NOW TIME TO DUST COTTON

Raleigh, July 28.—Rain, one day after the next, luxurious vegetative growth and hot murky weather make conditions ideal for the cotton boll weevil and the pest is taking full advantage of the fact if reports coming to Franklin Sherman, chief of the Division of Entomology for the Experiment Station and Extension service are true. The Division of Entomology has a number of field workers out in the State, several students from State College engaged in this work for the summer and boll weevil field laboratories in Edgecombe and Moore Counties. Reports from those sources show that weevil infestation has rapidly increased.

"Some fields have only a few weevils," says Mr. Sherman, "yet there are a great number which have reached the point of ten per cent infestation at which time dusting with dry calcium arsenate should begin. For every man to dust all his cotton would be a needless waste, but for the careful man to dust properly when ten per cent of his cotton squares have been punctured is only wise and profitable according to our experience."

Mr. Sherman states that one may pick and burn all the infested squares and young bolls and secure some control if he has only a small acreage of cotton or if his infestation is low and there are some boys and girls on the farm that may be used in this work. But generally in late July and August, when the weather has been favorable for weevil development the only remedy which can be depended upon for profitable production is the standard dust poison application.

"Some dusting has already begun in the eastern counties," says Prof. Sherman. "This will be increased in August if the present indications hold true. For those who do not know exactly how to apply the dust, we would advise them to get a copy of extension circular number 137 which may be had free of charge by writing the editor, extension division, Raleigh."
