Prayer For a Little Home.

God send us a little home,
To come back to, when we roam.
Low walls and feeted tiles,
Wide windows a view for miles.
Red firelight and deep chairs,
Snow white beds upstairs—
Great talk in little nooks
Dim colors rows of books.
One picture on each wall
Not many things at all!
God send us a little ground
Tall trees standing round.
Home flowers in brown sod
Overhead, Thy stars, O God.
God bless, when winds blow
Our home and all we know.
—Florine Boone, in The Spectator

The following comes from a lady in Cedar Rock township who wishes it printed without her name:
A Pretty and Inexpensive Bedroom.
I wish to tell you how I am planning my bedroom which I think will be pretty and simple but inexpensive. The woodwork is to be cream. The walls are to be papered in a cream striped paper with a narrow border in yellow roses.
The art square is to be a rag rug in brown with a deeper brown border. Rag rugs are inexpensive and sanitary and can be easily washed.
The curtains are to be unbleached muslin. Around the bottom and outer edge is to be a three-inch cretonne border of yellow roses. The covers for dresser, table and bed are to be of the unbleached cloth to match the curtains. The furniture is to be cream. I expect to paint an old oak suit with ivory enamel.

We have a very good course in home-making planned for this year. We hope every housewife will meet with some club to study with us. The wide-awake woman who has her own work to do owes it to herself and family to study and plan to have things pretty and convenient. It doesn't take so much money to have an attractive home if one will get information on the subject and make plans for each room. It is surprising to see the number of women who have kept house for years and have never given the important subject any study.

It was our privilege to go through a four room log house sometime ago that showed every evidence of study and good housekeeping.

The entire house was screened. Each floor was stained a dark brown and kept in good shape with an oil mop which the wife made. A little ochre had been added to the white-wash so instead of a glaring white the walls were cream. All the curtains were plain white scrim. In the sleeping rooms the bedsteads were white enamel and the dressers plain oak. Cottage style. The living room was most interesting. There was one large dark brown rug on the floor. The mantel held a pretty plain clock and a plain vase or two. There were two natural color wicker chairs two old high back rockers and one split bottom chair and a wide window seat. The wooden chairs and the window seat were all painted brown. There were bright cretonne cushions on the chairs and window seat. A writing table and a built-in book case were made by the owner and painted brown. There were a few potted plants and one or two pictures to brighten the room. We noticed one picture in particular. A Sistine Madonna in sepia with a narrow cream mat and small brown frame. The Victoria was in fumed oak. The records were well selected, not one "jazz" record did we hear while there. One end of the cook room which adjoined the living room was used for a dining room. A home made table painted brown with cheap chairs stained to match were used here. The table cloth had been removed and a cream table runner with a stenciled border put in its place. A Christmas cactus in full bloom brightened up the entire room. The serving table was made from an old washstand. This was used in carrying food from the work table to the eating table. A homemade screen covered in cretonne to match the living room chair cushions, partly concealed the cooking department. The cook room was arranged for the convenience and comfort of the housewife. The stove had a large reservoir. A small galvanized sink, painted white, by the man of the house was installed under a window. The drain pipe from this ran under the ground into the garden. A large barrel outside the window furnishes water to the sink. This barrel is filled each morning by one of the older boys, thereby saving hundreds of stops and the strain on the mother. This simple water system cost $7.50. The owner expects to install a well pump later and send the water to the barrel by a hose.

The homemade work table is on common bed rollers. This enables the owner to move it to suit her convenience. There are two built-in cabinets near the stove for china and cooking vessels. A low rocker, homemade stool and several shelves complete the furnishings in this convenient little kitchen. The entire furnishings for this home cost less than $300.00. Yet it is a beautiful home with the true home spirit.

Some one has said
"A house is built of brick and stone, of sills and post and piers.

But a home is built of loving deeds that stand a thousand years.

A house though but a humble cot, within its walls may hold

A home of priceless beauty, rich in love's eternal gold."

Let us keep this in mind as we study this profession of home-making. All of us cannot have houses elegant, ly equipped and furnished with every comfort and convenience but we may make the most of what we have though it be a log cabin and have a home that stands for rest, comfort, health, inspiration and for the spiritual development of the family.

The Woman's Club at Roberts has a small but very enthusiastic membership. On Wednesday several of the women walked through the snow and ice to attend the regular meeting which was held at the home of Mrs. J. R. Tharrington. The subject of a round table discussion was: How the Woman's Club Can Help the School. The club will meet next with Mrs. J. S. J. Timberlake at the regular time.

MRS. MOLLIE JONES DEAD.

The news of the death of Mrs. Mollie W. Jones, wife of the late Santa A. Jones, of Spring Hope, N. C., will be heard with sorrow by her many friends in the State.

A daughter of Calvin A. and Emily C. Long, she was born May 22, 1854, and reared near Louisburg, in Franklin County. She was married December 30, 1886 and continued to live in her home county until 1914 when they moved to Spring Hope, N. C., where she has greatly endeared herself to all with whom she has come in contact.

Modest and gentle in her manner, it was those whose privilege it was to know her best, that loved her most. She is survived by two children: Z. V. Jones, and Lillian J. Wood with whom she made her home. The loving and constant care bestowed by these during her months of suffering is a lively tribute, the memory of which will be a comfort in their time of sorrow.

Two brothers, W. P. and J. M. Long, both of Franklin county, and a sister, Mrs. H. K. Hayes, of Bald Knob, Ark., also survive.

The funeral services were conducted from the home by Rev. J. I. White, of Nashville, N. C., she having been a consistent member of the Baptist Church since her early womanhood.

The interment was in Oak Dale cemetery, Spring Hope. The many beautiful floral tributes, mute testimony of the love and sorrow for the passing of one whom it may be said

"Not in anger, not in wrath,
The Reapers came this way;
But an Angel visited the earth
And bore our friend away."
