OUR RALEIGH LETTER

By M. L. Shipman

Raleigh, Dec. 23.—Raleigh capitulated to the Christmas spirit and the Chief Executive of the State took the lead Thursday evening by pressing a button which illuminated a huge Christmas tree provided by the Rotary Club on Capital Square at the head of Fayetteville street. Around this pretty tree choirs of the various churches sang appropriate anthems and from that good hour until this morning the capital city of the State enjoyed a quiet and orderly holiday season, during which all state and city departments were closed. Governor McLean issued a Christmas message to the people of the State in which he stated that "the immortal conception of the Fatherhood of God and the Brotherhood of Man is the great charter of human freedom and human happiness," and admonished one and all to keep in mind this revelation of strength, of kindness and unselfishness. The Executive and his family spent the holidays here, while the heads of some of the departments and many State employees went to their former homes in various sections of the commonwealth.

During the week the State Highway Commission let the contract for the bridge over Chowan river between Windsor and Edenton and received bids for the construction of the Beaufort-Morehead bridge across Bogue Sound. The Chowan river bridge will, it is said, be the longest in the State, having a swing span of 200 feet, and being all toll one and a half miles in length. It is to be constructed by the Sanford and Brooks Company, of Charleston, S. C., at a cost of $432,422.75, the actual work of construction to begin early in the new year. Contract for the Beaufort-Morehead bridge to be the second longest in the State, is to be let later on.

Governor McLean issued a statement commending the decision of Duke University to erect its proposed new buildings from stone procured in the quarries at Hillsboro, Orange county, instead of running out of the State for material that is little if any more desirable for building purposes. The Governor does not fancy the idea of neglecting native stone and has in mind a movement to utilize other North Carolina resources whenever possible in the construction of buildings and for other purposes.

The Governor commutes the sentence of A. B. Crutchfield, Winston-Salem, convicted of running over and killing a child while driving an automobile in an intoxicated condition, from "not less than ten nor more than fifteen years" in the State's prison, to "not less than three nor more than ten years." Paroles were recently granted to Jesse Silverthorn, of Beaufort county, convicted with Leonard Ormond, of the same county, in 1918, of second degree murder. Fish Brown and John Hairston who had each served long terms for a similar offense, have been given their freedom on the recommendation of Pardon Commissioner Hoyle Sink.

Jesse H. Wyatt, former Raleigh detective captain, will begin his sentence of not less than eight nor more than eighteen months in the State's Prison for the killing of Stephen S. Holt, Smithfield lawyer, on March 15. The date was advanced by Judge Midyette on account of the expectancy of another child in the Wyatt home. Wyatt's former associates on the local police force expressed their appreciation of his public service and sympathy in his misfortune in the presentation of a purse containing $60 during the holiday festivities.

The North Carolina Education Association will ask Governor McLean to join in the fight for a minimum eight month school term. Officers of the association expect the Governor, on recommendation of the organization, to appoint an educational commission and express the hope that he will be guided in his attitude on the proposal by the report of this commission. The Governor has not yet committed himself. The course suggested was agreed upon at a conference of those interested in the office of Superintendent Allen during the past week which also reached a decision to raise the standards governing teachers' certificates of those employed in the conduct of State schools.

It is announced that a short course in clayworking and ceramics will be held at the State College of Agriculture and Engineering, January 18 to 27, for the technical training of those engaged in the clay working industry, the classes to be conducted by members of the college faculty assisted by Dr. J. L. Stuckey, State Geologist, and other experts.

Buyers of Flour, your attention is directed to the following:
AMAZING RISE IN PRICES OF WHEAT
Word of Further Crop Damage In Argentina Sends Values Sky-rocketing

Chicago, Dec. 26.—(AP)—Wheat continued higher today with a swift-ness that amazed even trade veterans. Word that the harvest in central and southern Argentina is being spoiled by rain came just at a time today when the market was confronted with the trade advices of curtailed supplies nearly everywhere except in Canada, and with United States mills reported as actually possessing bread material for only sixty days ahead. This represents an advance of 9 3/4 cents a bushel in one day.
