SEE THE KING PENGUINS. CLERGYMEN'S OPINIONS. YOUR RICH UNCLE. WHAT MOTHERS DON'T KNOW.

A dozen king penguins may be seen standing up straight in New York's Zoological Garden. First to come here alive from their cold home in the Antarctic, it is doubtful that they will survive the hot Summer. Pay them a visit, if you can.

They stand three feet high, looking like soldiers or clergymen, very solemn. And their breeding habits make you thoughtful. The hen penguin lays only one white egg. If she laid it on the ground in her home climate it would freeze in half a minute. She puts her feet together, the egg on top of her feet, lets down over it a roll of feather covered fat from her stomach, and the heat of the fat keeps the egg and her feet warm.

When she can't stand it any longer, the father penguin sidles up and the egg is swiftly switched to his feet and he lowers a roll of fat.

The Reverend Dr. Slaten expects the human race to change greatly in sixty years. "Our grandchildren will make nature their teacher, rather than theology or philosophy." He also says our grandchildren will believe in internationalism, which will replace the patriotism of today.

Things don't happen so rapidly. Patriotism, which means holding together and keeping what your ancestors have accomplished, will be necessary for many generations. As for making nature your teacher, without the help of theology or philosophy, nature can teach little unless the light of philosophy helps you to understand and the light of inspiration makes it worth while. Primitive men had nature for teacher, and she only taught them to murder each other, and invent superstitions to justify it.

Uncle Sam is certainly a rich old gentleman. His receipts yesterday amounted to more than five hundred million dollars, just a small part of his income. In Tom Reed's day, people called it dreadful for one Congress to spend a billion. Half of a Congress could spend that now in half a year, and ask for more. No wonder Wall Street and the big men are happy. The real money and real values are here.

Senator Reed, of Missouri, earnest and energetic, attacks the bill to extend Federal maternity aid to the States for another year. Mr. Reed objects to what he calls "a bunch of unmarried women going about the country trying to tell REAL mothers how to raise their babies."

The good Senator calls it "interference with American motherhood."

If Senator Reed went to a well managed lying-in hospital he would find many unmarried women trained nurses, helping mothers to have their babies. And he wouldn't find the mothers dying like flies, as they do throughout the country, tens of thousands of mothers dying in childbirth every year, because they lack knowledge and intelligent care. Merely HAVING a baby doesn't make a mother know how to take care of a baby.

This Government spends millions teaching farmers to take care of few-born pigs, calves and other animals. It ought to spend a little money also to help human mothers with their children. And when Senator Reed thinks it over he will agree with that.

Financial newspapers worry about any effort to help the farmers, fearing it may be a "tax on food."

That is convincing, when your sympathies happen to be on that side. What about heavy duties, taxes that one hundred and fifteen millions of people pay, to protect a few dozen or hundred of manufacturers? Is it all right to tax all the people to protect the "right sort of people," but all wrong to tax anybody to protect thirty-five million people working on the farms? No!

If people ever learn to love their enemies, they may also learn to love their friends.

The horse is trying to stage a comeback and Henry Ford is not financing the project.

FOLLOWS EMANCIPATOR

Milton R. Moskow, twelve-year-old San Francisco schoolboy who since the age of five has patterned his life after that of Abraham Lincoln, aspires to occupy the White House some day as his hero did. He has been nominated as a candidate for the American Youth Award established by the directors of the Sesqui-Centennial International Exposition, held in Philadelphia from June 1 to December 1 in celebration of 150 years of American Independence. Under the plan of the American Youth Award and the American Teacher Award, each state will select a boy and a girl and a woman teacher who best represent American ideals, and they will be given trips to Philadelphia and to Washington, where they will receive medals from President Coolidge.
