BEAUTIFUL WEDDING CEREMONY

Solemnized at Maple Springs when Miss Annie Harris became bride of Mr. Clyde E. Rodwell.

A lovely June wedding of State wide interest was solemnized about twilight Saturday evening, June 29th, when Miss Annie Fleming Harris, daughter of Senator and Mrs. Clyde Peebles Harris, of Louisburg, became the bride of Mr. Clyde Eitelbert Rodwell, Jr. of Warrenton, the ceremony taking place at Maple Springs Church, near Louisburg. Rev. S. L. Blanton, Pastor of the Louisburg Baptist Church officiated, using the beautiful and impressive ring ceremony.

The entire front of the church was filled with lustrous evergreens, upon whose soft cool background there stood out immense white cluster of Queen Ann's Lace. Lovely green ferns also served as decoration in the rostrum while on either side of the altar, in tall silver candelabra, beautiful white tapers burned. To complete the decorations, tall glowing tapers were arranged in holders on either side, the entire length of the church.

Especially beautiful and appropriate music was rendered prior to the ceremony. "Shubert's Serenade" and "Venetian Love Song" were played by Mrs. A. H. Fleming, and "At Dawning" was sung by Arthur Fleming, Jr. Mrs. Herman Rodwell, of Warrenton, sang "Still Unexpressed"; while a quartette, composed of Mrs. W. E. White, Mrs. Bruce Berkeley, Mr. Malcolm McKinzie, and Dr. H. H. Johnson, softly sang the Bridal Chorus from Lohengrin as the bridal party entered.

Mrs. C. P. Harris, mother of the bride, dressed in orchid chiffon, and carrying an arm bouquet of pink roses, entered just ahead of the bridal party and took her place with the family in the pews to the left at the front especially reserved for the bride's family, the pews to the right having been reserved for the groom's family and those in front between the two aisles for the special friends of both parties from Warrenton and Louisburg.

The ushers in full dress entered next by way of the left aisle, and were followed by the bridesmaids, the dame of honor, and the little flower girl, who took their places in the front of the church on either side of the altar, the bride entering meanwhile on the arm of her father, Mr. Clyde Peebles Harris, while the bridegroom entered, accompanied by his brother, Mr. Raleigh Rodwell, of Henderson, as best man, meeting at the altar where a beautiful marriage ceremony was performed. Mendellson's Wedding March was played softly as the bridal party left the church.

The bride wore a beautiful gown of lace and tulle, fashioned with a long tightfitting lace bodice and tulle skirt over white satin. She wore also a lovely bridal veil trimmed with dainty orange blossoms, and carried a corsage of pure white Calla lilies. The dame of honor, Mrs. H. L. Candler, of Henderson, sister of the bride, was dressed in sheer pink chiffon, with a pretty corsage of pink gladioli to match.

The bridesmaids, Misses Margaret Wilder and Mary Malone Best, cousins of the bride, were dressed respectively in beautiful gowns of jade and taffeta, made with the long tightfitting bodice, dipping somewhat in the back to form an uneven hemline. They both carried arm bouquets of snapdragons and roses.

Gene Candler, little niece of the bride, acted as flower girl, wearing a dress of pink organdy and carrying a basket of rose petals. Those acting as ushers were Mr. Clyde Harris, of Wilson, and Mr. Mortimer Harris, of Louisburg, both brothers of the bride, Herman Rodwell, of Warrenton, brother of the groom, and Brodie Jones, of Warrenton.

The bride, the daughter of Senator and Mrs. C. P. Harris, of near Louisburg, is a member of one of Franklin County's most prominent families, and is a most attractive and accomplished young lady, having received her education at Meredith College.

The groom is a prominent young business man, of Warrenton. Mr. and Mrs. Rodwell left after the bridal ceremony on a motor trip through the Valley of Virginia. They will be at home to their friends in Warrenton after July 7th.

MISS DAUGHTER HONORED

One of the seasons most delightful entertainments was celebrated Thursday evening, June 27th when Misses "Pete" Hill and Louise Cooper were hosts to Miss Bess Daughtridge, of Rocky Mount, house guest of Miss Cooper.

The hospitable Hill home was exceptionally attractive with a wreath of Queen Ann's Lace dyed in pastel shades which was arranged in the various rooms, while the artistic decorations and galaxy of vari-colored lights formed scene of brilliancy on the porch.

Delicious punch was served during the entire evening from a huge ice bowl which was made especially attractive by zennias frozen in the block of ice and being left open at the top, formed a unique punch bowl. Baked with ferns and other foliage this made one corner of the porch unusually pretty.

MOTHER'S EYES ARE GROWING DIM

Mother's eyes are growing dim she can but scarcely see us now, but we hope some day to meet her in that home beyond the sky where no eye grows dim with seeing and where there are no good-byes.

Mother's eyes are growing dim in the twilight of to-day, but we hope that the beacon light from yonder light-house is sending out its rays to light the pathway for her feeble feet, as she journeys on this way.

Mother's eyes are growing dim and I know that soon we'll miss her, but it won't be long before we too will pass this way, but if we are faithful and true then we can forever be together with him who doeth all things well.

Mother's eyes are growing dim with years so many and yet so few. Four score years and three she's lived yet we all still held her dear for what she's meant to us, we know that soon we must say farewell, but not for that thou hast given to us these many years to the one we love so much, we thank thee dear Lord for our mother years.

Mother's eyes are growing dim she is so feeble now, but we feel that we can but justly ask one thing—more may thy protecting hand be ever near to soothe her feeble brow. Mother dear I know we will miss you when from earth to heaven you've passed, then each day with him Divine you will await our coming some other time.

SAM HARRIS GETS LEG BROKEN

Sam A. Harris got his left leg badly crushed Saturday afternoon about 3:00 o'clock when Peter Williams, colored, driving a Chevrolet roadster, failed in an attempt to make the turn from Main Street into Tarboro Road and ran jam up to the porch of Henry Yarborough's store building on the corner, where Harris and Walter McDowell were sitting. McDowell managed to get out of the way, but Harris not being able to escape, received such injuries to his left leg that he was rushed to St. Agnes Hospital, Raleigh, where his leg was amputated.

Williams stated that in trying to pass a car which was coming down Main Street, he was not able to make the turn. Eye witnesses say that Williams was driving too fast to take the turn.

Williams was arrested by Chief of Police Ben Meadows, and was bound over to the Superior Court by Mayor L. L. Joyner, without bond, pending the outcome of the injury to Harris.
