One Case Sent Up For Jurisdiction, Another On Appeal—Other Cases Disposed of.

George Ragland was bound over to Superior Court under a warrant charging him with secretly assaulting and seriously and permanently injuring C. E. Pace, night policeman in Louisburg on Saturday night December 5th, under a $300 bond after probable cause had been found by Judge J. E. Malone in Franklin's Recorder's Court Monday. Only three witnesses were placed upon the stand for the State. The defense offered no evidence. Officers Pace and M. S. Perry testified to the attack, which occurred at the city lock-up, and Dr. H. G. Perry to the nature and extent of the wounds. Prosecuting attorney E. F. Griffin and Mr. Thomas W. Ruffin, of Raleigh made the arguments for the State and Mr. W. H. Yarborough presented the case for the defendants. Arthur Ragland was charged with interfering with the officer and was found guilty, and was fined $25 and costs, from which sentence an appeal was noted. "Lindy's" Baby Victim of Kidnappers

This picture of Charles A. Lindbergh, Jr., the 20-month-old son of Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, famous trans-Atlantic flier, and his wife, Anne, daughter of the late Senator Morrow, who was stolen out of the window of the Lindbergh home at Hopewell, N. J., on the night of March 1, was made only a few weeks ago.

NO TRACE LINDBERGH BABY

Hopewell, N. J., March 16.—The sudden departure of two German servants from the home of Mrs. Leandro Lightfoot of Franklin Park, N. J., shortly after the Lindbergh kidnapping, coupled with several suspicious incidents, was the only publicly-known clue remaining alive tonight, more than two weeks after Charles Augustus Lindbergh, Jr., was stolen from his crib.

The Lightfoot "clue," like hundreds of others, had been dismissed earlier in the case, but recent revelations—and the collapse of other, more plausible theories—brought the police back again for thorough examination into some of its strange phases.

Mrs. Lightfoot's two servants, whose names have not been made public, borrowed her car on the night of the kidnapping. The next day its speedometer showed they had traveled 60 miles. Mud on the tires indicated it had been driven off the main highways. Hopewell is about 20 miles from Franklin Park.

Aside from this no developments have taken place in the search for baby Lindbergh the past week.

Babe Ruth Signs 1932 Contract

NEW CONTRACT CALLS FOR $75,000 FOR THIS YEAR

Cinch To Win Pennant, He Says—King of Swat In Same Pay Basis Of President Hoover.

St. Petersburg, Fla., Mar. 16.—Babe Ruth signed a contract here today with the New York Yankees for the season of 1932 at a salary of $75,000. The signing followed a brief conference at Ruth's hotel between the home run slugger and Colonel Jacob Ruppert, owner of the club.

Ruth's new salary is a compromise between Colonel Ruppert's offer of $70,000 for one year and Ruth's demand for $80,000, the amount he has received for each of the last two years.

The cut of $5,000 represents a reduction of only about six per cent. It still keeps Ruth in the same salary class as the President of the United States, who gets exactly $75,000 per year.

"Babe, I wish you success this year and for many years to come," said Ruppert. "I hope and believe that with you and the young talent we have on the club, the Yanks will win the pennant."

"Colonel, I'm very much satisfied with this contract," replied the Babe. "I have always given my best to the Yanks and you know I will continue to do so. We are a cinch to win the pennant."

After the signing Ruth went to Water Front Park to get into uniform for his first exhibition game against the Braves.

Louisburg College Students Enter Style Show

Home Economic Girls Participate Again This Year Under the Direction of Miss Anne Dennison.

