PLANT BULBS IN FALL FOR BEST SPRING FLOWERS

Flowering bulbs which make the garden beautiful in spring do best when planted in October in North Carolina and must have a fertile, loamy soil filled with plant food.
 "There is nothing difficult in growing the common hardy bulbs which make the garden a pleasing display early next spring," says Glenn O. Randall, floriculturist at the North Carolina State College. "The first thing to do is to have a good garden soil. Most folks know what this means. The soil should be worked into good physical condition so that it is soft and loamy and not hard and cloddy or too sandy. Then a plentiful supply of well-rotted manure is needed. Manure should never be used until it is thoroughly decayed. Then bone meal is a splendid commercial fertilizer to use. Tankage might be added in the spring before growth starts.

 After the soil has been put in shape, plant the bulbs in October or even as late as the first of November in the eastern part of the State, says Mr. Randall. The important thing is to give the bulbs ample time to develop a good root system before extreme cold weather.
 The bulbs are set five to six inches deep with each bulb in solid contact with the soil. Do not leave an air space below the base of the bulb. This checks development of the root system. The best flowers are secured where the root system has had a chance to fully develop and to use all of the available plant food.
 If these simple precautions are observed, there is no reason why the gardener should not have beautiful flowering bulbs next spring.

 Mr. Bluntly—No, it filled the refreshment-room and the conservatory.

With one-piece dresses, with transparent dresses, slips are by far better than petticoats. With jacket suits and with many opaque dresses petticoats are more convenient. So now we take our choice.

There are taffeta petticoats. Sometimes these are attached parts of the dresses they are worn with. They are trimmed with scallops and with embroidery and sometimes with tiny frills and pleatings.

But the newer silhouette makes crepe de chine the admirable fabric for petticoats. It is so soft and supple and clinging, it washes so well, it comes in such lovely colors, that it combines many of the best qualifications for petticoats.

These new elaborate as you please, and quite as formal as petticoats of taffeta. They are edged with lace, sometimes, with lace insets for trimming.

For more tailored wear they are finished with a scalloped, double hem. The petticoat in the sketch is an easy one to make for yourself. It is made of four lengths of material. The front length—as long as you wish the petticoat—is ten inches wide. The side lengths are eight inches at the bottom, and are slanted in at both seams so that they are four inches at the top. The back section is thirty inches wide at the bottom, twenty-two at the top. The four pieces are French seamed together, and the top is turned under in a half inch hem. A four-inch length of quarter-inch elastic is fastened in this top hem at the seams joining front and sides, extending about six inches into the back. This brings the fullness at the sides and leaves front and back smooth.

BUNN SCHOOL NEWS

First Meeting of Senior Literary Club
 On Wednesday September the twenty third the senior literary club met for the first time after its organization on Sept. the sixteenth. The minutes of the first meeting were read by the secretary which was followed by the election of a vice-president (Estelle Richards); selection of a social committee (Hattie Murphy, Jessie Lee Pearce, Linwood Mullen, Othelle Mullen).

Afterward a letter from our mascot (Richard Lee Bowen) was read to the senior class, expressing his willingness to help us in any way possible. We appreciate Richard's spirit and we are sure he will make a useful and loving mascot.

After this the following program was rendered by one of the group captains, Juanita Perry, and her team. Sketch of Life of Longfellow—Ruby Grey Horton.

A Psalm of Life—Othelle Mullen. Sunrise in The Hills—Procter Alford.

The Builders—Roslyn Hollingsworth. The Arrow and the Song—George Pearce.

The Two Angles—Marguerite Harris. The Slave Singing at Midnight—Dena Pearl Bunn.

Short Story of Hiawatha—Jessie Lee Pearce. The Skeleton in Armor—Juanita Perry.

As will be noted the program consisted wholly of Longfellow's works. The reason for this was to carry out unity in the program and because the group captain thought his works would be great interest and help to all.

OTHELLE MULLEN.

Indoor Baseball
 "A good beginning makes a bad ending," is an old saying Bunn High school would like to dispute. If every one could see the multitude of boys and girls going out for indoor baseball, their spirit, their sportsmanship, and the efforts they are putting forth, the same thing would enter their minds.

The two teams have already been made, both girls and boys, but it's a hard task to tell which are first nine's and which are second nine's.

The girls seem rather slow in getting started in indoor baseball. They have just organized their team this week but are planning to do some good playing. Pep it up girls! You can't let the boys beat you that way. Loraine White, Asso. Sports Ed. Horace Mullen, Sports Editor.

Gazonda—Why, Gazook, how ill you look! What's the matter?
 Gazook—Oh, nothing much. Losing weight, that's all. Lost 120 pounds of flesh in one day.
 Gazonda—Impossible!
 Gazook—Fact, I assure you. My wife deserted me.

YOUR COTTON

What will you do with it?

Three propositions are open to you:

- (1) Sell it now at the lowest price in 26 years, a price far below the cost of production, and help to run prices down to still lower levels;
- (2) Haul it back home, throw it out on the ground, uninsured, and subject to fire and theft risk, and loss in weights and country damage, and put no money into circulation in your community; or
- (3) Pool your cotton now, avoid fire and theft risks, avoid loss in weights, avoid any damage, draw your advance within one cent per pound of market value plus amount due for better grades and staples, help put money in circulation, and still hold your cotton.

There is a far better opportunity for cotton to advance beyond the 6c level this year than there was for it to advance above 10c last year or 16c in 1929.

Information gladly furnished by our Field Men, Receiving Agents, and Warehousemen, or write the Raleigh office.
