OBSERVE LADIES NIGHT

Louisburg Kiwanis Club Holds Delightful Meeting
 —Hon. Harold D. Cooley Speaks—Delightful Musical Program—Many Stunts

It was the great pleasure of the Kiwanians of Louisburg, their wives and lady friends to hear Hon. Harold D. Cooley, Congressman from the 4th District of North Carolina, deliver one of his happy and eloquent addresses at the usual Kiwanis banquet on Friday night of last week at Franklin Hotel, when the club observed ladies night. A large number were present to enjoy the splendid program arranged by Frank Wheelers, Jr., and the splendid repast served to each one present.

Mr. Cooley did not confine himself to any particular set subject but in most suitable words and illustrations, explained what was happening at Washington with the administration in its efforts to bring back normal times and to protect the people of this country against another big war. He appealed to them to cooperate with the administration and warned them against the propaganda that leads to war.

A splendid musical program was presented by Miss Bottimore, assisted by Miss Ruth Hurley and Mr. Turner, of Louisburg College, and Mr. Al Hodges, Jr., who were accompanied at the piano by Miss Wilker, also of Louisburg College faculty.

Stunts were in charge of Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Allen, and created much amusement. Mr. Allen invited Harry Johnson, Cecil Sykes, Blair Tucker, Gaither Beam, Willie Lumpkin and Aaron Tonkel to form a circle and play the game of pinch the face. Blair received the prize—a black face. Mrs. Allen requested Mrs. T. K. Stockard and Mrs. Herbert Perry to read letters to the Kiwanis Club seeking advice as to how to remodel their husbands. Mrs. Perry won the prize.

Mrs. Cooley, wife of the Congressman, was awarded the ladies attendance prize. Dr. J. E. Fulghum received the member attendance prize.

Favors represented by a small hat brush with miniature doll as handle, was presented each lady present.

The meeting was one of the most enjoyable held by the club in many months.

Dr. McDonald At Franklinton

Dr. Ralph McDonald, one of the outstanding candidates for Governor of North Carolina, addressed the Franklinton Farmers and Business Men's Club on Tuesday night. Besides being a fluent and interesting speaker he thoroughly convinced his hearers that he was well informed on state financial statistics. He brought to them many figures and facts that were interesting and informing, telling them of many things the average citizen of the State does not know of his government operations. His address was much enjoyed.

Quite a full attendance with many visitors were present and the club presented a splendid program as well as enjoyed a delightful supper.

"Judging by the way they're jumping around," says Chuck Smith, "some of these taxes must have grasshopper blood in them."

The survey included a careful study of local city governments, local relief plans and objectives. It is planned to submit the results to the Federal government. Photo shows local Camp Fire girls submitting a chart of city government to Mayor Ross.

STATE PLAYS CAROLINA

(By FRED DIXON)

College Station, Raleigh, Oct. 31.—Football stars, seeking all-State, all-Southern and all-American honors, will face one another Saturday when North Carolina State and the University of North Carolina meet at 2:30 in Riddick Stadium at State.

Heading the all-star lists are Steve Sabol, State center, and Don Jackson, Carolina's most brilliant of brilliant backs. In a recent All-American round-up story by the Associated Press, Sabol and Jackson were listed.

Sabol, according to his coach, Hunk Anderson, is as good a center as he ever coached. New York sport writers looked upon him as the best they had seen this year. For two years Sabol has been all-State and all-Southern and before the 1935 season opened he was listed as one of the six outstanding centers of the nation.

Sabol has had his best year this season. He has made only one bad pass and that was just a little wide; has not had a pass completed over him, and has intercepted two. He has broken up at least a dozen more. Sabol always gets more than his share of tackles.

Jackson has stepped up front among backs of the nation with a great demonstration of running and passing. He has averaged better than five yards every time he has carried the ball and has completed 21 out of 38 passes thrown. Jackson is the back State wants to stop.

The all-star list includes a large number of all-Southern candidates, including are Cowboy Robinson and Eddie Berlinski, State's sophomore backs; Mac Cara, left end, and Vince Farrer, right tackle, of the State line.

Carolina offers Harry Montgomery and Jim Hutchins, backs, and Dick Buck, Andy Bershak, ends; Tom Evans, tackle, and Babe Daniel, center.

Other stars are E. V. Helms, State's extra point kicking sophomore tackle; Captain Barnes Worth and Alex Regdon, State guards, and Howard Barden, Eddie Entwistle, "Jumping" Joe Ryneska, Jake Mahoney, Charlie Gadd and Joe Schwerdt, backs. Carolina presents Herman Snyder, Little and Dick Dashiell, backs; Bill Moore, John Trimpey and Van Webb, linemen.

JUSTICE W. J. BROGDEN DIES

Durham, Oct. 29.—Associate Justice W. J. Brogden, of the state Supreme court, died at his home here early tonight following an extended illness.

Willis James Brogden was regarded as one of the most level-headed members of the North Carolina Supreme court and was famed for his brief opinions, keen satire and ready wit.

The Justice, 57 years old, was next to the youngest member of the court. The youngest is Chief Justice W. P. Stacy, a close friend of Justice Brogden for years.

Born near Goldsboro October 18, 1877, a son of Willis H. and Virginia Robinson Brogden, Willis Brogden attended the Goldsboro graded schools and then at 16 years of age, rode his first train when he went to the University of North Carolina. One of the stories the jurist loved to relate was of that first train ride, and his mixed feelings of fear when the cars swung around curves and of pride that he was riding a train on his way to college.

