SOIL NEEDS DISCUSSED
IN NEW PUBLICATION

Raleigh, Dec. 14.—The fertilizer needs of the various crops grown on the different soils occurring in North Carolina are discussed in a new publication issued by the Agricultural Extension Division of State College. The publication is Extension Folder 18 and has just been received from the printer. It shows first the main plant food deficiencies of the soils in the coastal plain, piedmont and mountain sections followed by specific recommendations as to the fertilizers to be applied on these soils for growing the best yields of crops per acre. In the coastal plain area, recommendations are made for the kind and amounts of fertilizer to apply for cotton, tobacco, corn, small grain, Irish potatoes, sweet potatoes and legumes. Similar recommendations are made for the main crops of the mountain and piedmont sections. All of these recommendations are based on experiments conducted by workers in the Department of Agronomy during the past fifteen or more years. Another part of the folder points out how to get the most effective results from the use of fertilizers.

What crops should be fertilized highest, preparation of the soil, cultivation, crop rotations and the best combinations to use are all pointed out in a brief, condensed way. Suggestions as to the factors in crop growth which are under the control of the farmer and the practices which he may follow to get the best yields are made in the latter part of the folder. This publication was prepared by C. B. Williams, head of the department of agronomy, and is said to be of much value to those who wish to have more specific details about the proper use of fertilizers. As most farmers will be buying their fertilizer materials during the winter, Mr. Williams advises that those who wish to obtain a copy of the folder may secure it now by writing to the College. Why Have Catarrh?

You know the discomfort and danger to your entire system of the constant dropping of catarrhal matter at the back of your mouth. It undermines your health. There is hardly a complaint more annoying than that catarrhal feeling of a heavy aching head caused by stuffed up nostrils, and the dull, heavy pain in the region of the eyes.

You may think you cannot be rid of it. Keeping the air passages free from clogging mucus and catarrhal germs is what you can do if you'll use Page's Cru-Mo. Better begin now for continuous neglect may lead to all sorts of trouble.

The first application of Page's Cru-Mo to the nostrils soothes the inflamed membrane, checks the accumulation of phlegm and opens up the air passages. It attacks Catarrh where Catarrh attacks you—through the nose.

Page's Cru-Mo contains certain combined ingredients that do not immediately lose their strength. It remains in the nose long enough to allow the ingredients to thoroughly vaporize. The medication goes back into the nasal passages and cavities and loosens that phlegm, kills the germs and permits you to breathe good air freely. Get some Page's Cru-Mo today from your druggist and begin to get freedom from insidious catarrhal clogging and discomfort.

A Christmas Dream

It was Christmas Eve night. The snow was falling fast. I had hung my stockings by the mantel hoping that Santa Claus would come. I was soon dressed and tucked to bed by my mother. At last I dreamed off to sleep and I dreamed it was snowing so fast that Santa wasn't coming. I began crying and told my mother and father what I had dreamed. They told me it was morning and the sun was shining bright and Santa Claus had been. I got up a happy little boy for Santa brought me a big ball and a red wagon and lots of fruit and candy.
