

Hoey--Let's Finish The Job

Raleigh, June 17.—"Let's finish the job."
That is the slogan of Hoey-for-Governor workers all over the State the days, said Hubert E. Olive, manager of Clyde Hoey's campaign for the Democratic nomination for Governor.
"Working in harness with the men and women who did such splendid work for Sandy Graham, we are going ahead at full speed," the manager continued. "Mr. Hoey and myself have been delighted with the response of the Graham forces, 90 per cent of which are continuing their fight against McDonaldism. Instead of having a let down following the first primary, we picked up speed, due to the help of the Graham workers."

Members of Hoey Headquarters staff here said they were glad that McDonald called for a second primary. It is their contention that a second primary was necessary to "finish the job" begun by Hoey, Graham and McRae camps during the first primary. They even tell a story that Marshal Foch, head of the Allied forces during the World War, went when Germany signed the armistice because he believed that it would be to the benefit of the entire world to go on to Berlin and "finish the job." It was lucky for North Carolina, these Hoey workers contend, that McDonald did call for a second primary in that it made it possible for the Hoey-Graham-McRae allies to go "on to Berlin."

"But don't think we are going to be the victims of over confidence," Mr. Olive added. "We know that there is still a lot of work to be done and we are doing it. Every county manager, every worker in our organization, knows that this job will not be completed until the sun sets July 4."

HALF OF U. S. FARMS IN HANDS OF TENANTS

The trend from individual ownership to farm tenancy was described as one of the major problems of the United States by Mr. W. B. Tarry of Louisburg, rehabilitation supervisor of the Resettlement Administration for Franklin County. He quoted figures compiled by the Resettlement Administration showing that nearly half of all farmers in the United States are now tenants.
"Every agricultural section of the country," he said, "has some tenancy." It ranges from around eight percent in the New England states to better than forty-five percent in parts of the corn belt and a high of more than seventy-five percent of all farmers in some parts of the cotton belt.
The figures of the 1935 census of agriculture indicate that farm tenancy is still increasing all major sections of the country. Tenancy in the states of this region is as follows:

North Carolina, 142,158 tenants, gain of 3 per cent since 1930; Virginia, 53,386 tenants, gain of 16 per cent since 1930; Kentucky, 103,215 tenants, gain of 16 per cent since 1930; Tennessee, 126,607 tenants, gain of 11 per cent since 1930; West Virginia, 27,021 tenants, gain of 76 per cent since 1930.

ASSISTANCE EXTENDED TO FARMER GROUPS

Farmer co-operative enterprises now may be organized in Franklin County with the aid of funds loaned to such organizations by the Resettlement Administration Mr. W. B. Tarry, county rural rehabilitation supervisor has announced.
Funds have been made available for loans to community and co-operative associations and to farm families for participation in such associations as well as in existing co-operatives. This is one of the means by which the federal government is helping farmers to gain new economic security, he said.
Loans will be made to co-operatives that submit sound plans on a basis of a real community need for the service, he said. There must be assurance that such an enterprise will be able to operate on a self-sustaining basis.

EARLY MOLTING HENS CUT EGG PRODUCTION

Early molting hens, which begin to drop their feathers in the month of June, are not worth keeping in good poultry flocks.
These birds, said Roy S. Dearstyn, head of the poultry department at State College, stop laying when they begin to molt, but they go right on eating feed and running up expenses.
They do not lay as many eggs as late molters, he continued, and the eggs they do lay are produced at a time when eggs are plentiful and prices are low.
Since early molting is an inheritable characteristic, they will pass this trait on to their offspring if left in the flock and used for breeding purposes, Dearstyn warned.
In hot weather, he added, it is especially important that only infertile eggs be produced for home consumption or marketing, as they have a much greater keeping quality than fertile eggs.
Except in the breeding season, roosters should be kept away from the hens. And only the best roosters, those with the ability to transmit good qualities to their offspring, should be kept for breeding.
If eggs are collected several times a day during the summer, and stored immediately in a cool place, they will keep much better. Wire baskets which permit air to circulate freely among the eggs are ideal for the storage room, Dearstyn stated.
But even under ideal conditions, eggs should not be kept in storage any longer than necessary. A poultryman who gets a reputation of marketing only fresh eggs can command good prices.
Lice and mites propagate rapidly in hot weather. Infested birds soon lose their vigor and fall off in egg production. Dearstyn urged poultrymen to examine their birds every few days, so they can check infestations as soon as they start.

McDonald Against Machine Rule

Raleigh, June 17.—Ralph W. McDonald today declared that the second primary campaign will be fought on the blunt question of machine rule in North Carolina.

"The people must decide at the polls if they want a continuation of the policies of the Gardner-Ehringhaus regime or if they want a State government in sympathy with the average man," the Democratic candidate for Governor stated.

Dr. McDonald's campaign manager, W. L. Lumpkin, agreed with the candidate that the burning issue of the second primary concerned disposition of "The political ring headed by Max Gardner, the super-lobbyist of America, and Clyde R. Hoey, the super-lobbyist of North Carolina."

Both were emphatic in pointing out evils that might arise if Hoey is chosen to guide the destinies of North Carolina for the next four years.

"For 30 years Clyde Hoey has represented and lobbied for the power companies," declared Lumpkin. "He worked himself up to a position of political power by protecting major interests. His brother-in-law, Max Gardner, has used the Governorship as a stepping stone to become the nation's Number 1 Lobbyist. Now Gardner is attempting to keep his hold on our State government by promoting his kinsman for the Governorship."

"What can the people of North Carolina expect at the hands of this ring of super-lobbyists who always have placed the major interests above the rights of the average man?"

Lumpkin pointed out that both Gardner and Hoey had received large fees for lobbying for special interests, Hoey for the power companies and Gardner for aviation and textile interests.

In calling for a second primary, Dr. McDonald quoted Sandy Graham's definition of the major issue of the campaign as whether "Max Gardner shall continue to direct the State by long distance telephone."

"Sandy Graham and I are in complete accord on that issue," declared Dr. McDonald, "and I call upon Graham's followers to join us in our effort to end machine rule in North Carolina. They are as diligent as I in wanting to restore the government to the people, and their rightful place is under our banner. The machine is on its way out in North Carolina, and I ask the

Six Winners Of Beauty Contests In Comedy Film

Contrary to popular belief, movie studios are not closed to girls who, to a blare of bugles and a rumble of drums, won beauty contests and titles in their home towns.
Six of them, five brunettes and a blonde, were found working with Warren William on the Warner Bros. lot during the production of "Times Square Playboy," which comes to the Louisburg Theatre on Sunday, June 21st.

The girls and their titles follow:
Vonda Pein, "Miss Washington" of 1934 and "Miss Seattle" of 1934 and 1935.
Maryon Curtiz, "Miss Birmingham" of 1932.
Colleen Colman, "Miss Chicago" of 1932, won under the name of Irene Colman.
Neomi Judge, "Miss Minneapolis" of 1933 and a Wampus Baby Star of 1934.
Ruth Moody, "Miss Denver" of 1931.
Claire Whyte, "Miss Texas" of 1928.

The girls, under contract to Warner Bros. admitted they came to Hollywood determined to enter pictures on the strength of their titles.
"Times Square Playboy" is a sparkling comedy drama taken from the famous George M. Cohan play, "Home Towners." The picture was directed by William McGann.
