ADVERTISE.

Don't complain about the profits. When your business takes a slump, while competitors around you seem to have you on the jump; don't expect the buying public to step up and patronize a firm they never heard of—Come to life—and Advertise.

Don't blame the weather and the times when patronage is poor. While across the street your neighbor seems to prosper and endure. Just investigate his methods and you'll find to your surprise he's a chap that knows his business. And the way to—Advertise.

Perhaps you are an advocate of something "just as good" because it pays a little more. Your profit, you include. But if you'll only take the time to stop and analyze, you'll find it pays to get in line with those who—Advertise.

You may know of distant planets. Never heard of here. You may find the "Youthful Fountain" that the world is searching for. You may stock your piece of business with the finest merchandise. But the world will never know it—Not until you—Advertise.

—Exchange.

Mr. Vanhan, Farmer, Tells How He Lost All His Prize Seed Corn.

"Sometimes I sent away for some pedigree seed corn. But in a hurry I sent it on a rope suspended from a tree. It got so all the birds and cats they hid because I got 5 lead shrapnels in the morning after trying RAT-SNAP. Three sizes 25c, 50c, $1.00. Sold and guaranteed by Allen Bros."

Saves the Children for the Navy

Tennessee Rock Lime

Dr. Thorne, of Ohio, has well said: "When the land begins to need lime, it is a waste of time, energy and money to continue to cultivate it until this need is supplied; for the economic use of every other fertilizing material, including manure, depends upon the lime supply."
