

HOYT-PEARCE

In a ceremony marked by great beauty and impressiveness, Miss Ida Pearl Pearce, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ricks Archibald Pearce of Louisville, became the bride of Mr. Charles Taylor Hoyt, of Washington, N. C., on Wednesday afternoon, June 18, at five o'clock at the Methodist Episcopal church in Louisville.

The Church was attractively decorated with alms, evergreens, ferns, huge baskets of Queen Annes' Lace and regal Lillies, while tall cathedral candles with their soft mellow glow filled one with a sweet sense of solemnity.

Mrs. H. J. Lewis presided at the organ and rendered a beautiful musical programme, selections from the Operas. She was accompanied on the violin by Mr. Sam Allen. Mrs. David Miller Carter, of Washington, sang two exquisite songs, "The Dawn" and "O Promise Me".

The ushers were Dr. Sandy Jenette, Augustus Bowers, Henry Clay Carter III, of Washington, and George W. Ford, of Louisville.

Master Thomas Barker Dameron, of Goldsboro, cousin of the bride, dressed in a quaint suit of black velvet, acted as ringbearer, and little Miss Helen Welch Tucker, gowned in ruffled pink taffeta was exquisite as she scattered rose petals in the path of the bride.

Miss Flora McLaurin, the maid of honor, was a picture of loveliness in ecru-marine blue net embroidered in white, with pink picture hat, carrying an arm bouquet of pink roses and snap dragons.

The bride entered with her father, who gave her in marriage. She was piquantly beautiful in beige chiffon and lace, match accessories and picture hat with a shower bouquet of sweetheart roses and valley lillies.

Rev. A. D. Wilcox, the bride's pastor, performed the ceremony, using the beautiful betrothal service of the church. During the service Mrs. Lewis and Mr. Allen played softly "Sweet Mystery of Life".

The marriage marks the union of two families prominent in social, military, and political circles of the State. Mr. Hoyt, himself, is a prominent young business man of Washington being a member of the firm of J. K. Hoyt and Company. Mrs. Hoyt was educated at Louisville College from which she graduated. She has specialized in art in New York and other cities, and is an artist of marked ability. For three years she has taught in the Washington Public School, and by the loveliness of her character and her sweet disposition has endeared herself to the whole community.

Mr. Hoyt attended school at Bingham Military School at Asheville, and from there he pursued his studies at the University of North Carolina.

Immediately following the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Pearce, parents of the bride, entertained at an informal reception at their home, "Northfield Hall". The stately old home was beautiful, nestling, as it does, among the majestic old oak trees, and the decorations of roses, Queen Ann's Lace, gladioli and larkspur lent even more quaintness to the scene.

The bride and groom left after the reception for an extended tour through the mountains of North Carolina.

Following the reception a buffet supper was served the out-of-town guests, who were: Mrs. John H. Hoyt, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Clay Carter III, Mrs. Jarvis Suggs, Mrs. David Miller Carter, Mrs. John D. Galais, Mrs. Robin Hood, Mrs. Lewis Mays, Mrs. W. F. Clark, all of Washington; Mrs. T. Barker Dameron, of Goldsboro; Mrs. K. W. Edwards, Mrs. A. L. Hobgood, Mr. and Mrs. Conrad Sturges, all of Henderson; Mrs. Simon Williams, of Franklinton; Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Smith, Jr., of Virginia Beach; Misses Elsie Benthall of Woodland, Isa Sills Dameron of Goldsboro, Louise Sills, Mary Sills, Lorraine Sills of Nashville; Eliza Barden of Tarboro, Totie Carter of Raleigh; Augusta Clark, Miller Carter, Margaret Nicholson, Mary Credle, Frances Hundt, Mary Baughman, Christine Windley, of Washington; John K. Hoyt, Dr. Sandy Jenette, Augustus Bowers, Jack Satchwell, James Bowen, Ronald Rhodes, Leon Brock, Kirkwood Ellsworth, of Washington; J. N. Sills of Nashville, McKay McKinnin of Maxton, Fred Morris of Franklinton, Gray R. King of Nashville, F. Barker Dameron, Jr., of Goldsboro.

FARM WOMEN TO MEET AT STATE CONVENTION

Farm women of North Carolina will have a prominent part in the Farm and Home week exercises at State College announced for the week of July 29 to August 1.

