THE BRIDGE BUILDER

An old man, going a lone highway,
Came, at the evening, cold and gray,
To a chasm vast and deep and wide;
The old man crossed, in the twilight dim—
The sullen stream had no fear for him,
But he turned when safe on the other side,
And built a bridge to span the tide.
"Old man," said a fellow-pilgrim near,
"You're wasting your strength with building here;
Your journey will end with the ending day,
You never again will pass this way;
You've crossed the chasm, deep and wide—
Why build you this bridge at evening tide?"
The builder lifted his old gray head—
"Good friend, in the path I have come,"
he said;
"There followeth after me today
A youth whose feet must pass this way
This chasm has been as naught to me,
To that fair-haired youth may a bridge
fall be;
He, too, must cross in the twilight dim;
Good friend, I am building this bridge
for him."

Ignorant—"What can I do to avoid falling hair?"
Advisor—"Jump out of the way."

This is a joke taken from "Judge," but if you have that problem yourself we would give you different advice: Go to the SERVICE DRUG CO.

and get a supply of Hair Tonic, by measure, or if you have a favorite brand get supplied with that.

That is also a good place to get your prescriptions filled or to get anything in the way of drugs.
