

MRS. MCKIMMON SPEAKS TO FEDERATION

Emphasize Gov. Gardner's "Live at Home" Program—Meeting Largely attended and Enjoyed.

"Live At Home" was the topic upon which Mrs. Jane S. McKimmon, State Home Demonstration Agent, spoke to the Franklin County Federation of Women's Clubs in the carrying out and assisting Gov. O. Max Gardner in his State-wide "Live-At-Home" Program.

In her address, Mrs. McKimmon gave the women the standard normal diet to furnish bounding health, the majority of which can be produced on the average farm of the State.

The meeting of the Federation of Women's Clubs was held at 10:30 o'clock Saturday morning, January 25, in the Home Economic rooms in Mills High School in Louisburg.

Following the address, dinner was served, after which a second business session was held at which time the reports of the different committees and clubs were made.

TO ACQUAINT PUBLIC WITH SCHOOL COSTS AND POLICIES

On Monday afternoon the Supervising Principals of the several County School Districts, the Superintendents of the Franklin and Louisburg public schools, the County Superintendent and the Chairman of the County Board of Education met as a County Committee and organized.

Each Superintendent and Supervising Principal was instructed to go back to his district and organize it by appointing a suitable committee of five or one for each school in the district.

MRS. PEYTON SYKES CLAIMED BY DEATH

Beloved Woman of Spring Hope Succumbs at Her Home

Spring Hope, Jan. 24.—Mrs. Peyton Sykes of Spring Hope, N.C., after several years of failing health, passed away, at her home, on January 22, at 10:30 p. m.

Before her marriage, she was Miss Josephine Alweda Gay, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Henderson Gay of Franklin County. At the age of sixteen, she married Peyton Sykes, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Sykes of Franklin, also.

This couple were the parents of sixteen children, to each of whom was given a Bible name viz: Matthew, Mark, Luke, Sarah, Anne, John, Timothy, Ruth, Paul, Benjamin, Mary, Martha, Stephen, David, Isaac; one daughter who died in infancy.

Mrs. Sykes leaves her husband, ten children, fifty-eight grand-children, and eighteen great-grand children, besides a host of other relatives and friends.

The living children are J. M. Sykes of Summertown, Ga.; E. M. Sykes of Cedar Rock, Mrs. T. H. Sledge of Cedar Rock, Mrs. R. C. Hunt of Castalia, P. T. Sykes of Spring Hope, Mrs. M. T. of Spring Hope, B. B. Sykes of Bluefield, W. Va.; Mrs. W. E. Beddingfield of Bunn; Mrs. G. A. Alford of Raleigh; and I. C. Sykes of Washington, D. C.

Mrs. Sykes was an exceptionally fine woman, energetic, industrious, economical, cultured, and refined. She will be greatly missed as a good neighbor and friend. She was a faithful member of the Primitive Baptist church.

The funeral services were conducted at her home on January 23 by Elders Denny of Wilson, and Williams of Castalia. Her remains were interred at the family cemetery in Franklin county.

This is the Age of Woman's Success in Business

Here are eight women who have proved their equality with men by their success in operating great New York business enterprises. Mrs. Van Namee heads one of the largest floral establishments in the world. Mrs. MacDougall operates a chain of high-class restaurants. Miss Dillon is President of the Brooklyn Borough Gas Company. Mrs. Ryan's business runs to $100,000 a year. Miss Le Gallienne manages New York's most successful theatre. Miss Helburn heads the Theatre Guild, which produces the city's best plays. Mrs. Bowman is president of a large advertising company. Mrs. De Forrest manufactures varnish on an international scale.

AN APPRECIATION OF MRS. A. J. COOKE

When on the ninth of January, the sad tidings reached Louisburg that Mrs. A. J. Cooke had passed into the Great Beyond, there was sadness over the whole town and deep sorrow to her loved ones and friends.

Coming suddenly, her death was a great shock. "Just a sigh and then good-bye," as she fell in the arms of her daughter.

Her body was brought from Beaufort, to the home of her husband's sister, Mrs. E. S. Foster in, Louisburg. The following day, after an impressive service, at the home, her body was laid to rest at Oak Lawn Cemetery by the side of her little son, who left her long ago. Both mounds were covered with fairest flowers from friends, far and near.

Loving hands placed them there thinking sadly of the touch of the "vanished hand," and the sound of the voice that is still. Stella Branch Cooke was the daughter of Col. John Branch, of Branch Hill, Cincinnati. One sister Mrs. Carrie Law of Cincinnati, and a brother Charles of Indiana are all of prominent families.

She was married to Mr. A. J. Cooke, and came to Raleigh, a bride. Mr. Cooke was a native of Louisburg, but at that time was manager of the Yarrow Hotel in Raleigh. Mrs. Cooke soon learned to love this beautiful southland, and his people became her people at once.

Cultured and refined, possessing a rare loveliness and charm, attracted all who knew her, and made for her many devoted friends. Her keen sense of humor often, for others, changed "gray skies to blue."

The joyousness of her spirit, the ready smile, the cheerful outlook on life were the qualities which made the loving wife, the tender and devoted mother, the sincere friend. If one beautiful trait was more outstanding than another, that trait was loyalty. True to her God, true to her family true to her friends.

But Mrs. Cooke's days were not all glad days; there came into her life sad days, days so dark that but for her faith in the Masters touch, and the tender love of her husband, who shared her grief, she might never have found the silver lining to the black cloud that engulfed her, as she watched by the bedside of her first born and saw him die.

But God is good and in the younger son Buell, she found all that a son might mean. The home she loved with her husband, her son and his wife, (cherished as an own daughter), the little grand daughter, Virginia will miss her most, but they with others whom she loved will have only tender memories all down the years.

