ANNOUNCE ENGAGEMENT

One of the most delightful occasions of the holiday season was a dinner party given by Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Palmer Saturday evening, December 19th, at six o'clock in honor of her niece, Miss Elizabeth Morton.

After a short hour of friendly greeting the guests were invited into the dining room where the soft glow of the candle light and the Yuletide log assured all of the Christmas cheer.

There was nothing to suggest anything but the Christmas spirit until the dinner drew towards its close when Miss Morton was presented with a corsage of Sweetheart roses, from which a ribbon dropped, holding her engagement ring, a beautiful solitaire set in platinum. To the other guests were presented small corsages with imitation engagement rings, and bouquets of holly and mistletoe, together with miniature cards, bearing the following announcement.

Mr. and Mrs. James Lee Palmer announce the engagement of their niece, Miss Elizabeth Wilson Morton to Mr. James Marion Grainger, Kinston, N. C. At this time Mr. Jones Parham proposed an impromptu toast to the prospective bride and groom and the other guests rising, with one accord expressed their love and good wishes in drinking to the health and happiness

CROP PROFITS Depend Largely Upon the Fertilizer You Use

Many factors determine the profits you will make from your crops: soil, weather conditions, farming methods and fertilization are the chief ones.

The successful farmer knows that good and profitable crops, especially tobacco, depend more upon the fertilizer used than any other single element.

It is, therefore, very important to be careful in the buying of fertilizer to get the correct analysis and a reliable brand.

You Can't Go Wrong With Acme

Acme Fertilizers, made at Acme, N. C., have a wonderful record for producing quality crops and large yields. Acme has gone so far into the study of the requirements of farmers; has carried research and experimentation to such an extensive point; and has developed such fine formulae that Acme Fertilizers are standard with hundreds of farmers in the two Carolinas. These farmers realize that they can depend upon Acme for producing the greatest yield per acre.

Because Acme is an independent home company; because its officials are vitally interested in every customer; because Acme's dealings are fair and square, without red tape or alibis the Acme customer gets completely satisfactory service from this company and its dealers.

Try Acme This Season

Before placing your order for fertilizer this season, get in touch with the Acme dealer, or write us, and secure the complete data on what Acme should do for your crops. Once you start using Acme, it's fairly assured you will never switch to another brand.

of the bride and groom to be. Mr. Grainger responded in a graceful manner thanking the friends for their good wishes.

Those present were: Misses Elizabeth Morton, Dorcas McKinne, Beatrice Turner, Fanny Neal, Catherine Bobbitt and Messrs. Marion Grainger, George Ford, Jones Parham, Napier Williamson and Henry Ruffin.

The hostess was attired in black velvet with old lace and pearls. The guest of honor was lovely in a crepe dinner gown handsomely beaded with rhinestones with an imported shawl of white Italian crepe, embroidered in shades.

Miss Morton is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Morton. She has made friends easily and numbers them by the score, because of her gentle manner and joyous nature. She is a graduate of Louisburg and Coker College. Since her graduation she has been a member of the English Department of Kinston High School. Her many friends there rejoiced that she has cast her lot among them in the near future. Mr. Grainger is a son of Mr. H. H. Grainger, of Kinston. He is an alumnus of the University of North Carolina affiliating with the Sigma Chi Fraternity and of the Georgia Technical School. He is a member of the recently incorporated firm, Grainger-Lowery, and has many social and business interests in the city.
