Hunting Season Hints ————— by A. B. Chapin

his competitors offered merchandise at a dollar, he announced that his price would be 90 cents.

When he went out of business he owed a large sum of money. He settled with his creditors on a basis of about 10 cents on the dollar.

His idea of business was to cut the price. That is all that he knew about business. As a result he chalked up a miserable failure, folding his tent, and quit.

Not only did he lose his money but he deprived his competitors of a profit, and the trade was demoralized, and his creditors footed the bill. It even caused other business houses to fail, and because of no fault of their own.

No community can thrive unless people who do business make a profit. This applies to merchants, farmers, industrialists, and all. When some fellow thinks he can outsmart the rest of the crowd by elimination of profit he is nothing short of ridiculous. It costs money to operate a business, and anyone who thinks he can escape this cost is absurd.—Independent, Belmont, Iowa.

DID YOU EVER SEE THESE?

And, by the way, did you ever see a man carrying a billboard under his arm? No. Did you ever see a hand-bill on a reading table? No. Did you ever see a picture of the new hat you want come into the home via radio? No. Did you ever see a live newspaper thrown into the wastebasket without being read? No. That's why advertising in the Sun brings results.—Mississippi Sun, Charleston, Miss.

COOPER-TIMBERLAKE

Miss Lula Mae Timberlake and Mr. James Y. Cooper were quietly married in Henderson on Friday of last week.

Mrs. Cooper is the attractive and accomplished daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Timberlake, members of two of Franklin county's most highly esteemed and successful families and enjoys a wide popularity among her many acquaintances.

Mr. Cooper is the son of Mr. W. J. Cooper, one of Louisburg's leading citizens and business men, and is popular among his many friends.

A Scotchman once helped a friend make out his income tax. Yeah. He came to live with him as a dependent.

EDITORIAL

THE REAL BOGEYMAN

From all the reports that come out of Europe about the war situation, it seems to us that the main reason why England, France and a lot of smaller nations are trying to keep Italy from grabbing Ethiopia is not so much sympathy for the Ethiopians as that to let Mussolini get away with it would set a bad example to Germany.

Europe didn't worry much when Japan grabbed off Manchuria. That is a long way from London and Paris, and none of the "Great Powers" toes were trodden on. But Ethiopia is close to home, and Italy is one of the neighbors. If they let neighbor Italy go out and pick up new territory wherever it wants to, how are they going to stop Germany when Hitler's government gets ready to annex a slice of the Ukraine, or take over Czechoslovakia?

German rearmament is giving all the rest of Europe the jitters. Sooner or later, statesmen believe, the Germans are bound to make another armed drive for a "place in the sun." And that's another reason why the other powers are trying to conciliate Mussolini with one hand while trying to curb his territorial ambitions with the other. They want his support when the time comes to make another stand against Germany.

Hitler is the real bogeyman of Europe.

"CIVILIZATION'S SYMBOL"

The annual Roll Call of the Red Cross is under way. Its banner, the red cross on a white field, has been aptly termed "Civilization's Symbol." First used as a warning flag in war, it has become the emblem under which the armies of peace are enlisted in the never-ending warfare on disease and disaster in civil life.

It is a banner under which every citizen should enroll. To display the Red Cross emblem in the window is evidence that those who dwell in that house do not live for themselves alone, but are sharing the burden of caring for the afflicted.

The record of the Red Cross comes as near to being a record of unselfish humanitarianism as can be found anywhere. Whether it be the emergency created by a major disaster, such as fire, flood, shipwreck or tornado, or the more prosaic work of safeguarding public health, producing garments for the poor and needy, printing books for the blind, or any of the scores of other helpful services which the Red Cross constantly renders, it must at all times be prepared to meet the calls upon it. Its funds come from the voluntary contributions of all the people. The Annual Roll Call gives every citizen an opportunity to show his patriotism in the broadest and truest sense. In giving to the Red Cross, one gives to the service of all mankind.

IT OUGHT TO BE TRUE

"You can't trample the law underfoot and get away with it," Judge Clawson L. Williams told a Negro, guilty of a serious crime, in the New Hanover Superior Court. Everyone will applaud Judge Williams' statement and everyone would like to believe that it is true. But is it? In a county adjoining that in which Judge Williams spoke, two years have passed since a mob lynched a negro without one of those guilty of the lynching having been punished for trampling the law. In a county adjoining the county in which the State Capital is located, the months go by without any suggestion that any member of a lynching mob there will ever be brought to trial for "trampling the law underfoot." And this week in Texas a county attorney, commenting on a lynching, declared: "I do not call the citizens who executed the negroes a mob. I consider their action an expression of the will of the people."

Judge Williams ought to be right, but he will not be right so long as the law is trampled underfoot by mobs of men and the law shows itself helpless, sometimes even, as in the Texas case, shows itself amenable to the trampling of many bloody feet across the body of the law.—News-Observer.

To the minds of the lay citizens the necessity of such action on the part of the public is a most serious charge against our system of highly sensitized application of justice and our higher officials, who so often defeat the ends of justice as determined by the courts with their power of leniency. The people will ultimately rule.

HOW NOT TO DO BUSINESS

A Wright county merchant once went out of business. While in business he made no money for himself. He succeeded in keeping his competitors from making money.

He landed in the county with a stock of goods, and announced that he would undersell his competitors. If