As one looked on the face of Stella Cooke, so peaceful, so beautiful in death come the thought expressed by Jerome K. Belle: "What is this mystery that men call death. My friend before me lies; in all save breath She seems the same as yesterday. Her face So like to life, so calm, bears not a trace Of that great change which all of us so dread. I gaze on her and say: She is not dead. But sleeps, and soon she will arise and take Me by the hand. I know she will awake And smile on me as she did yesterday; And she will have some gentle word to say. Some kindly deed to do; for loving thought Was warp and woof of which her life was wrought. She is not dead. Such souls forever live In boundless measure of the love they give." Con.

Predicts World Peace

Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt, veteran leader of the long struggle for feminine rights, as she presided over the Conference on the Cause and Cure of War at Washington, predicted the end of all warfare within a century.

DR. W. W. PEELE TO PREACH COMMENCEMENT SERMON

Announcement comes from the office of President Alexander, of Louisburg College, that Dr. W. W. Peele, pastor of the First Methodist Church, of Charlotte, has been secured to preach the commencement sermon on Sunday, May 18. Dr. Peele is one of the outstanding ministers of the state. He was formerly professor of Bible at Duke University. In recent years he has held such pastorates as Edenton Street Methodist Church in Raleigh, Trinity Methodist Church of Durham, and has been pastor for a number of years of the First Methodist Church of Charlotte, one of the largest churches of the state. For a number of years Dr. Peele was a member of the Board of Trustees of Louisburg College.

REV. A. L. THOMPSON ADDRESSES KIWANISANS

Rev. A. L. Thompson gave the Kiwanis Club last Friday night an interesting talk. He took as his subject, "The Country Church". Clearly he outlined to the club just what the country church meant to its community; just how it had weathered the storm of our modern time.

In his talk, he peered far into the future and stated that he would glory in seeing the country churches consolidated as our schools throughout the state and nation. Briefly he outlined what consolidation would mean to the churches and to the members. He gave plans of how this could be done, and gave reasons why it should be done.

Reverend Thompson, who is pastor of the Louisburg Circuit of the Methodist Church, is, no doubt, far ahead of his colleagues in thoughts and plans for the future.

Kiwanian Harry Johnson, Chairman of the Boy Scout Committee, asked a member of that committee, E. L. Best, to give to the club an outline of the committee's activities. He stated that Wake, Durham, Vance, and Franklin Counties composed this Boy Scout district. Clubs in this district have a Counselor who visits each meeting of the organization. One club in the county, Franklinton, has engaged the services of this man. This committee is interested in securing him for the local club. The matter was directed to the Finance committee for consideration, and is to be reported on at the next meeting of the club.

President Mills introduced, to the club, his guest, Dr. B. C. Johnson of Punn.

A CARD OF THANKS

I want to thank each and every one for the kindness shown to me during my husband's affliction and death.

TO BEAUTIFY LOUISBURG COLLEGE CAMPUS

Louisburg College, Jan. 27. "Beauty of Louisburg College Campus" was the slogan of an enthusiastic meeting recently held in the College office and attended by a number of prominent Alumnae. The Alumnae Association is sponsoring a move to plant shrubs and flowers on the campus. Mrs. Maurice S. Clifton of Louisburg, president of the Association, presided over the meeting which was addressed by President C. C. Alexander, who presented a sketch prepared by a landscape architect for beautifying the campus.

Plans were adopted whereby Alumnae and friends of the College will be asked to give the price of one or more shrubs. It is planned to hold a "Beauty of Louisburg College Campus" day the latter part of Feb. at which time the actual planting is to begin. Universal interest and enthusiasm has been shown by Alumnae and friends of the College in the move. Louisburg College Campus has one of the most beautiful natural settings in the state, consisting of a ten acre oak grove, which if beautified by shrubbery and flowers should become a place of unusual beauty. Other officers of the Alumnae Association are: Mrs. Cary Howard, secretary and Mrs. J. O. Newell, Treasurer.

VOCATIONAL AGRICULTURE AND ITS RELATION TO THE COMMUNITY

(This is the second of a series of articles being published in The Franklin Times in which the various phases of vocational Agriculture are discussed.)

The Agricultural Advisory Committee in order for the department of Vocational Agriculture to work properly, there must be a direct contact formed between the department and the community. This is done very largely through the Advisory Committee. This committee varies in number in different localities, but each member of the committee is carefully selected because of his qualities in leadership and general ability.

The Advisory Committee helps the teacher of Agriculture plan his program of work for the year and then, if the most good is to be accomplished, helps him carry out the program of work. Especially in Evening Class work the Advisory Committee can be of untold value to the department by talking to their neighbors and causing them to become interested in Evening Class work and then by enrolling them in the classes. It is a physical impossibility for a teacher of Agriculture to attend to his daily duties at the school building and also to visit all the farmers in his community and talk to them about Evening Class work. When the advisory committee falls in this respect, then the department of Vocational Agriculture falls to be of the most value to the community. The final test of Agriculture in the high schools is the income it adds to the people of the community. If such a department does not increase the earnings of a community there can be but two reasons. One is the teacher and the other is the community. If the teacher is at fault, he should be removed and another secured. If the community is at fault, the department should be moved to a community which will take advantage of it. No community which makes its living from farming can expect to do its best work without a carefully made community program in farming. This program is made out by the Agricultural Advisory Committee and the teacher of Agriculture working together. After the program has been made, unless the high school pupils enrolled in vocational Agriculture, their parents, members of the Evening Classes, and the Advisory Committee all work together, the program can be of little service to any community.

The Agricultural Advisory Committee, then is one of the vital parts of the department of Vocational Agriculture in high schools, and without a live committee the work in any community will eventually fail.

JOHN J. WOLFE, Teacher of Agriculture, Edward Best High School.
