argely Attended—Rep. Lumpkin Makes Address—Only Two Confederate Veterans Present.

Only two Confederate Veterans were present at the Annual Confederate Veterans Re-Union held at Justice on May 10. These were Mr. J.
L. Bowden, age 86, of Justice, and Mr. R. V. Collie, age 88, of near Seven Paths. One important part of the program was that left for "Remarks by the Old Soldiers", during which time Mr. Bowden told of the thrilling experiences he had as a led of experexperiences he had as a lad of seventeen years in the Civil War. Mr. Bowden served thirteen months, and Mr. Collie eighteen months during the

The address was delivered by Hor W. L. Lumpkin, of Franklinton, Representative from Franklin County to the General Assembly of North Caroina. Mr. Lumpkin began by saying that this large a crowd had gathered here to pay their respects both to the living and those who have passed on, who fought so nobly and with honest conviction during that great conflict. He emphasized the fact that this nation of our has never lost a war, and that the South did through it they gained a nobility of character, a great courage and valor. Speaking of the present depression, and with this question in mind, "Can't we face a trying situation in time of peace the same as our coun-try has always done in time of war?" Ar. Lumpkin left this message "Let us continue this same indomitable courage that these men have shown" indomitable Preceding the address, Miss Ethel Hayes gave a reading "Memorial Lsy", composed by Pearle Stallings Brower, Mr. Rowden's oldest grandchild.

Mr. L. A. Miller, former principal of Justice School, who acted as Master of Ceremonies, gave a musical stading, entitled "Swanee River". His little son. Haywood, age 4, welcomed the audience.

L. W. Bowden, son of Mr. Lonnie Bowden, of Raleigh, asked for a standing vote on the motion that this the 10th of May be dedicated to these Confederate Veterans, and that each year their grandchildren, friends and neighbors gather here to pay tribute to them." It was voted that this should be done.

Among the speakers was Mr. W. A Jones who related tales of the war as he saw them, he being a tiny boy Musical selections were played by the "Carolina Rebels", and patriotic songs were sung at intervals through-out the exercises. One special selec-tion was "They're Good Enough For Me", the verses being sung by little Miss Margaret Brewer, a great-grand-daughter of Mr. Bowden.

Invocation was said by Mr. J. L. Palmer, of Louisburg.

The school building in which the exercises were held was attractively decorated in the patriotic colors, red, white, and blue, and with spring flowers and evergreens.

Dinner was served on the grounds, after a short service held around the Confederate Monument there, in memory of the Confederate Dead.

After the dinner Lieut. Governor Fountain spoke to the crowd under the shade trees.

In the afternoon an interesting game of ball was played beween Justice and Taylors, the latter team being vic-
