CIVILIZATION CAN BREATHE MORE FREELY

Two epoch-making events marked the closing hours of last week when on Saturday the Grand Jury investigating the atrocious crimes at Herrin, Ill., returned indictments against two hundred and fourteen men, some for murder and some for assault with intent to commit murder, and definitely charged the authorities with failure "to protect life and property" through cowardice or membership in the miners organization. After giving in detail the horrors of that crime the Grand Jury adds:

"The atrocities and cruelties of the murders are beyond the power of words to describe. A mob is always cowardly, but the savagery of this mob in its relentless brutality is almost unbelievable. The indignities heaped upon the dead did not end until the bodies were interred in unknown graves."

The Grand Jury reports that they indicted some forty persons for murder, fifty-eight for conspiracy to commit murder, fifty-eight for rioting and five for assault to murder. It publishes the telegram received from President Lewis of the United Mine Workers of America to the district mine workers of Herrin, and says "Following the publication of the telegram from President Lewis preparations for an attack upon the mine were made. The hardware stores in all the cities of Williamson county were searched for firearms. The weapons were either taken by force or upon a verbal assurance that the local would pay for them."

That is one of the great epoch-making events of the day, and the next, and perhaps of even greater importance, is the permanent injunction granted to the Government against the railroad employees who have been combined in a strike against the welfare of the nation. In his statement as to the reasons for granting this injunction Judge WICKERSON, referring to acts of violence against railroads, said:

"There began throughout the country a series of depredations which rapidly developed in some portions into a veritable reign of terror. Railroad bridges were dynamited, spikes were moved from rails, obstructions were placed upon railway tracks, bombs were exploded on tracks and in railroad yards and hurled at moving trains. Notwithstanding the admonitions of the leaders of the combination to use peaceful means only, the real situation at most of the places where the strike was in progress was that employees were insulted, assaulted and otherwise intimidated. The word of the 'peaceful' picket spoken in the vicinity of the shop was emphasized in the darkness of the night by the club and pistol of the 'unknown party.' Regardless of the condition that no injury must be inflicted upon property, there was sabotage upon a large scale, engines, cars and equipment were tampered with and innumerable acts of malicious mischief committed which endangered the lives of both passengers and those operating trains. These unlawful acts are shown to have been on such a large scale and in point of time and place so connected with the admitted conduct of the strike, that it is impossible on the record here to view them in any other light than as done in furtherance of a common purpose and as part of a common plan."

Civilization can breathe more freely in the light of these two epoch-making events. Once more the supremacy of law against the violence of misguided men whose criminality has disgraced civilization is upheld. Every law-abiding citizen can thank God and take courage, and trust that every other violation of law will meet its due punishment.—Manufacturers Record.

COUNTRY WEEKLIES AT STATE FAIR

Home Town Newspapers To Be Displayed At Raleigh, Oct. 16-21.

For the first time North Carolina country weeklies are to visit the State Fair in force. The Tobacco Growers Cooperative Association has arranged to display them in the Association's booth October 16-21 in recognition of the large part played by the county weeklies in building up their home communities.

In addition to the exhibit of selected issue of the country weeklies the Association will keep on file the current week's issues so that visitors at the Fair can drop in and get the latest news from their home paper.

THE FRANKLIN TIMES will be represented in the main exhibit. This exhibit at the State Fair is the first time that the value of the community newspaper in rural sections has ever received public recognition in North Carolina, although they have been contributing to the building up of communities throughout the state for several generations.

A color-blind man can tell the color of your money.

It isn't where a man starts as much as where he stops.

The man who has no will rarely finds a way.

STATE FAIR ANNOUNCEMENT

Raleigh, Oct. 1.—The annual announcement of Mrs. Edith Vanderbilt, president of the North Carolina State Fair that nothing even remotely resembling gambling will be allowed on the grounds during the 1922 Fair, which will begin Oct. 16, has met with hearty approval by newspapers and individuals throughout the State.

At the conclusion of the 1921 Fair, the first under her presidency, Mrs. Vanderbilt announced that she would make every effort to see to it that future fairs would be statewide in fact as well as in name. Elimination of the games that have played a prominent part in some of the previous fairs is only a detail in Mrs. Vanderbilt's general policy of making the annual Fair a cross section of the life of North Carolina rather than a mere carnival. Amusements will be provided in abundance but they will not be the whole show in themselves but will be incidental to the exhibits in the 23 departments of the Fair, representing every phase of the varied life of the State.

Heretofore the Fair has had to depend largely upon Raleigh and immediately adjacent sections of the State but this year the support will be statewide. Entries have already been received from exhibitors in every section of the State and every county will probably be represented in the thousands of visitors who will come to Raleigh Fair Week. The big foot ball game has always made Thursday the "Big Day" of the Fair, but this year Wednesday will be of equal if not greater importance as Wednesday has been set apart as "Military Day" with General John J. Pershing the chief attraction. General Pershing will be greeted by legionnaires and others from every section of the State.

The Charlotte Observer on Sunday, September 24, the eve of Charlotte's second annual "Made-in-the-Carolinas" Exposition, touched the scope of the Fair in a broad manner.

After graceful tributes to the services performed the State by Mrs. Vanderbilt, Col. Joseph E. Pogue, for 20 years the efficient secretary of the Fair; C. B. Denson, for 15 years its faithful treasurer and assistant secretary; and E. V. Walborn, the Manager of the Fair, who came to North Carolina after several years as manager of the Ohio State Fair, one of the largest in the country, the Charlotte paper concludes as follows:

"Let this section of the State do its part toward making the Fair this year a success. It is not a Raleigh Fair; it is not a sectional Fair; it is of State-wide interest and in a very few years if present plans work out, it is going to develop into a great exposition that will claim attendance not only from North Carolina but from the entire South. It has the right sort of human working material back of it."

SUNDAY SCHOOL CONVENTION

Franklin County Sunday School Convention will meet this year in the Trinity Methodist Church, six miles north of Louisburg, N. C. on Saturday and Sunday, October 28th and 29th, 1922.

Four sessions of the convention have been arranged. The opening session will be held on Saturday afternoon. Two sessions will be held on Sunday, morning and afternoon.

In addition to several local Sunday School workers who will participate on the program, Miss Flora Davis, Assistant Superintendent of the North Carolina Sunday School Association, will also speak at various sessions. Practical methods for making the Sunday School more efficient will be discussed.

The County President, G. M. Beam, is planning to thoroughly advertise the meeting over the county.

Sunday School workers of all denominations are invited and urged to attend all sessions of the convention. It is hoped by the officers of the County Association that Sunday Schools from every section of the County will be represented.

The officers of the Franklin County Sunday School Association under whose auspices the convention is being arranged, are expecting that this convention will be even better than the one last year.

Associated with the county and township officers in arranging for the convention is the following local committee: Miss Edna Beasley, Louisburg, R. F. D.; A. T. Wilson, Louisburg; W. L. Wilson, Louisburg; and Mrs. John Reavis, Louisburg.
