

TODAY and TOMORROW

WASHINGTON - wants to vote. The people of the District of Columbia are again demanding the right of self-government. The President of the United States is the Mayor of Washington and the Congress of the United States its Board of Aldermen. Any changes in the ordinances for the government of the city have to go through the same legislative channels as a bill to raise billions of Federal revenue.

I lived in Washington a good many years. It is the cleanest, best-governed city in America, with the worst traffic regulations. Before the Federal Government took over the management, in 1875, it had its own elected Governor and legislative body, and it was probably the worst-governed city of that time. President Hayes proposed that the Federal Government would pay half the expenses, being the largest property owner, if the people would let Uncle Sam run his own Capital. They gave up their right to vote, but got in return a low tax rate and a well-managed community.

Some people, however, are never satisfied.

WOLVES - and wild dogs. There is a "wolf scare" almost every cold winter in Northern New York and New England. Tales of big timber wolves from Canada crossing the St. Lawrence on the ice frighten country people, who dread to go out after midnight. This year there have been so many sheep and cattle killed in the northern Adirondacks that the State has put a bounty on wolf scalps. I haven't heard that any bounty money has been collected, either there or in Pennsylvania, where there is another wolf scare.

We staged a wolf hunt in the hills near my farm a few winters ago. The "wolf" turned out to be a huge German "police dog" which had heard the call of the wild and reverted to life in the woods. I have talked with a good many hunters and naturalists since, and they are pretty well agreed that the recurrence of "wolf" raids can nearly always be traced to wild dogs, usually collies or Alsatian shepherds of the type called "police" dogs. Those two breeds are many generations nearer the ancestral wolves from which all dogs are descended, and when they break away from domesticity they know how to take care of themselves in a wild state better than most other breeds.

AUTOMOBILES - more comfort. I went to the New York automobile show and examined all the new and, many of them, odd-looking cars. One thing impressed me particularly, and that is the effort of all the makers toward greater comfort in riding. In such matters as independent front wheel suspension, moving the rear seat forward so it is not right over the axle, roomier and more comfortable seats, new kinds of windows to provide ventilation without drafts, larger and softer tires, and many minor details, the emphasis is all on comfort.

Greater speed through "streamlining" is another trend to which all the makers are moving. And nowhere have I seen such a variety of color, inside and out of automobiles. Manufacturers and dealers were jubilant. Sales at the show were far in excess of the highest expectations. This is going to be a good year for the automobile industry, but I would suggest to anyone who wants a new car to place his order now, for the factories are already behind the demand. Also, prices are likely to go up before the year is over.

CAREERS - often accidental. Few people know when they are very young what their life-work is going to be. Most of them find themselves in careers which they never dreamed of. There is Ted Geisel, for example. He went through two or three universities, intending to become a great author or a college professor, or both. But one day he drew a comic sketch and sent it to a popular magazine. It was published and caught the eye of the advertising manager of a big corporation.

"We want that young man to draw advertising pictures for us," he said, and that is what Ted Geisel has been doing, with great profit to himself and his employers and amusement to the public, for several years. Everybody has seen his pen-name, "Dr. Seuss," on advertisements.

Most people become whatever they are by accident, after all.

RESOURCEFULNESS - a girl. I am impressed by one result of the depression. It has stimulated the resourcefulness of many people, young and old, who had been content to let other people do things for them.

One young woman whom I know is supporting herself and her mother by giving parties. The husband and father, supposed to be wealthy, committed suicide in 1929, leaving his family with nothing but a house and its furnishings that they could call their own. The daughter had never been trained to any sort of work, but she had a wide circle of friends.

"I'm going to keep right on giving parties," she told them, "but to come to my parties you'll have to pay." At least once a week she gives a dance, with a simple supper, and her friends who still have money left flock to it and bring their friends, paying $2.50 a head. The young woman and her mother are living as well as they need to and she is putting money in the savings bank.

That's what I call resourcefulness.

MILITARY RITES SET FOR CAPTAIN HOLMES

World War Hero Victim of Combat Memorials

A military funeral for Capt. Richard N. Holmes, Sr., 48 years old, 128th Field Artillery, has been arranged for 2 o'clock Wednesday at his home, 2424 Cavell Avenue, with burial in Cave Hill Cemetery. Conforming to military custom, enlisted men serve as active pallbearers and the fifty-two officers of the regiment were named honorary pallbearers. Col. Sidney Smith and Lieut. Col. George M. Chescher are in charge of the arrangements. Captain Holmes, who died Monday afternoon of a cerebral hemorrhage, suffered throat and abdominal wounds in the World War. A native of Franklinton, N. C., Captain Holmes was educated in military schools, joined the Army at the age of 21 and went, as a first sergeant, to the Hawaiian Islands, where he was stationed for several years.

At the beginning of the World War he was promoted to a captaincy and went overseas as commanding officer of Battery A, Seventh Field Artillery, First Division, and was decorated for valor in action. Following the Armistice he was sent to Germany with the Army of Occupation and remained there two years. Returning to the United States, he was mustered out.

Meanwhile the 128th Field Artillery had been mustered out and reorganized as a reserve regiment, and Captain Holmes joined it and was named regimental adjutant, a position he held at the time of his death.

Captain Holmes is survived by his wife, Mrs. Martha Holmes, and a son Richard N. Holmes, Jr.—Louisville Times.

Science says Today use a LIQUID Laxative

If you want to GET RID of Constipation worries—

The unwise use of harsh laxatives may drain the system, weaken the bowel muscles, and in some cases even affect the liver and kidneys.

A doctor will tell you that the wrong choice of laxatives often does more harm than good.

Fortunately, the public is fast returning to the use of laxatives in liquid form.

A properly prepared liquid laxative brings a perfect movement. There is no discomfort at the time and no weakness after. You don't have to take "a double dose" a day or two later.

In buying any laxative, always read the label. Not the claims, but the contents. If it contains one doubtful drug, don't take it.

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is a prescriptive preparation in which there are no mineral drugs. Its ingredients are on the label. By using it, you avoid danger of bowel strain.

You can keep the bowels regular and comfortable.

The liquid test:

This test has proved to many men and women that their trouble was not "weak bowels," but strong cathartics:

First: select a good liquid laxative. Second: take the dose you find is suited to your system. Third: gradually reduce the dose until bowels are moving regularly without any need of stimulation.

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin has the highest standing among liquid laxatives, and is the one generally used. It contains senna, a natural laxative which is perfectly safe for the youngest child. Your druggist has Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin.

PRESCRIPTIONS FILLED

For twenty-five years this institution has held firmly to the policy that mixing a doctor's prescription was a most serious business. We have not been diverted from the original policy that ours was to be a real drug store. Perhaps that accounts for the confidence placed in our store by physicians and their patients. When you want prescriptions filled, bring them to us for prompt and efficient service.

WASHINGTON 1732 - 1799

WASHINGTON'S supreme contribution to our country was his unmatched leadership. It is to that ability that we pause in respect on the anniversary of his birth, February 22nd, for without such leadership our nation would never have grown to its present eminence; probably, in fact, never have existed as an independent nation at all. In our limited way we have attempted to lead and shall continue so in the development of Franklin County and its proper conduct.
