strength than in 20 years. My digestion was so bad that I couldn't eat anything but bread and milk. I lost weight rapidly, had terrible pains in my back and sides, and a rheumatic condition developed all over my body. For months I couldn't turn myself in bed or even move without help. I was told I couldn't live and I'd lost hope of ever finding relief. But Sargon changed my whole life. I am eating anything I like without the least indigestion and I'm so strengthened and invigorated that I do all my housework and milk the cows too. There isn't a pain left in my body and I actually walked three miles the other day to a school house to attend a meeting.

A TRIP TO SPAIN AND ITALY

By COLE SAVAGE

PART I

For some time I have wished I could take a trip abroad. I have wanted to go to supplement my education with travel. But since I haven't the money to buy ocean voyages I did not know exactly how to go about it. Not long ago, however, I saw a news item in a Norfolk paper which said several young Americans were needed as caretakers of mules on a ship to Spain. Here, I thought, might be an opportunity. So I applied. The outlook was not very encouraging at first because they would not tell me anything definite. I kept hammering away at my work in Jackson, not thinking very seriously about a trip until Tuesday, January 14, when they told me if I wanted to go to get ready and report with bag and baggage Saturday, January 18. I reported and to my glad surprise got on.

We sailed from Norfolk, Va., Monday afternoon, January 20, on the Italian steamship Monarca after spending two days loading. We had loaded 1200 Missouri mules which were going to Barcelona, Spain, and Oran, Africa. The crew, which was Italian and 42 in number, had loaded about 7,000 tons of coal for Genoa, Italy. As supplies we had 500 bales of hay, 1,000 bags of grain and 1,500 tons of water.

The Monarca was 480 feet long, 12,000 tons, and was especially fitted for carrying mules. It had three decks of stalls with running water throughout.

There were 39 Americans to take care of the mules, Abe Ferrar, of East St. Louis, Ill., about 35 years of age, had charge of them. Those composing the party loaded as follows: 20 at East St. Louis, Ill., one at Knoxville, Tenn., 12 at Salisbury and six at Norfolk, Va.

The work was divided like this: four were bosses, one was mess boy, two were nightwatchmen and 32 were feeders and caretakers. It happened that I was nightwatchman. The other nightwatchman was A. H. Berry, of Ashley, Ill. He was about 38 years of age and wore a mustache and goatee. His grandfather was a native of Morganton and moved to Illinois soon after the Civil War.

My task was to look after half the mules at night, untangle them and see that none of them got crippled or hurt. I was given a hickory walking cane and a flashlight with which to work. I went around every hour and looked at them. As there were three decks and I had to go from one to the other I had a lot of walking and climbing to do. I had never worked at night and it took me several nights to get adjusted. I got so sleepy I could hardly stay awake. I could do so only by moving continually. My hardest time was from 2 to 5 a. m. I seemed to be loaded with lead at that time. Then daylight would come and drive the drowsiness away.

We ate two meals a day furnished

"The Rate Around My Place Were Wise," Says John Tuttle.

"Tried everything to kill them. Mixed poison with meal, meat, cheese, etc. Wouldn't touch it. Tried RAT-SNAP. Inside of ten days got rid of all rats." You don't have to mix RAT-SNAP with food. Saves fussing, bother. Break a cake of RAT-SNAP, lay it where rats scampers. You will see no more. Three sizes, 25c, 55c, $1.25. Sold and guaranteed by S. F. Boddie, druggist, and F. R. Pleasants, druggist, Louisburg; Winston-Blanks Drug Store, Youngsville; and J. H. Weather, Bunn.

by the ship and one furnished by the mule company. That made our breakfast American and dinner and supper Italian. For breakfast we usually had corn beef and crackers, jam or syrup and -prunes, and coffee. For dinner we had spaghetti and hard-boiled eggs, European beans, potatoes and boiled beef. Supper was similar to dinner. At first this fare was good but it soon grew monotonous. Along toward the last the boys called our ship the "Spaghetti Special."

Did I get seasick? I thought I wouldn't but what I thought didn't happen. I was the sickest I have ever been and was that way for four days and nights. I got sick after we were about 12 hours out. While the ship was rocking and rolling I began to feel dizzy. In two instants I had unloaded my stomach of everything it contained. Then I felt as weak as a rag. On the second inspection round my boss, noticing my condition, said, "You wouldn't care if you fell overboard, would you, Savage?" "No, I wouldn't," I replied, and I meant it. Well, I would; I need you," he continued. And that was all the sympathy he gave me. After four days I made the adjustment and returned to food and sleep.

