It is my intention to place this remedy with every country merchant in the county and all druggists in the towns, that it may be easily obtained. I have so much faith in this preparation that I will supply any merchants who wish to handle it on the consignment plan. Call in and get a dozen or two for your store. Pay for it when sold.

Yours truly,

GREAT PREPARATIONS FOR CAROLINAS EXPOSITION

With dozens of workmen busily engaged decorating the big new exposition hall, with railroads announcing special fares for the entire south, with hotels making reservations in advance, and with a large corps of office workers and a large number of committeemen winding up the final details, the Made-in-Carolinas exposition has every assurance of eclipsing any show held in the entire south for years, both from the standpoint of diversity of exhibits as well as from number of attendance. Special town days, special excursions, are being planned in many sections, while indications from every source strengthen the prediction that over 100,000 people will see this year's exposition.

Five thousand letters of invitation have been mailed out during the past week to newspaper editors, principals and superintendents of schools in the two Carolinas, and to merchants and buyers not only in the Carolinas, but in all parts of the country.

Over 4,000 posters and window cards are being placed in most of the towns and on most of the highways throughout a territory within a hundred miles radius of Charlotte.

Reservations are being made at hotels for 72 artists who will take part in the greatest musical program heard in the Carolinas in years, and as one of the officials of the exposition said: "At an admission of 20 cents for children, and 40 cents for adults, a concert will be heard at the exposition which would cost $2.50 to $3.00 if heard in New York."

Speakers of wide note are coming on different days to the exposition and these include Mrs. Edith Vanderbilt, Governor Morrison, Dr. Faust, President of the North Carolina College for Women; Lew Hahn, of New York, perhaps the best known authority on mercantile matters in America, and the man who put New York's recent mammoth dry goods show, as well as other notable men and women. A glance at the following list of exhibits will show the wide range of manufacture covered in the display made at the exposition this year.

There will be shown in cotton goods the following products: Coarse yarns combed and carried yarns, yarns of the finest counts, twine, material for automobile tops and seats, tire fabric, rugs, fancy ginghams, sheeting, duck, silk fabric, silk and cotton hosiery, (silk hosiery will be manufactured in the building), lace, bed spreads, denim, toweling, table covers, napkins, overalls, draperies, hand woven articles, men's shirts, work shirts, mercerized goods, etc.

The tobacco industry will be well represented in smoking tobacco, plug tobacco, snuff cigarettes and cigars of many brands.

There will be on display elevators, sizing, soap, sizing compounds, metal culverts, piping, plain shade and face brick, cement products of all kinds, paints, varnishes, medicinal compounds, drugs and special preparations, lithographing and printing of all kinds, automobiles of various models, trucks, automobile tires, automobile tubes, candles of many kinds, bakers products including bread, cake, etc., farm implements and tools, including planters, cultivators, plows, etc., saw mills, self-rising and plain flour of various brands, machine made dress trimmings, chairs, tables, bed room and living room furniture, ice cream, soft drinks, peanut butter and peanut products, marshmallow cream, potato chips, stationary and monumental work, granite, mayonnaise, roast coffee, farm wagons, automobile tops and bodies, springless shades, home, life and fire insurance policies, shoe polish, jellies, preserves, marmalades, cotton gins, foundry products, refrigerating machinery, humidifiers, electric power demonstrations, flowers, shrubs and nursery products, chemicals, fertilizers, cotton seed products, fish products, automatic car step, well pumps upholstering, decorating, casting, mat tresses, bedding, iron products, dry cleaning, steel products, bags, suitcases, patent ladies' handbags, dust collecting machinery, deserts and food products, fly screens, bobbins, stocking preservatives, wheelbarrows and dump carts, models of homes, farm products of all kinds, apples, grain, fruits, cotton, etc., card clothing, dental preparations, cotton mill machinery and parts, creosoted materials, gas burning furnaces, forest products, lumber of different kinds, wood pulp, tannic acid, paper, hair nets, grist mills, bee hives, dog crates, wood saws, porch swings, etc.

Henry Ford is still talking about his currency scheme. What we want, Mr. Ford, is a dollar which resembles your well known silver in that it will go a long way, but won't go very fast. —Charleston News and Courier.
