

SIGNIFICANCE OF A "SPECIAL DAY"

It is indeed a beneficent influence that for a season, however brief, deflects or withdraws the mind from the mad rush of commerce and industry and directs it into the ways of pleasantness and peace. And it is indeed a blessing to have the turmoil and hurry of life slowed down a bit annually for the sake of humanity.

Our calendar year is marked by days, weeks and months. We live not by months or weeks, but by days. It is therefore important that we take account of the contribution each day makes to our lives. We look upon "special days" as more attractive, enlightening and conducive to increasing our happiness and enriching our domestic and social relations than other days.

THANKSGIVING is one of the "special days" which, during recent years, comes to North Carolinians freighted with the spirit of goodwill, of cheerfulness, of happy greetings fragrant with friendship that means service where service may be needed. If we would enter into and enjoy the real spirit of Thanksgiving we must keep our minds and our hearts fixed upon the Star of Bethlehem's manger from which emanated a spirit of meekness, love and helpfulness unsurpassed in the history of mankind.

To rightly appreciate the spirit of Thanksgiving we must have the spirit of the Christ who called the little ones to Himself and said: "Suffer little children to come unto Me and forbid them not, for of such is the Kingdom of Heaven." It is when we have the sweetness of love and the spirit of the Master in our lives that we brighten and cheer the lives of those around us. Each of us have an individual part to perform in life's drama; each has a duty incumbent upon him, each has a responsibility to meet. Our future success will depend on individualizing our allotted share of the service to be rendered in making the world a better place in which to live.

Few situations in life are more distressing than that of children without homes. No loss seems so great as that of parental love. Bereavement inflicts its stroke with acutest anguish when it cuts all the tender ties that bind the loving lives of father and mother to our devoted heart. Other sorrows, other losses we may bear with fortitude. Other bereavements, even, seem not to fill our spirit with such bitter humiliation; for they come to us in after-life, when we have somewhat learned to bear the lessons of grief, and when manhood or womanhood has brought us increased power of endurance.

Childhood, with all its ignorance of worldly sorrow, and with all its frailty of spirit, is overwhelmed by tribulation of being orphaned. The orphan, therefore, is entitled to peculiar sympathy and protection. The child bereaved of its natural guardianship and left, in its weakness and tears, to the mercies of a cold world, becomes the very symbol of defenseless affliction; and as such, it should receive the protection of every man's arm and the affection of every woman's heart.

To the North Carolina Orphan Association, it is the solemn consideration that God Himself has made especial promises of protection to the orphan, friends who will "stick closer than a brother." Friends who come in the hour of need and become vehicles of Mercy:—Truth and Justice flashing no rates of stocks or pageantry of kings, but making the circuit of the world with help for the destitute and honor for the lowly.

Those capable of estimating the value of the life of a child bereft of the blessings and comforts of a home, should realize what it means to enlist in the movement to swell the treasures of the orphan homes in the State at Thanksgiving, remembering that the Master Himself gave expression to the inspirational pronouncement, "It is more blessed to give than to receive." To those who are looking for some outlet for the joyful spirit of Thanksgiving we commend, to their consideration, the appeal of the North Carolina Orphan Association which is, once again, asking every citizen of the "Good Old North State" to contribute the income of one day out of 365 to the orphanage of his or her choice, on or before Thursday, November 28, the day set apart by the President of the United States and the Governor of North Carolina for the celebration of divine goodness.

EVERYBODY, old and young, rich and poor, learned and illiterate, are asked to join in this holy movement and thus "visit the fatherless in their affliction." Respond in the right spirit and realize a continual thanksgiving in your soul which will enable you to scatter sunshine along the pathway of others on the journey toward the "setting sun." Make the offering on the basis of your earning capacity for a single day—more if you will; less if you can do no better. Make it through your church, your lodge, or forward direct to the orphanage in which you are most interested.

The need for liberal Thanksgiving offerings, has not been so apparent in a long time as it is this year. Let us rise to the dignity and demand of the hour by each doing his level best to bless the State and lift it to a higher plane of beneficence and good will. The Thanksgiving season is a most appropriate period during which our people may show their appreciation of the splendid service the orphan homes are rendering in the care, protection, training and education of orphaned children who might otherwise become a menace to society and a care upon the public.