Miss Anne Dennison, teacher of Home Economics at Louisburg College, states that Louisburg College students will again enter the Style Show at Raleigh this year. Quite a number of awards were won by Louisburg students last year. The following is a part of an article from the News-Observer explaining this show:

For several years the Cotton Textile Institute. The Bureau of Agricultural Economics of the United States Department of Agriculture, and other organizations interested in the textile industry, have spent considerable time and money in their efforts to develop new uses for cotton. As a result of these efforts we are today using longer sheets; growers are shipping fruit, potatoes and unions in visible cotton bags developed by the Bureau of Agricultural Economics in co-operation with the Textile School at State College; ginners, in some instances, are using cotton bagging instead of jute, and many firms have begun the use of cotton stationery.

Many other new uses of cotton might be enumerated. In this article, however, attention is directed to a few types of cotton fabrics which, judging by comments heard during a period of several years, would prove popular with women for spring and summer wear if they were placed on the market in attractive colors and prominently displayed by merchants.

For the past four years the Textile School of North Carolina State College has conducted style shows in co-operation with the Home Economics Departments of North Carolina colleges for women for the purpose of aiding in popularizing cotton fabrics. Starting in 1928, with sixteen Meredith College girls participating, this annual event has grown rapidly and large numbers of people now look forward to it.

Another Style Show.
At the next style show, to be held in Raleigh on April 15, 78 young ladies representing Catawba, Louisburg, Meredith, Peace and Queens-Chlorca Colleges will participate. Thus, during a five-year period over 200 college girls will have demonstrated the utility and beauty of cotton and rayon fabrics to several thousand people who have attended the shows and to hundreds of others in a number of states.

The judges of the style shows previously conducted, have been Home Economics teachers, stylists and buyers for department stores and clothing specialists. The cotton suitings have been attractive not only to college girls but also to these experienced judges of style and beauty, as proven by the fact that each year young ladies who choose cotton imitations of woolen suitings from which to make their garments have won the majority of the prizes awarded to the contestants.

It is significant that for three years out of four, the winner of the grand prize has made her costume from a cotton suiting.
In view of the fact that cotton goods of the type mentioned above have proven attractive to college girls, mature ladies, buyers and stylists, one feels justified in again asking the question, "Is there a field for cotton

Rule Franklin Bond Issue May Be Made

Franklin County Commissioners Allowed to Make $150,000 Bond Issue

Judge W. A. Devin yesterday dissolved a temporary restraining order prohibiting the commissioners of Franklin County from issuing bonds in the amount of $150,000 for the funding of special notes.

Suit was recently brought against the commissioners and Charles M. Johnson, of the Local Government Commission, by J. H. Fuller and the Franklin Tax Payers Association, seeking to prevent the bond issue.

The plaintiffs contended that the proceeds of the notes, which were executed under a previous set of commissioners, were not used for the specific purpose for which they were made, and objections were raised to the issuance of bonds for their funding.

The bond issue was approved last year by the Local Government Commission and was protested by the Tax Payers Association, of which W. W. Neal is chairman.

The plaintiffs gave notice of appeal to the Supreme Court.

The defendants claimed that an audit of the county finances disclosed that the funds had been used properly and that the commissioners had a legal right to order the bond issue.—News-Observer.

A PROCLAMATION

Realizing the value of Milk in the regular daily diet of the people of North Carolina and especially in Louisburg and Franklin County and its wonderful influence in eliminating the dreaded maladies, such as pellagra, malnutrition, bad teeth, tuberculosis, repeaters in our public schools and general inefficiency among adults. And its recognized power in supplying the necessary elements to build strong robust men and women radiating with vibrant health and vitality. And recognizing the inexpensiveness of keeping a good milk cow, as compared with the costs of foods necessary to replace milk, making it possible in this great State of ours for all families to enjoy this wonderful health giving nature food.

NOW, THEREFORE, I, Louis L. Joyner, Mayor of the Town of Louisburg, do hereby heartily co-operate with the State and County medical authorities and designate the week from March 14th to March 20th, 1932, as a State-wide Milk for Health Campaign and do earnestly call upon all citizens of Louisburg and vicinity to join in the great movement for the betterment of local health conditions, and thereby better fit ourselves for our obligations to our selves, our families and our maker.