As it was winter we sailed the southern route going south of the Azores. We had no storms on the Atlantic and very little rough seas. We sailed for days and days without seeing any signs of life except on our own ship.

It took us 20 days to go from Norfolk to Barcelona. We were 15 days on the Atlantic and five days on the Mediterranean, one of which was spent unloading 165 mules in Oran, Africa. At Oran peddlars came on board as soon as we docked and stayed most of the day selling tangerine cigarettes, post cards and germines, chocolate bars, Cookies, spirituous drinks. We bought eats and cigarettes mostly. I got 22 fresh tangerines for a dime. The peddlars were Arabs and French. The Arabs wore the fez on their heads but otherwise were dressed similar to a working man in our country. They were all dirty and filthy looking.

We ran into a storm before reaching Barcelona and for a day and night the Monarca cut capers in all directions. About 1 a. m. a terrific rain-storm with thunder and lightning surrounded us. During the next day spray kept coming over the forward deck wetting everything on top. While we were eating supper Berry had his plate on a pile of hatch boards on the top deck. The ship rocked low to the side, his supper took a scotch across the deck and was kept from running into the sea only by the trench at the rail.

At 7 p. m. on Sunday, February 9, we sailed into port at Barcelona Spain. The lights were beautiful and the land was a charming sight after 20 days on a wide, wide ocean with men, mules and manure.

WAKE FOREST OFFERS SIX WEEKS COURSE

Wake Forest, N. C., May 19.—Announcement has just been made that the Wake Forest College Summer School of 1930 which has previously operated in a nine weeks continuous term, this year will have a six-week session ending on July 19 and the nine-week session on August 9.

Dean D. B. Bryan, Director of the Summer School, believes that the provision for a six-week course of instruction will meet the needs of many who desire to attend Wake Forest but for whom the longer session would offer a handicap.

Since its organization ten years ago the Wake Forest Summer session has trebled in size and last year had an enrollment of 600 students and thirty-two professors. All but six instructors in the summer session are members of the regular college faculty. The latest addition to the teaching personnel is Mrs. Flora Private Wilson, Principal of Lakewood School, Durham, who will be instructor in Primary Methods. Mrs. Wilson is a Master of Arts graduate of the University of North Carolina where she distinguished herself in scholarship receiving the Phi Beta Kappa award. She was recently granted a $1500.00 fellowship to do research work in New York University.

OUR RALEIGH LETTER

District, composed of Buncombe and Madison counties, the Supreme Court was unable to complete the hearings within the usual period and held over Saturday, its usual holiday, to hear important tax cases from Buncombe County. Appeals from the Twentieth District are to be heard this week, and then comes the summer vacation.

May 31 has been fixed as the date fixed for the freeing of Ida Ball Warren who was saved from the electric chair by Governor Locke Craig, her sentence later being commuted to thirty years by Governor Bicket and finally to twenty years by Governor Gardner after her paramour, Sam P. Christy, assumed entire responsibility for the murder of the woman's husband fifteen years ago. With time off for good behavior, the prisoner who caused Governor Craig to experience many sleepless nights, goes back to the hills a free woman and may spend next Sunday in the little church by the side of the road where she used to go with mother when she was a tiny little girl.

Representing the North Carolina sons of the American Revolution, William A. Graham, commissioner of agriculture, placed a wreath of roses at the foot of the Vance statue on Capitol Square here May 13th, the one hundredth anniversary of the birth of the State's Civil War Governor.

A Great Discovery

When Pasteur discovered, in 1822, that the infection of wounds was caused by malignant bacteria, he performed a service of inestimable value to mankind. Since then medical science has been producing better and better antiseptics, to kill these germs that may enter the smallest cut and give us diseases such as typhoid, tuberculosis and lockjaw. Now, all you have to do to be sure that these dreadful germs will not infect a wound, is to wash that wound, however small, thoroughly with Liquid Borosone, the modern antiseptic. You can get Liquid Borosone, in a size to fit your needs and purse, from F. R. Pleasants, Druggist.—Adv.

The honest reason

THERE IS ONLY one real reason for smoking and that's pleasure. A pretty good reason after all. The cigarette you select in the long run will be the one that can contribute most to your enjoyment.

Camels are made with that idea in mind—the idea that genuine smoke pleasure is what you want in a cigarette.

When you try them you will find a refreshing difference—a mild, mellow richness of choice tobaccos—a blended harmony of fragrance, silky smooth—that makes smoking a delight.

The fact that more millions have chosen Camel than any other cigarette is a tribute to an honest product, marketed for an honest purpose.