Judge Brogden was graduated from the university in 1898 with the degree of bachelor of philosophy and went to Raleigh to teach school. He then took similar duties at Durham and studied law in the afternoons and at night at Trinity college, now Duke. He completed his law work at North Carolina and was licensed to practice in 1907.

In 1908 Judge Brogden took part in his first political skirmish and it was with pride that he would relate he had "never lost an election."

His first battle for votes was for prohibition. In 1911 he ran for mayor of Durham and served two terms. In 1920 he was campaign manager in six counties for Cameron Morrison and carried the counties. He also aided Judge Stacy in that year's campaigning.

Angus Wilton McLean, who died recently, chose Brogden as his state manager in 1924 when he successfully sought the governorship and later McLean appointed Brogden to the Supreme court. The Durham man qualified January 1, 1926, and in that year was elected to fill the two-year unexpired term at the hands of the voters in 1928.

Justice Brogden was one of the hardest workers on the Supreme court, rarely taking a vacation, and it was generally understood that his absence due to illness was responsible for the delay by the court in deciding the case involving the compromise distribution of the $90,000,000 estate of the late Smith Reynolds and those in which the validity of 1935 liquor laws is questioned.

He was a Mason and past master of Durham lodge, No. 352. He also was a Kiwanian and by faith was a Baptist. He was married in 1917 to Miss Lila Markham.

Duke Returns To Fundamentals To Prepare For Vols

Go Back To Work On Blocking; Also Spending Lot Of Time On Kicking And Running Game; Great Game Expected Saturday

(By TED MANN)

Durham, Oct. 30.—Duke's Blue Devils are making a return to the fundamentals this week as they prepare for their annual game with Tennessee's Vols, continuing a series which for the past three years has been probably the best-played in southern football.

For the past two weeks, the Blue Devils have fallen down on their blocking, kicking and running games. Every effort will be made to get these departments back at the peak they once held. There is little doubt among those close to the Blue Devils and the Vols but that the two teams will put out their supreme efforts thus far this season in Saturday's game. There have been too many great games in the past to expect the Saturday contest to be anything but great.

Durham and Duke have already taken on a holiday atmosphere for the game. Downtown business houses, the streets and the Duke campus are being brilliantly decorated for the greatest pregame celebration in the history of this state which will be featured by a three-mile civic parade in Durham on Saturday morning.

A series of "pep-meetings" are being held by the Duke students as they get solidly behind the team in their combined effort to snap out of this two-game losing streak and win their second victory from the Vols in five years.

The last time Tennessee came here, in 1933, students did a great deal toward inspiring the team to its great 10-2 win over the Volunteers. It will be an official holiday at Duke Saturday, and it will be Duke Home-Coming and Duke-Durham day and the events that take place, starting with the parade at 10:30 Saturday morning, have been planned for months. Thousands of former Duke students have notified the alumni office that they will be on hand Saturday for a full program of events planned for them which will be climaxed by the annual barbecue luncheon just before the game.

Prices Holding Up

Although the rain the past week has caused the quantity of tobacco offered for sale to fall off, the prices have held up well and seem to be inclined to advance with the season, especially on the better grades. It is about conceded that good tobacco, containing both color and body are bringing fair prices. It seems that the tobacco not selling so well are the grades not up to standard in body or color. The 1935 crop seems to be off in quality, especially in body.

Louisburg market is holding its own among the top notches in high prices for the season and invites you to bring your tobacco here to be sold, where a warm welcome awaits you.

 KATHERINE WEATHERS.

Locating Battle Ground

Some leading political observers have recently pointed out that indications for a tight and close presidential race next year were already being manifest... and that the battle ground would most likely be in key eastern and mid-western states.

The returns in this nation-wide poll, which is being conducted by this and some 2,000 other newspapers, bear out those predictions, even at this early stage of the balloting.

By eliminating the total "solid south" votes for all choices, the closeness of the race may be judged. The "solid south" states are: Alabama, Arkansas, Florida, Georgia, Louisiana, North Carolina, Oklahoma, South Carolina, Texas and Virginia.

The total votes for the respective choices in those 10 states and from which returns have been received, are as follows: Roosevelt, 17,962; Other Democratic choices, 2,817; All Republican choices, 7,532. By deducting the above totals from the total votes cast in 38 states, these results in the other 28 states are shown: Roosevelt, 24,217; Other Democratic choices, 2,694; All Republican choices, 27,568.

Conceding that the "Other Democratic Choices" votes would go to Roosevelt in official balloting, we get these figures for the 28 states outside the solid south: Roosevelt 26,911; Republican Choices 27,568.

In popular vote percentages for the entire 38 states, to date, as strictly between Roosevelt and Republican choices, they stand: Roosevelt 56%; Republican Choices 43%. Roosevelt shows a gain of 1:81% over one week ago, when on 36,477 ballots he had 54% to Republican Choices 45%.

The state by state tabulation of the national vote and the breakdown of the first, second and third choice vote for the respective favorites, furnish some interesting figures for the voters' perusal. They are printed herewith.

You Can Still Vote

There is still time to vote in this nation-wide poll, if you will hurry. The "Next President" ballot is printed on page 9 of this newspaper. Clip, vote and mail the ballot to this newspaper today. We will rush it along to the Publishers Autocaster Service in New York, the newspaper service