In addition to the instruction at the sixth annual short course, the State Federation of Home Demonstration Clubs will hold its annual meeting, and five prominent farm women of the State will be honored with the title of Master Farm Homemaker. Mrs. Estelle T. Smith, director of the short course activities this summer, says more than 1,000 women are expected to attend. Last year there were 935 women registered from 71 counties.

The five master farm homemakers will be honored at a ceremony on Tuesday evening, July 29, with Dr. Clarence Poe as speaker. These five women have already been nominated by their neighbors and friends and passed upon by the College faculty and the Farmers' Wife, national farm woman's magazine. The State Federation of home demonstration clubs will meet on Thurs. July 31. Each club in the State is entitled to send one delegate. Most of these have already been selected, says Mrs. Smith.

Friday, August 1, will be observed as honor day for the women. Thirty are eligible to receive certificates for having attended four short courses and those of this number present at the short course this year will be awarded certificates by President Brooks.

There will be a number of important entertainment features this year and good speakers. The course of instruction for the women will include work in foods and nutrition, clothing, home and yard beautification, home management, home furnishings, child studies and other features.

Begins to look like something would have to be done about the weather—investigate it, perhaps, or give it an airing in congress.

Perhaps the summer resort hotel owner's league raised a purse for the weather man.

Makes Westward Trip Across Atlantic

Harbor Grace, N. F., June 25.—While the Southern Cross fliers slept today, mechanics refueled the airplane and preparations were made for the continuation of the flight to New York, at dawn tomorrow.

Baffled by fog thick as soup and more dangerous than buffeting winds, the Southern Cross, veteran of the air, paused here, 1,000 miles short of New York and the goal aspired to by Capt. Charles F. Kingsford-Smith, daring Australian flier, and his three companions.

The trip in silver monoplane, its three motors roaring through the night, spanned the North Atlantic in 27 hours and 35 minutes, and having flown the 2,190 miles from Port Marnock, on the Irish coast, settled out of the morning mists here at 6 a. m., E. S. T.

They had four gallons of gasoline left when they landed, after having flown about for hours, lost in the darkness and impenetrable fog. At one time, the Southern Cross was reported past Cape Race, on the southeastern tip of this promontory of the continent. They actually flew several hundred miles farther than the air line distance from Ireland to Newfoundland.

After sleeping until 4 p. m., the fliers, recovered from their long and gallant flight, began preparations for the cruise to New York tomorrow.

Enfield, June 21.—John E. Timberlake, prominent citizen of Enfield, ended his own life in a by-path near here last night about 8 o'clock. Despondency over ill health and financial worries is given as the cause of the deed.

ERROR IN TABULATION OF COUNTY VOTE

Our attention has been called to an error in the vote as tabulated in our primary return schedule for sheriff. The vote in Franklinton township for Justice shows 252 which makes the total of 1533 appear 100 too many. A check with the original tally sheet of the canvass by the Board of Elections shows this to be only a typographical error. The figure should be 252 instead of 253 and shows the total to be correct. The error is entirely due to the proofreader, printer or linotype, and presents a situation that is not entirely unlikely as it is practically impossible to handle as many figures as were in this table without some little error, however we regret that such should happen.—Editor.

COTTON COSTS AVERAGE FIFTY DOLLARS AN ACRE

The average acre of cotton produced in North Carolina costs $50 in labor, fertilizer, ginning and other costs. Working from this as a starting point, the grower knows that he must produce at least 312 pounds of lint when cotton sells at 16 cents a pound before he will produce the cost of production. Either this or he must cut the cost of production below $50 an acre.

"Few growers, however, know what it costs them to produce an acre of cotton," says Dr. G. W. Forester, agricultural economist at State College. "The season is not too far advanced but that a fairly accurate figure may be obtained for this year. It will be necessary to recall the number of hours of horse or tractor work put in on the crop up to this time. Any work done last fall, such as cutting the stalks, discing and seeding for a cover crop needs to be charged against this year's cotton. The time spent in breaking, discing, harrowing, running rows, ridging, distributing fertilizer, seeding, chopping and cultivating should be listed. The time spent by hired labor need not be recorded but the cash paid should be entered as a direct expense. The value of the fertilizer must be given and manure when used. A fair value of $3 a ton should be charged for the manure. The market price for home-grown seed or the purchase price for bought seed must be recorded. Dusting materials and all items from now on until harvest must be accounted for." The total of all these will show the gross cost, says Dr. Forester. The net cost may be secured by deducting the value of the seed. This net cost divided by the number of pounds of lint grown per acre will give the cost of producing one pound.
