HONORABLE J. M. BROUGHTON SPEAKS To Graduating Class Friday

Night At Finals of Mills High School; Class

etta Thursday Night; Graduates For Next Season

Hon. J. M. Broughton, of Raleigh, delivered a most interesting and force ful address at the closing of the Mills delivered a most interesting and force ful address at the closing of the Mills High School on last Friday night at the auditorium to a large crowd who thoroughly appreciated the thought and conclusions he drew from his subject. He took for his theme "Foundation" and showed how the schools were trying to lay the foundations for life. He said the true test of society is the foundation upon which it rests. He said the home is the first foundation of society and character. He pointed out the sacredness of the home by showing that the law recognized a man's home as his castle and gave him the right to defend it. He said that the divorce evil is the peril of the home life. This the speaker thought was due largely to the lack of parental restraint in early training the librated her thought was read by Miss Pattle tomposition was read by Miss Pattle tomp the lack of parental restraint in early training. He illustrated by telling of a trial of some little boys for burgalry and said society was asking the courts to do something the parents anould do.

the greatest exemplification of the separation of friend was suggested. In them was suggested both seriousness, love and comical the class prophecy by Wingate II. institutions that makes America what it is. He spoke of the necessity to have teachers of ability and character to guide and instruct the children in moulding the character that would go multiply them through life.

The class prophecy by Wingate Underhill presented quite a glorious future for most of the class.

The last will and testament by Miss Elizabeth Johnson truly disposed of all the possessions of the class even at the possessions of the class even are the control of the class are the class ar

The Louisburg Fire Department was host to its members and a number of friends on Thursday night of last week at a delightful chicken supper. Thirty-five fine chickens delightfully fried, served with hot biscuits, pickle and coffee, tapered off with ice cream and cake, went to make up the splendid supper to which all helped themselves to a sufficiency and then some.

During the evening the speakers who gave expression to the high efficiency of the personnel of the fire department and the excellent work it has done, were Hon. Ben T. Holden, Rev. John Archie McIver, former Mayor L. L. Joyner and Mr. Pyatt, of Durham, engineer under whose supervision the present water plant was constructed.

BOARD OF EDUCATION MET MONDAY

Forms Special Taxing District of Roberts and Flat Rock and Approves

The Board of Education met in regular session on Monday with A. F. Johnson, E. L. Green, T. H. Dickens, J. H. Joyner and W. A. Mullen present. The minutes of last meeting were read and approved.

A special taxing district to be known as Roberts-Flat Rock was formed.

The Board approved a petition from a majority of the governing school boards in the Roberts-Flat Rock Special Taxing district, asking for an election on a 50 cents local tax, and the Connty Commissioners were asked to order the same.

The question of consolidating the Red Bud School and disposing of the property was deferred until the first Monday in July, in order to give the people of this community the opportunity to be heard if they desired.

A number of accounts were allow-The Board of Education met in re

He informed the TIMES man that he had leased the same warehouse for another season and would be here on time and operate the warehouse again this fall.

Two fire alarms were sounded in Louisburg during the past week. The first was on Saturday night about dark when the chimney at the residence of Dr. J. E. Malone on North Main street was on fire. And the second was caused by the trash pile back of the jail on the river bank catching fire.

The fire department answered promptly on both occasious and no damage was reported.
