ROBIN COOPER, SLAYER OF CARMACK, IS FOUND DEAD NEAR NASHVILLE

Nashville, Tenn., Aug. 30.—Robin J. Cooper a Nashville attorney, whose trial for the killing of former United States Senator Edward W. Carmack during the celebrated pistol duel between his father, Col. D. B. Cooper, and Carmack in 1908 attracted country-wide attention, has been murdered here under mysterious circumstances.

Cooper's body was taken from Richland creek today soon after his blood-stained automobile had been found on a bridge near his home in the fashionable Belle Meade park section. The skull had been crushed, but there were evidences that a violent struggle had taken place before the fatal blow was struck.

A coroner's inquest late today developed no clues to the murderer or murderers, but the police are proceeding on the theory that Cooper was lured from his home by persons determined to rob him. This theory is based largely upon evidence that Cooper drew $10,000 from a bank a short time before he disappeared last Thursday night.

The authorities assume that the young lawyer was lured from his home to the secluded bridge over the creek and there done to death. The condition of his clothing indicated that he had been dragged some distance before he was thrown into the water. Physicians who examined the body said the small amount of water found in the lungs was evidence that Cooper was dead when dropped into the creek.

Mrs. Cooper, who is a daughter of Milton H. Smith, president of the Louisville and Nashville railroad, has been visiting relatives in Louisville, Ky., and her absence accounts for the fact that the disappearance of her husband did not become known until today.

There was no evidence that the Cooper home had been robbed after the murder, and the police have expressed that the murderers could have expected that the lawyer would have any great sums on his person. His empty pocketbook, however, was found in the bottom of the automobile.

Governor Roberts has offered a reward of $500 for the arrest and conviction of the murderers of the lawyer. This later was supplemented by offer of a similar amount by the family. The police admit that they have nothing on which to work in solving the mystery.

The Carmack tragedy, the most notable in the history of Tennessee, grew out of the Carmack-Patterson race for governor in 1908, in which Col. D. B. Cooper, father of Robin J. Cooper, was one of Patterson's closest advisers. In the fatal encounter, which occurred on an uptown street of Nashville November 9, 1908, the son fired the shot which ended Carmack's life, and in the shooting was himself wounded. Father and son were convicted of murder in the second degree in the lower court, but on the appeal of the case to the Supreme court, the verdict was reversed as to the son, the judges standing three to two. The verdict as to Colonel Cooper was sustained, three to two, but before leaving the capital the father was pardoned by Governor Patterson. The case against Robin J. Cooper, when it came up again in the Davidson county criminal court was dropped.

THE TRAVELING MAN'S FIRST AID

This One Found Something That Took The Misery Out Of Life On the Road.

Those who travel regularly for business must be of good disposition and robust constitution to withstand the strain of sleeping in different and different hotels, eating here and there and living out of a hand bag. D. E. Oakes, a widely known traveling man who lives at 312 N. Forbis St., Greensboro, has made traveling more of a pleasure, and this is the way that he does it:

"Life on the road is easier for me now, since I found a way to keep myself in perfect physical condition. For six or seven years I have carried around with me a bad case of indigestion and stomach trouble. I was very nervous, could not sleep and eating was out of the question with me, as it made me sick to look at food. In Peplac I found a remedy that gave me relief and now I sleep fine, indigestion has left me, I can eat anything I want and am not sick afterward. I consider Peplac indispensable to good health and would never permit myself to be without it."

Peplac is sold and recommended in Louisburg at Scoggins Drug Store; Winston-Blanks Drug Co., Youngsville; T. E. Holding Wake Forest; and W. W. Parker at Henderson. Buy a bottle today it has helped others and will do the same for you.
