

Senate Ends As It Began, With Speech By Person

Raleigh, March 19.—The 1929 session of the state senate ended as it had begun with a speech from Senator Willie M. Person, of Franklin. There was nothing before the house, but a dull half hour in which the chair had to ratify the piles of bills and resolutions which have been passed during the last two days. The senator from Franklin, at the unanimous request of the senate, made another speech to kill that dull half hour.

Prohibition was the first subject discussed by North Carolina's only roused wet.

"We will never live to see a real dry in the White House," said Senator Person. "The only difference between Al Smith and Hoover was that Al Smith carried his liquor in his hand, where everybody could see it, and Hoover carried his concealed in his hip pocket."

"When I was young, I was taught that there were 16 drinks in a quart of liquor. But after seeing prohibitionists drink, I have decided there are only three. The drier they vote, the thirstier they get."

Speaking of the achievements of the legislature he said:

"After all, this has been a very progressive legislature. It has served notice on the school forces and the road forces of North Carolina that they are the servants of the people and not their masters. In the future, if a school superintendent comes down here to lobby the legislature his own people will not countenance his action."

The Republicans in the legislature, Senator Person described them as "the pick of the Republican party," and praised their conduct in this assembly. Speaking of the question of local legislation, which has plagued this legislature, he said:

"I am a Democrat, and when it is a partisan question I vote with the Democrats. But when it is a question of decency and senatorial courtesy I vote with the senator whose district is concerned. If the white people of a county don't have sense enough to carry that county, they should be made to take their medicine in the form of Republican local legislation."

Questioned by Senator Hobbs, Senator Person denied that he loved the Hoover Democrats, now the campaign was over.

"They are people with no place to go," he said, "too proud to associate with Republicans, and unfit to associate with Democrats. They will have to go off and build them a hell of their own, unless they repent and come into the Democratic party."

He predicted that the Democratic party would remain desolate unless it treated "John Smith," and the common people with consideration, and ended with a word of praise and a declaration of loyalty and support for Governor Max Gardner.

INVESTIGATES NEED FOR ADDITIONAL MAIL SERVICE

Mr. Priest, U. S. Railway Mail Inspector, of Washington, D. C., with supervision of the railway mail service over the Seaboard and Southern Railways, was in Louisburg the past week where he met a committee of citizens to make an investigation for the necessity of a late out-going mail from Louisburg post office. He gave assurance to those present that their claims were justified and that the service was necessary and that he expected to recommend same to the Post Office Department.

The meeting was arranged by Chairman David Harris, of the Kiwanis committee. It is expected, should the service be ordered, that the mail will be dispatched from the local post office at about 7:45 p. m. every day except Sunday.

LARGE NUMBER AT- TEND BOXING BOUTS

Quite a large number of people gathered in the Planters Warehouse on the night of March 22nd, to witness the first boxing show ever to be held in Louisburg. Intensely interesting and very amusing to the audience was the Battle Royal between five colored boys, won by Waddell Dent after much hectic slugging. Five very interesting bouts followed.

The main bout between Jimmie Miller, of Henderson, and Firpo Hipps, of Wake Forest, ended in the second round with Miller on the floor counted out by the referee, after taking a terrible punishment in the first round. Ula Stroupe, of Wake Forest, was winner over Red Holt, Louisburg's favorite.

Obie Davis, of the University of North Carolina, won over Joe Serio of Baltimore in 4 rounds.

Immediately following this bout Serio asked for a return match with Davis, which will be on the next card to be staged here Friday night, April 5th.

Morris Berlow, of Baltimore, knocked out Bill Nance, of Wake Forest, in the second round.

Charles Gomer, of Baltimore, was awarded the decision over Maynard Harper, of Wake Forest, after three rounds.

The referees were Coach Stanley Coffall, of Wake Forest; Dr. H. H. Johnson, of Louisburg; and Mickey Brooks, of Baltimore.

The judges were Dr. A. H. Fleming and E. F. Thomas.

Woman's Auxiliary of St. Paul's Church

The Woman's Auxiliary of St. Paul's church met with Mrs. R. F. Yarborough Monday afternoon, which was followed by the Lenten service, conducted by Rev. J. D. Miller.

Mrs. Scoggin opened the meeting with the creed and prayer.

Mrs. Yarborough read the Gloria Psalm, the 100th Psalm.

Minutes of the last meeting were read.

Mrs. Scoggin called for reports of committees.

Discussion of a room to be provided for the meetings of the young people ended with plans for such provision.

It was by approval of the Auxiliary the day was named to send package of clothing to the Near East station.

The program included the subjects, "Africa" and the "United-Thank Offering," this being the day to collect the little blue boxes.

Mrs. Robert Smithwick in former program gave a graphic description of the "Faiths of Africa," which might well be called, "Superstitions of Africa."

Miss Mary Yarborough continued the program on Africa with a recitative account of a little native African boy, who accidentally became a stow-away on a vessel, which landed him in Scotland.

It was a strange and interesting tale she told, which held her listeners' full attention.

Mrs. Beck read an article on the United Thank Offering presented at the Triennial meeting in Washington, which offering amounted to more than one million dollars.

Mrs. Scoggin read a beautiful paper on the "U. T. O. Answers the Church-S. O. S.," pointing out the countless ways, big and little in which the United Thank Offering brings relief to conditions which call for help.

A Box Convention followed, each member taking part, representing the little blue box, in individual petition, then the offering was taken.

The program concluded, announcement was made for the next meeting, April 5th, with Mrs. Malcolm McKinne.

Easter Services at Baptist Church

On Easter Sunday, March 31, "The Easter-side of Christian Experience," will be the subject of the morning sermon to be preached at the Louisburg Baptist Church by Rev. A. W. Fleischmann. His afternoon subject will be "Christ Within the Shadows."

On last Sunday morning speaking on the subject "Behold the King Cometh," Rev. Fleischmann brought out two important facts, namely, the King presented in humility, and the King appearing in Majestic Glory.

The note of triumph dominated the discussion of the theme. In the appearing of the King in Majestic Glory, one catches the inspiration of a mighty hope and encouragement to continue steadfastly until the day of ultimate triumph.

At the evening hour of worship, the subject was "The Love of the Real Christ to the Father."

The entrance was made through a small door opening on Main street. Bloodhounds were taken to the scene as soon as it was discovered but could only trace the thieves from the building to the curb on the street.