Citizens of North Carolina, do your duty to yourselves, to your community and to the State at Thanksgiving this year and realize the full delights of service by making glad the lives of hundreds of bright boys and girls, bereft of parents, who are now under the fostering care of the fine orphan homes located in various sections of this splendid old Commonwealth.

 Saturday—Office.

The week of the 25th is for the extension force designated "Annual Report Week." Agents are supposed to spend all their spare time making out annual reports.

Dr. B. F. Kaupp, Professor in the poultry department at State College will speak over the radio from Raleigh Wednesday, Nov. 27th at 1:55 P. M. on "The Cost of Growing Broiler for Market."

There will be a national 4-H Club program broadcast from 36 stations on Saturday, November 30th at 12 noon.

The State Forest Nursery writes that the black walnut seedlings will be shipped this coming week. Each Black Walnut Club member is to have 25 Carolina seedlings and two from Mount Vernon or Arlington.

Sixteen members were present at the meeting of Mitchiners Club at the home of Mrs. E. L. Kemp Thu. P. M. The club followed up the talk on construction of draperies given by Miss Estabrooke at the last Federation meeting by actually constructing draperies. The social half hour in the hostesses pleasant home was very much enjoyed. Ambrosia and cake was served.

At the meeting of the Bunn Club Friday methods of securing new members was discussed, plans were made and committees appointed for a social meeting to be held Friday evening, Dec. 13th. The subject for discussion was "Construction of Draperies."

Wood Girls' Club met Wednesday with good attendance. Wood Woman's Club made a start in the new members contest by enrolling a new member at the meeting Wednesday. The new member promises faithful attendance so in all probability she will count in the contest.

Cedar Rock Girls' Club met at 2:30 Tuesday. The Woman's Club met at 3:00. Cedar Rock Club would like to see every member and some new members out at the December meeting which will be on December 17th.

abrasion or sore of any kind on the hands. It can be easily prevented if all persons who dress rabbits or quail would use rubber gloves or refrain from such duties if there is any suspicion of sores or abrasions about the hands and arms from which infection could enter. Thorough cooking of infected rabbits destroys the infective agent, and there is no danger for people who eat such food after it is thoroughly cooked. The danger comes through handling the uncooked carcasses.
 We hope that sufficient publicity may be given at this time to this item because it may help to prevent any undue uneasiness among persons who are fond of such food and at the same time will protect any one liable to infection. To sum up, our advice to people who like rabbits for food is to go ahead and eat them as usual, but to be careful in dressing, and to thoroughly cook them before eating.

HEALTH SUGGESTIONS

DR. R. F. YARBOROUGH
 County Physician

On Nov. 15th I visited Epsom High School and vaccinated sixty-six children against small pox.

Mr. Woodward, the wide awake and progressive Supt. with several of his high school girls aided me very efficiently in dispatching the work.

Of the sixty-six children vaccinated, not one made complaint, whined nor cried while being vaccinated or while getting ready for it. All came up smiling.

At one o'clock I was served a most tasteful and wholesome lunch in the school lunch-room, where daily, Mrs. Ayescue prepares wholesome diet for the school children. I was surprised when she told me that the excellent dish of vegetable soup with meat in it and bread was served for five cents.

Tularemia

The following article issued by the Bureau of Health Education, should be of interest at this season: Nov. 20.—During the last ten days the press service of about fifteen state departments of health have sent out literature, some of which has reached our desk, calling attention to the fact that now the hunting season is open all hunters should beware of rabbit fever. Our regular readers will recall that in the October Health Bulletin we published a short article on the subject. In that article we called attention to the fact that some of the United Public Health Service recent reports placed suspicion on quail as well as rabbits.

This disease is a rather serious occurrence and for the most part is by handling or dressing for the table rabbits, and, as just said, possibly quail, which are infected with the disease. This infection from the infected rabbit or bird may be easily transmitted to a person who has an
