WHO WILL SOLVE THIS PROBLEM?

Our tenant farmers, courageous, honest, patient and long-suffering, when shall they see light? When shall their burdens be lifted? In the spring time they go forth, and with our brothers in black set their hands to the plow. They bend their backs to the burden, and when the frost falls they have added $1,000,000,000 to the wealth of the world. But small, indeed, is their share, and meager their recompense. Every two years, according to the government census, they move from one place to another. They build no homes, they live in rude huts, no flowers about their dwellings, no trees to shade them from the sun, consumed by the summer's heat and chilled by the winter's cold, no lawns about their houses, no garden fences, and with the accursed cotton plant crowding the very threshold of their rude dwellings and thrusting its limbs into their very windows, their lot is indeed pitiable. Their sons and daughters come to manhood and womanhood, desert the farms and are lost in some distant community. Finally, when their pilgrimage is over, they are laid to rest in the rude churchyards of the country, others take their places and continue the fight. They have established no permanent homes, their kith and kin are scattered far and wide, and the places that knew them once know them no more forever. I have no word of criticism for men like these. I know them, I have lived among them. I sprang from them. Who shall undertake to lead these men out of the wilderness of their troubles? Men whom they elevate to high offices in the State and national government are ever ready to teach them politics, but they are not prepared to help them solve their problems of life. A fearful responsibility rests at this time upon men in authority and men in high offices. Will they meet it?—Ex.

COOPERATIVE SALES A GREAT SUCCESS

Orderly Marketing and Cash Advances Of T. G. C. A. Please Members.
The organized tobacco growers of South Carolina set their cake and kept it too at forty receiving points of the Tobacco Growers Cooperative Association today when close to two million pounds of the weed were handled by the most orderly system of marketing ever seen in this section and the member growers received their first cash advances.
On the cooperative markets at many places in South Carolina tobacco farmers were heard to say "I got more for my first advance today than my whole crop averaged last year."
With advances on wrappers running from $22.75 to $17.50 per hundred, with $15.05 to $7.99 advances for cutting leaf, with $15.75 to $7.70 for cutters, from $6.30 to $1.95 for smoking lugs and from $5.60 to $1.95 for primings the growers were highly elated over their first cash receipts as they left the warehouses with their first payments and the participation receipts which assure them future cash payments and immediate loan values.
Many piles brought cash advances of $15.75 at Lake City today where close to three hundred thousand pounds were on the floor, but the most remarkable feature of the day was the complete uniformity of grading on various markets where all the growers received equal consideration.
Never was there a more orderly opening of tobacco markets than took place today. With the precision of clockwork the machinery of the big cooperative association moved into action without a hitch, and orderly marketing was attained at the first day's trial.
In contrast to the shouts of buyers, the trampling of tobacco, the shifting of piles and the hurried inspection of the grower's product, a golden stream moved continuously today from wagons to graders, from graders to weighers and on to the ever accumulating piles of the weed in the storage rooms of the association.
Posted conspicuously in every warehouse were the advance cash payments to be made for each grade, and as the tobacco passed by the weigher's windows it paid tribute to the growers in the form of checks and participation receipts, which were made out according to the weight and grade of his tobacco for each grower member.
Richard R. Patterson, general manager of the leaf department; T. C. Watkins, manager of warehouse for the association; A. R. Breedlove and C. B. Cheatham, assistant managers of the leaf department, and other officials of the Tobacco Growers Cooperative Association visited the cooperative warehouses at Lake City, Timmonsville, Kingstree, Darlington, Olan ta and Lamar personally assisting the graders in their work.
Complete satisfaction was expressed by the great majority of growers, who were much impressed by the orderly system of marketing and the first cash advances paid today.

YE OLD TOWN CRIER
The TOWN CRIER who went about town ringing his bell, and crying the news, was the protest of our forefathers against mental inertia, commercial stagnation and ignorance.
The age-old yearning for the NEWS—to know about what fellow mortals are doing in all parts of the earth, found a first expression in the TOWN CRIER, and when this modest public servant would no longer do, he had to make way, and—THE NEWSPAPER CAME IN HIS PLACE.
The art of newspaper making grew slowly at first, but later—following the Civil War—with wonderful strides. As the habit of newspaper reading spread, it was as natural that advertising, the store, and big new ways of doing things should come, as that flowers and grass should follow sun and rain.
We read the news columns of THE FRANKLIN TIMES because we must keep in touch with events. We read the advertising columns, because we are seeking to know more about the science of buying and saving.
