CONNECTICUT BILL WOULD FINE NEGLIGENT PEDESTRIANS

As has been noted in a previous issue, a bill has been introduced in the Connecticut Legislature which imposes a fine of $25 upon pedestrians who use the highways of the state in a reckless manner. A correspondent has suggested to us that the bill be amended by the inclusion of the traffic code for pedestrians by E. C. Wilman of Rochester, N. Y., which follows: "Pedestrians crossing a boulevard at night shall wear a white light in front and a red light in rear. "Before turning to right or left, the pedestrians shall give three short blasts on a horn at least 3 in. in diameter. "When an inexperienced driver is made nervous by a pedestrian, he shall indicate the same and the pedestrian shall hide behind a tree until the automobile has passed. "Pedestrians shall not carry any substance in their pockets which when broken will be apt to cut tires. "In dodging automobiles pedestrians shall not run more than 7 mi. an hour. "Pedestrians must register at the beginning of each year and pay a license fee of $5. "Each pedestrian before receiving his license to walk upon the highways must demonstrate before an examining board his skill in dodging, leaping, crawling and extricating himself from machinery."—N. C. Highway Bulletin

DOES JAZZ PUT THE SIN IN SYNCOPATION?

A Problem for American Parents. "Dancing to Mozart minuets, Strauss waltzes and Sousa two-steps would never lead to the corner-check room which now holds sway in hotels, clubs and dance halls. Nor would a girl who wore corsets in those days have been dubbed 'Old Ironsides' and left a disconsolate wall-flower in a corner of the ball-room," says Mrs. Marx E. Oberndorfer, National Music Chairman of the General Federation of Music Clubs. The quotation above appears in an article entitled "Does Jazz Put the Sin in Syncopation?" written by Mrs. Oberndorfer in the interest of better music. This article which appears in the August number of the Ladies Home Journal, points out how music may become an influence for evil. It directs particular criticism to jazz. Offering proof that jazz produces a definite demoralizing effect on the human brain, Mrs. Oberndorfer continues: "Jazz originally was the accompaniment of the Woodoo dancer, stimulating the half-crazed barbarian to the vilest deeds." After pointing out the evils created by jazz, Mrs. Oberndorfer concludes with a plea for good music because of the help and inspiration it can and will give. She says: "The Music Department of the General Federation of Music Clubs has taken for its motto: 'To Make Good Music Popular and Popular Music Good!' The article shows how the women of America can help the club women carry out this motto in every home firmly, steadfastly, determinedly, until all the music in our land becomes an influence for good."

CONSTRUCTION BEGUN.

Charlotte, Aug. 16.—(Special)—Construction work on the great amphitheatre adjoining the big steel and concrete and brick building just completed here for the Made in Carolinas Exposition will be undertaken in a few days, it was announced today at offices of the exposition. The air dome will immediately adjoin the main building, and will have seating facilities for at least 2,000 persons. Along three of the walls will be booths which will be operated by concessionaires who will be limited to dealing in Carolina products. A large bandstand will be erected adjoining the principal building, and there the official New York City concert band will render two concerts daily during the first two weeks of the exposition, and the Carolina bands will compete during the last four days for the $500 in four cash prizes offered to competing bands by the exposition entertainment committee. A spur track from the Piedmont & Northern lines terminates alongside the main building, affording ample transportation facilities. The contract for decorating the interior has been awarded, and this work will be undertaken at once. The color scheme will be lemon yellow, light blue and black. The only sure thing about life is the end thereof.

SCORES LAXITY IN HANDLING YOUTHS

The following paragraphs, so full of truths, were taken from Tuesday's Greensboro Daily News: Judge James L. Webb, of Shelby, presiding over the criminal term of Guilford Superior court, which convened here yesterday morning at 10 o'clock, delivered a strong charge to the jury. He deplored the laxity of parents in dealing with their children, declaring that if he had his way he would have curfew bells installed and order them rung promptly at 9 o'clock each night. The courtroom was full and the judge's words were approved by many who nodded their heads by way of acquiescence. The judge thought that the automobile is responsible for a great deal of the mischief the younger people are engaged in nowadays. It is no uncommon thing to see youths riding at late hours at night in automobiles. There are more young people in the courts of today than ever before. From the young people of today tomorrow's citizenship is dependent, and unless their characters are built in their youthhood then the future citizenship is bound to be an unhealthy one, is the way Judge Webb views the situation. Again the older members of the audience bowed their heads in hearty approval. Judge Webb told the jurors that there is a law in the state prohibiting the sale of cigarettes to persons under 17 years of age, and he believes that the officers should do their duty and enforce it.

IMMORTALITY

Have you heard the tale of the Aloe plant, That grows in a sunny clime? How by humble growth of a hundred years, It reaches its blooming time. And when the wondrous bud at its crown Bursts forth in a thousand flowers, This floral queen in its blooming sheen Is the pride of tropic bowers. The plant for the flower is a sacrifice, For it blooms but once and in blooming dies. Have you further heard of this Aloe plant Far away in the sunny clime, How every one of its thousand flowers, As it drops at the blooming time, Forms a baby plant which fastens its roots In the place where it falls on the ground. And as fast as they drop from the dying top They grow lively and lovely around. By its death it lives a thousand fold, In the young which spring from the old. Have you heard the tale of the pelican? The poor Arab's Gimmel-el-hahr, Which lives in African solitudes, Where the birds that live lonely are. Have you heard how it loves its tender young And toils and cares for their good? It brings them water from the far off river And fishes the seas for their food. In famine it feeds them—what love can devise!— The blood of its bosom, and in feeding it dies. You have heard these tales, shall I tell you one Far nobler and truer than all? Shall I tell you of Him whom the Heavens adore, Before whom the hosts of them fall? How he left the choirs and anthems above For earth and its wallings and woes; To suffer remorse and the pain of the cross And to die for the life of His foes. O Prince of the noble sufferer divine! What sorrow and sacrifice equal to thine! Have you heard this tale, the best of all? The tale of the holy and true, He died but He lives in unold souls, He lives in the old earth anew, His seed prevails and is filling the earth, Like the stars the great skies above, He taught in strife to yield the love of life, For the sake of a life of love, His death is our life. His loss is our gain, The joy for the tear, the peace for the pain. Now hear these tales, ye weary and sad Who for others gave up their all, The Saviour taught us one seed that would grow Into earth's dark bosom must fall; Must pass from view and die away; And then will the green blade appear, That which was below in earth will show, Will return many fold in the ear, From His death comes life, From His loss comes gain, The joy for tear, the peace for the pain. —Dr. J. W. P. Smithwick, LaGrance, N. C. Now He'll Be Able to Tell 'Em. City Youth—What's that the calf is kicking? Cow Farmer—That's rock salt, my boy. City Youth—Go on, I've often wondered how corn-beef was made!—Sydney Bulletin. Rushing Business. Well, reported the new salesman, swinging jauntily into the home office, got two orders from Hardnut & Co. today. Fine, fine! exclaimed the sales manager enthusiastically. Yup. One to get out and the other to stay out. And Save Time. Mamma, inquired little Ethel after her initiation into Sunday school, did God make ladies' noses? Yes, dear. Out of dust, like the rest of them? Yes. Well, you'd have thought he'd have made them out of powder, wouldn't you? Eventually—But Not Now. She (sarcastically)—You give me a ten dollar bill to buy a new suit? Why that will scarcely cover a skirt. He—Good heavens! Are they making them as large as that? Peace, like good wines, improves with age.
