

A Tribute

On Tuesday afternoon, October 29th at 3:30 o'clock, the death angel visited the home of Mr. Ellis Harris and called to that beautiful home, his brother, Mr. Joe Buck Harris. God had permitted him to visit us as long as he could spare him and beckoned him home to fill a seat long vacant. Just think of the happiness in that heavenly band at the home coming of one of its members. Although Joe Buck had been denied the privilege of ever hearing a sound or uttering a word on this earth, he will never be denied these privileges again. In heaven he will be as the others, singing praises and listening to the voices of God and his loved ones. For the first time he has heard the voices of his mother and father who preceded him many years ago. We cannot even think of Joe Buck as being dead, for it has only been a happy awakening. Nothing to worry him, no more pains to endure, nothing but happiness and contentment forevermore. Mr. Harris had lived all his life in the house in which he was born, until the last few months when he became helpless and his brothers took him to live with them so they could care for him during his sickness. Although he suffered endless agony, there was always a sweet smile for anyone who entered his room as long as he remained conscious. Mr. Harris leaves to mourn their loss five brothers; Messrs. Arthur, June, Ellis, Plummer, and Turner Harris all of Franklin County, one sister, Mrs. Mary Ann Bailey of Franklinton and a host of other relatives and friends.

The funeral services were held from the home Wednesday afternoon at 3:00 o'clock, conducted by Rev. Charles B. Howard who paid a beautiful tribute to Joe Buck. Interment was in the family burying ground across the road from the home. The pallbearers were Messrs. Sam Bailey, W. M. Marks, Sam Newell, Georgia, and Foster Harris. The floral bearers were nieces of the deceased. Many beautiful flowers covered his serene place of rest which bespoke the high esteem in which Mr. Harris was held. Mrs. W. M. Marks. Cleveland County corn yields have been increased 100 percent in field demonstrations where 100 pounds of the nitrate per acre was added 45 days from planting, reports the farm agent.
