

NURSE TALKS OF HOSPITAL WORK

Tells How She Keeps Herself in Proper Condition To Discharge Her Duties.

Those who minister to the sick must be fitted for this work. They must have good nerves, patience and ex-the duties of a trained nurse. Mrs. Dora Smith, a popular nurse at St. Luke's Home, knows the duties and requirements of a competent nurse and keeps herself in condition for her work. She says:

"Indigestion and heart trouble impaired my nervous system and caused me to become excited at the least thing. A cup of coffee was like poison to me and was sure to be followed by distressing heart trouble. I could not properly digest my food and felt miserable at all times. I took Peplac and now, I can even drink coffee without any nervousness. I feel much better and derive real pleasure from my work. Peplac has made life worth living for me."

Peplac is sold and recommended in Louisburg at Scoggins Drug Store; Winston-Blanks Drug Co., Youngsville; T. E. Holding Wake Forest; and W. W. Parker at Henderson. Buy a bottle today it has helped others and

This life contains many a humanized diamond in the rough; and, likewise, many a highly polished piece of glass.

TO CONTROL SPIRITS OF EVIL

Chinese Have Distinct Object in Erecting Pagodas, and Country Is Garlanded With Them.

Chinese pagodas are the work of the Buddhist church almost exclusively. The most beautiful specimens are are the most numerous. Every important Chinese and Manchurian city is garlanded with them. From the walls of Peking a dozen pagodas and towers may be counted within the city, and with a good glass a half-dozen may be seen rising from the surrounding plain.

Chinese have appropriated the pagoda as a counterpoise to evil, and use it subject to their rules of geomancy. At a city in Tung, in the Fehin plain, a region in past years visited by earthquakes, there is a prominent pagoda, which at one time had 1,000 bronze bells suspended from its eaves, most of which are still in place. The people have this story of its construction:

A water owl lives underground at this place, and when he shakes his tail it causes earthquakes. Geomancers located the end of his tail, and the pagoda was built on it to hold it down. However, they could not locate his head, and thus he is still able to wink his eyes, which causes tremblings of the earth. When his eyelids have been accurately located a second pagoda will be built.

Pagodas range in height from 20 to over 200 feet, and are of various shapes, such as round, square, hexagonal, etc. They always have an odd number of stories, ranging usually from seven to nine, and sometimes with eleven, or even thirteen.

ORGAN WAS ONCE UNDER BAN

Scottish Presbytery, Less Than a Century Ago, Declared Its Playing Contrary to Law.

The organ, as an addition to the musical service in the Presbyterian church, was under a ban less than a hundred years ago, according to a writer in the Manchester Guardian, recalling the first organ made by James Watt. It was a small chamber organ, in form like a harmonium, which he built for his own use. When he moved to Birmingham the organ was left behind and came into the possession of the minister and session of St. Andrew's church, Glasgow, of which Watt had been a member. The instrument was used for weekly choir practices, but was shrouded under a green baize cover on Sundays, as though in disgrace. In 1806 permission to use it was refused by the city council. Then one Sunday afternoon, by pre-arrangement, the church attempted to use the organ without the council's consent. An organist from a neighboring Episcopal church was called in. He played the organ while the last psalm was sung. There was so much excitement over the affair that a bitter controversy followed. The presbytery declared it was contrary to law and the constitution of the established church, and it was prohibited in all churches and chapels within their bounds. Sixty years later St. Andrew's church got its first organ peacefully.

Had Gas Mask for Watch.

If the Germans had had a better sense of efficiency and had spent more time on the things that really counted, they might have fared better. For instance, many German officers wasted hours hanging on their dugout walls curtains and "God Bless Our Home" pictures, which were not at all appreciated when they were captured by the allies.

One careful German soldier had a gas mask made for his watch. This energy was wasted, for the watch is now in America.

The gas mask is simply an outside case—one face of it glass so that the time will show through it—which fastens tightly about the watch and allows nothing to go in or out.

Of course a watch does not need a respirator, nose-clip, mouthpiece or chemical box. — Popular Mechanics Magazine.

Got His Receipt.

Humorous incidents in connection with the war are not yet exhausted and Jan Hay gives his one in his latest book, "The Last Million," in connection with the capture of a village from the Germans. A detachment of infantry arrived at the village only to find that a tank had beaten them by four minutes in the race to the market square. The usual young officer was in charge, and when the major came along he handed the village over to his superior officer, and then shyly asked for something to show, "just to show, sir, that we were here first." The major thought he could fix that, and solemnly wrote out a receipt: "Received from the officer commanding British tank King Boy one village, in poor condition."

Right Spirit.

"Mr. Grabcohn spent thousands of dollars on his daughter's education. She attended some of the most expensive schools in America and Europe. She was taught to sing, to paint, to play various musical instruments and to speak three or four languages." "Fine." "But let me tell you how shamefully she repaid her father's tender care. She came back home and married his chauffeur!" "Splendid! A girl with her wealth and accomplishments might have married a broken-down duke." — Birmingham Age-Herald.
