S. W. Fuller lost a barn full of tobacco Friday morning. Cotton was worth 1 1/2 cents a pound in Louisburg yesterday. Mr. and Mrs. Hillman Cash announces the birth of a daughter, Jean Leigh, on August 21st. Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Burnette have announced the birth of a son, Richard Thomas, on Thursday, August 15. The new front to the Wheless Store on corner of Market and Nash Streets to be occupied by Mr. Owens, is quite an improvement. The many friends of Rev. S. L. Blanton former pastor of the Louisburg Baptist Church were glad to have him with them Sunday morning at the 11 o'clock service. The Church was packed to overflowing. The fire Tuesday afternoon was at Mary Yarboro's residence in Blacktown. The fire department answered promptly, but the fire was extinguished before it arrived. There was no particular damage. The Vann-Moore towell mills in Franklinton were sold in Louisburg Tuesday under foreclosure, for $183,500.00 and were purchased by Chas. Watkins, Chairman of Bond Holders Committee. There was only the one bid placed.

The September meeting of the Joseph D. Davis Chapter U. D. C. will be held at the home of Mrs. Thornton Jeffress Tuesday afternoon at 3:30 p. m. September 3, 1935. Lets begin the fall with a full attendance. Sue T. Alston, Secretary.

PREPARING NOW FOR SPRING PASTURES

Temporary grazing crops, sown this fall, will provide cattle with good economical feed next spring at a time when the permanent pasture is not in condition for grazing. On many farms over the State, the supply of silage and hay gets low in March, with the result that cows are turned into the permanent pasture around April 1st. At this season the grass is short, watery, and low in nutritional value, said John A. Arey, extension dairy specialist at State College. The sod is also wet from winter rains and is easily cut by the hoofs of cattle. For this reason, Arey pointed out, cows should be kept off the permanent pasture until it has made a good growth and the sod has become firm. Hence, the need for temporary grazing crops or an adequate supply of silage. On farms where the soil is mostly clay, he added, the fields are easily damaged by early grazing and silage should be fed the cattle until the sod is firm and the permanent pasture grasses are more mature. For an early grazing crop, Arey said there are several seed mixtures that are good. He recommended a half-and-half mixture of abuzzi rye and barley sown at the rate of four bushels to the acre. By adding 10 pounds of crimson clover seed to each acre, he continued, the quality of this grazing will be improved a great deal. Seeding should be done about the middle of September on fertile soil to which 400 pounds of a good fertilizer has been applied to the acre. One acre of pasture will be enough for two cows.

Some people monkey with love almost as fearlessly as they would with a buzz saw.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

by Rev. Charles E. Dunn Paul, Lesson for September 1st. Acts 20:33-35. Golden Text: Acts 20:35.

In personal appearance Paul was unprepossessing. Various authorities describe him as dwarfish, hook-nosed, round-shouldered, and bald-headed. The apostle himself says that his enemies found his personal presence unimpressive. (See 2 Cor. 10:10.) But it is clear that he had a genial, winning expression which drew men to him through its contagious warmth. Perhaps his intelligent personal appearance was due to his ill-health, what he calls his "thorn in the flesh." Just what this malady was we do not precisely know. Some think he was troubled with acute inflammation of the eyes. Another suggestion is that he was subject to malarial fever. The most satisfactory theory is that he had epileptic seizures. We are profoundly impressed by Paul's courage, energy, and enthusiasm. In 2 Cor. 11:23-27 we read a most remarkable catalogue of mishaps. Only a man of iron nerve could have gone through such a sea of trouble. And how incessant was Paul's toil! The record of his arduous missionary tours testifies abundantly to his ceaseless activity. And how his letters shine with enthusiasm!

This glow of emotion is the overflow of a happy heart. Paul was happy in his converts, and in his gospel. Here was a man who felt, despite every rebuff and disappointment, the constant and joyous pressure of the Holy Spirit. And how he rejoiced in his friends! Nothing in his letters is more beautiful than the numerous expressions of tender affection for Timothy, Luke, and many others. But best of all, he was devoted to Christ. His passionate love of the Master was the mainspring of his noble, heroic career. The supreme zeal of his burning heart is summed up in those thrilling words, "To me to live is Christ," and "I live; yet not I, but Christ liveth in me."
