Bland-Johnson

The wedding of Miss Mary Ernest Johnson of Louisburg, and Dr. Charles Atlas Bland of Clover, Va., was solemnized at 6:30 o'clock this evening in the Cedar Rock Baptist Church near Louisburg. Rev. Lonnie P. Reavis performed the ceremony.

The church was decorated with graceful palms, ferns and other greenery which formed a background for the beautiful arrangements of tall baskets of clematis vine and white gladioli and two candelabra, each holding seven burning white tapers.

Prior to the ceremony, Mrs. Alice J. Uzzell played a program of nuptial music. Her numbers were "Ah, Sweet Mystery of Life," by Victor Herbert; "Traumerel," by Schumann, and "Liebestraum," by Liszt. Miss Thelma Mae Parham of Nashville, cousin of the bride, sang "At Dawning," by Cadman, and "All For You," by Brown. Mrs. Uzzell played the bridal chorus from "Lohegrin," by Wagner, as the processional, and as the vows were spoken, "I Love You Truly," was played. The bridal party left the church to the strains of Mendelssohn's wedding march.

The bride's attendants wore identical gowns of taffeta in fall shades, with accessories to match. The gowns were fashioned colonial style with draped shoulders, high waists and full skirts sweeping the floor in the back and showing the toes in front. Each attendant wore a cluster of sweet-heart roses in her hair.

The bridesmaids were Miss Martha Gray Dean of Louisburg, and Miss Mittie Lee Bland, sister of the bridegroom, all of Ellenboro. They wore gowns of rose romance and carried colonial bouquets of roses and delphinium tied with blue tulle.

The bride's sisters, Mrs. L. B. Eisenhart of Raleigh, as dame of honor, and Miss Annie Lois Johnson of Louisburg, as maid of honor, wore identical gowns of salmon blue taffeta and also carried colonial bouquets of roses and delphinium tied with rose-colored tulle.

Little Misses Sophia Jean and Marie Coppedge, cousins of the bride, attended as junior bridesmaids. Their frock also were of taffeta, made identical. Marie wearing rose romance and Sophia Jean, sailing blue. They, too, carried colonial nosegays of sweet-heart roses and wore hair ribbons to match in their hair.

Jimmy Fulghum, son of Dr. and Mrs. James Fulghum of Louisburg, was ring bearer, carrying the ring on a satin pillow. He wore a suit of white satin, with Russian sleeves, Peter Pan collar and white satin tie.

The bride entered with her father, Charles C. Johnson, by whom she was given in marriage. Her wedding gown of white satin also was made colonial style, featured by a seeded pearl neckline and lace sleeves puffed at the shoulders, and tight from the elbow, and ending with a point over the wrist. The skirt was flared at the bottom to form a long, graceful train from the waistline in the back. Her veil of imported rose point lace was shirred across the back, with a coronet of seeded pearls in front with sprays of orange blossoms on each side. The train fell in scallops around the edges. The bride carried a bouquet of bride's roses and valley lilies. Her only ornament was a necklace worn by her maternal great-grandmother on her wedding day.

The bridegroom was attended by Dr. Holland Thomas Myers of Raleigh, as best man, and groomsmen were Lloyd B. Eisenhart of Raleigh, Bruce Perry of Zebulon, and John B. Litchfield of Wake Forest.

The bride's going-away suit was an ensemble of navy blue crepe, trimmed with blue and white plaid taffeta, and navy blue accessories. She wore a corsage of white roses and valley lilies from her wedding bouquet. After September 15, Dr. and Mrs. Bland will be at home in Clover, Va.

A traveling salesman meets a farmer driving a mule team: Salesman—John, how has the depression hit you people in this neck of the woods? Farmer—Well, I ain't heered anything 'bout it. You know I ain't read a paper in a coon's age. We have all been well and as happy as common I reckon.

Louisburg Man—I want to know, once for all, who is the boss in this house? Wife—You'll be much happier if you don't try to find out.

There is danger in carrying a courtesy too far. On a street car a man gave a woman his seat. She faints. On recovering she thanked him. Then he fainted.

The average man wants to buy his experience in retail quantities, but at wholesale rates.

party owners adjacent to these alleys had signed an agreement to pay half the cost of the paving. After thorough discussion of the proposition and the fact that the time in which to do this work properly under a contractors guarantee, is limited, the Board decided to defer action on this matter.

The report of the Chairman of the Light & Water Committee was received by the Board.

A letter was received from Dr. G. H. Macon, Chairman of the Street Committee of Warrenton, N. C., requesting the Louisburg Board of Commissioners to cooperate with Warrenton and Wake County in securing a hard surfaced highway to extend from Norlina to Warrenton, to Louisburg, and through Rolesville to Raleigh, thus giving a shorter route south from Richmond, Va., to Raleigh, N. C. The Board approved this highway and instructed the Street Committee to do everything possible to secure it.

After allowing a number of accounts the Board adjourned.

NOW DEPOSIT INSURANCE IS PERMANENT

Just a year and a half ago, Federal Deposit Insurance on bank deposits was first offered to the American people.

Citizens Bank and Trust Company was not required by North Carolina law to provide this additional protection for its patrons, but did so voluntarily.

With very real satisfaction, therefore, we advise our friends and neighbors that passage of the Banking Act of 1935 has made Deposit Insurance Permanent on the present basis of $5000 maximum protection for every depositor in an insured bank.
