

N. C. TOWNS MAY SEND SPONSORS TO WORLD'S FAIR

Charlotte, N. C.—New Yorkers and visitors to the World's Fair will always remember North Carolina as the state of beautiful girls, if the World's Fair Commission has its way. Every community and county in the state is being asked to send its own sponsor to the Fair on North Carolina Day (June 19th). Coleman W. Roberts, exhibit chairman, announced. Town and counties are also asked to send boys as color bearers in the parade which will be a part of the state's big day in New York.

The sponsors, to be selected in any appropriate way by their own communities, would be representatives not only of their towns, but also will typify North Carolina's charm and graciousness. Sponsors will hold their "office" throughout the term of the fair, or for six months, and would be officially recognized at any time they choose to visit the exhibit, but it is hoped to have all of them in New York on the day set aside as this state's own, when Governor Hoey will speak.

Schools and other organizations are being invited by the World's Fair commission to send bands to New York for this day, and two of them—Lenoir and Charlotte High Schools—have made plans to go.

Final plans for North Carolina Day have not been announced, but Roberts promised today that "North Carolina will monopolize New York and the Fair on June 19."

This Month On the Farm

Bolivar Pigg, he sez, sez he: "Happy New Year for you and me And all our friends and friends of friends And all the great big familiee." —Sez Bolivar P., sez he.

The following good farming practices are suggested by State College specialists for the month of January:

AGRONOMY
E. C. Blair, extension agronomist at State College, says to be sure to finish turning under all corn, cotton, and tobacco stalks as well as soybean, cowpea, and velvet bean vines if you live in the Coastal Plain area. The plant food in this material cannot be utilized in 1939 unless it is disced into the soil in time for it to decay before spring. If you live in the Piedmont, run the plows every day that the weather and the condition of the soil will permit.

SWINE
During the cold weather of winter, adequate shelter should be provided for every animal on the farm, including the fattening hogs. If these hogs are exposed to cold, they will use up considerable feed in keeping warm. January also is a good month to build self-feeders and farrowing houses to be used by spring litters. H. V. Taylor, State College swine specialist, says. Blue prints for building these may be secured from the county agent.

POULTRY
Watch out for winter colds, says Roy S. Dearstyne, head of the State College Poultry Department. Colds are contagious and spread rapidly. Some of the most common causes are: faulty diet, direct drafts, and faulty ventilation. When colds occur, check all factors of management, and remove all affing birds from the flock. Then clean and disinfect the house and keep a germicide in the drinking water as long as colds are present. Epsom salts in the

ANNIVERSARY

Just thirty-four years ago Sunday, Mr. J. F. May and Miss Pattie Collins, of Franklinton, were married and spent their honeymoon with their aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Harper.

Mr. Henry Harper was the uncle of Miss Pattie Collins and Mrs. Emma Harper was the aunt of Mr. J. F. May.

Those present at the celebration were Mr. and Mrs. J. F. May and son, Milton, Mr. J. E. Sultor and little daughter, Mary Joe, all of Roanoke Rapids.

Then came Mr. and Mrs. John Collins, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Winston and others of close family connection, all of Franklinton. After enjoying the dinner all left for their homes with happy thoughts of the day.

FIRE-RESISTANT
Where an extra high degree of fire resistancy in a frame structure is advisable, the use of zinc-chloride vacuum-pressure treated lumber is recommended. A blow torch blast can be turned on wood so treated, but will do nothing but char the wood with no after smoldering.

Next May 18 has been designated as "Peace Day" for the promotion of International good will at the 1939 California World's Fair.
