoes are grown, should be encouraged.

increased more than 80 percent during the past few years, and it now ranks second in value among the other vegetables in the United States. The value of the 1917 crop reached the huge sum of $90,000,000, while that of the 1918 crop is estimated at almost $117,000,000. This shows that a much greater interest should be taken in the crop, and that instead of allowing the roots to spend their winters in the crude primitive dirt banks in the open fields where many decay, they should be put up in specially designed and constructed storage houses where the temperature and ventilation may be regulated, that the crop may be marketed with practically no loss at any season of the year.

Plans for constructing a house, and bulletins about the sweet potato may be had on application to the Agricultural Extension Service, Raleigh, N. C.
