COURT CONTINUES

Franklin Superior Court engaged in the trial of Civil cases with His Honor Judge C. C. Lyon presiding is still in progress, grinding out settlements between citizens that could not be obtained otherwise. Not unlike other Civil Courts the progress is slow, but after all quite a number of cases have been disposed of.

Judge Lyon is adding to the good impression made here last week as a most fair, impartial and capable jurist.

CRAWFORD EVANS SHOT

While out hunting on last Saturday morning Mr. Crawford Evans was accidentally shot by his brother Harley Evans, the load taking effect in the head and breast. He was taken to Louisburg where first aid medical attention was administered and later taken to a hospital in Raleigh. Reports from Raleigh yesterday say he is getting along nicely.

LOUISBURG COLLEGE OPENS

Louisburg College opened for the 1922-23 term on yesterday morning with the usual appropriate exercises. They have a full corps of able and experienced teachers and President Mohr sees signs of the beginning of a most successful session. Quite a large crowd of young ladies were present at the opening.

GRADED SCHOOL OPENS

Louisburg Graded School has opened with a larger attendance than at any previous opening. In the high school the enrollment is a little more than 100, and the enrollment in the grades is a little more than 300, making more than 400 in the school. There are a number of children who have not entered school but will do so soon. The problem with us is how to take care of them properly. "On the street, I am frequently asked," said Supt. Mills, "will our high school continue to be rated as a standard high school." "In answer to these inquiries I could truthfully say that we have never had a standard high school in Louisburg, that is if the tests for a standard high school be applied. We have a standard teaching staff; we have standard length class-hours; we teach the required number of days—180 each year. But when we come to apply the test for building and equipment, we fall short what is considered the minimum for a standard high school. Our school is now on the accredited list of high schools and our certificate of graduation admits to the standard colleges, but this will not continue to be true unless we make some additions to our building and equipment."

Next week you will be furnished with a statement of some of the needs of the school to take care properly of the children now in school, and some things we need to take care of the probable growth of the school.

THE CULTURAL VALUE OF AN EDUCATION

Young people should go to high school with two ideals in mind: (a) To develop the individual to his greatest capacity; (b) To learn the responsibility of an individual to society. The four years which you may spend in high school have a two-fold value—a money value and a cultural value.

We have discussed, "The money value of an education." Now, let us look at it from the cultural value.

"To be at home in all lands and all ages; to count Nature a familiar acquaintance, and Art an intimate friend to gain a standard for the appreciation of other's work and the criticism of your own; to carry the keys to the world's library in your pocket and feel its resources behind you in whatever task you undertake; to make hosts of friends among the men of your own age who are to be leaders in all walks of life; to lose yourself in generous enthusiasms and co-operate with others for common ends; to learn manners from students who exemplify the highest ideals—this is the offer of the highest school for the best four years of your life."—William DeWitt Hyde.

JOHN WANAMAKER SAYS

"It seems to me that retail advertising is a very simple matter in these times, when the newspaper goes into every home in the land. I believe that the retail merchant who fails to advertise, fails in his duty to his customers. The public has a right to know what sort of goods he has in his establishment, and what kind of service he renders and what the conditions of his service are. It has a right to know what the new goods are like. "No merchant nowadays ought to expect the public to give him its patronage unless he comes out frankly and tells the public what reasons he has to expect its patronage. And he ought to do this in the daily newspapers—or the weekly newspaper if there is no daily in his town. That's the way for him to stand fair and

Says Tanlac Is Fine To Build Up Weight

Persons suffering from stomach trouble and who are under weight find an ever-ready friend in Tanlac. This celebrated medicine has ended indigestion and increased the weight for thousands of people everywhere. Mrs. O. D. Flaherty, 1905 Grace St., Lynchburg, Va., says:

"My son's health was fully restored by Tanlac and he actually gained twenty pounds in weight. After every meal he suffered terribly from severe pains, palpitation and shortness of breath, and had awful headaches. He was terribly nervous, too. He is working now every day and is in as good health as he ever was."

Under nourishment is the cause of most cases of under weight. Tanlac enables the stomach to extract the healthy nutriment from the food, builds up the whole body and increases the weight to normal. Millions of people have testified to its great benefits. Get a bottle today at any good druggist. Adv.

square with the people whom he expects to come in and buy his goods.

"Let his advertisement be the truthful news of what he is doing, and let him print it in the newspaper, where news belongs, and then he will be playing fair with the public and deserving of its confidence.

"HULLO."

When you meet a man in woe Walk right up and say "hullo"— Say hullo and how do you do And how's the world a usin' you? Slap the fellow on the back Bring your hand down with a whack; Walk right up and don't be slow Grin and shake and say "hullo!"

If he clothed in rags? Oh sho' Walk right up and say "hullo!" Rags is but a cotton roll Jest for wrappin' up a soul And a soul is worth a true Hale and hearty how do you do. Don't wait for the crowd to go Walk right up and say "hullo!" When big vessels meet they say 'they salute and sail away; Just the same are you and me Lonesome ships upon a sea; Each one sailing his own jog For a port beyond the fog— Let your whistling trumpet blow Lift your horn and cry "hullo!" Say hullo and how do you do (Other folks are good as you, When you leave this house of clay Travelling in the far away When you journey through the strange Country tother side the range Then the souls you've cheered will know Who you be and cry, "hullo!" —Sam Walter Foss.

Freckles Worth Weight In Gold At The State Fair

WHO IS THE FRECKLE KING OF NORTH CAROLINA?

Who is the most freckle faced boy in North Carolina? Freckles will be worth twenty five dollars in gold at the State Fair in October!

The little brown specks the sun has put on during the long summer days ploughing on the farm or fishing along the river banks will be worth just as much money in Raleigh next fall.

No use to try lemon juice, or get rid of 'em because your face don't like a freckle faced boy. They may mean just twenty dollars in gold if they are thick enough.

The State Fair is offering a number of new and original attractions this year, but nothing is likely to create more interest than the freckle faced boy contest—too bad that the girls are not in on this, probably though

In this day of beauty parlors and cosmetics that there are no freckle faced girls left—but never mind they can't get a freckle next year.

The red headed—far surer bet—will be a man of red hair—freckle faced boy will be the big attraction at the Fair. There will be a competent committee, who know how to count noses, down on the freckles and when they see 'em, to double on the prize money. The day of the freckle faced boy contest is the day of freckles. It is the day when help may be called.

There will be twenty dollars in gold to the first prize winner and five dollars in gold for the second. The prizes are offered by THE RALEIGH TIMES through the State Fair Association.

New Inter-Continental Record Sought by These Flyers

THESE two flyers are Dr. E. Pintos Martens (left), Brazilian explorer and scientist, and Lieutenant Walter Hinton (right), who navigated the first American plane across the Atlantic. With a crew of three assistants, Martens and Hinton set out with the Philadelphia-made Sampaio Correia from New York for Rio de Janeiro. The distance is 3500 miles. Dr. Martens counts on flying craft to bring the Americans much closer together than ever they have been before.
