GADDY DELIVERS ADDRESS

Supt. W. C. Strowd, who made announcements at this time concerning the remainder of the commencement program.

Invocation and benediction were said by Rev. J. G. Phillips, pastor of the Louisburg Methodist Church.

Misses Anne Allen and Maxine Bailey, accompanied by Mrs. O. Y. Yarborough, sang a lovely selection "How Beautiful Upon the Mountains," by Harker.

Hymns were sung by the congregation led by the church choir.

Marshalls for the occasion were: John Knox Beasley, Chief; Sarah Davis, Betty Harris, Janice Frazier, Mildred Weldon and Eleanor Beasley.

Fashion Show
On Tuesday night, May 2, the Home Economics Classes of Mills High School, under the direction of Miss Katherine Rogers, held a fashion show in the auditorium to which their parents especially and the general public were invited.

On the stage, attractively arranged as a living room with furniture from the Home Economics Department and decorated with spring flowers, the Home Economics girls of the eighth, ninth and tenth grades modeled clothes which they made during the school year. These garments ranged from pajamas, housecoats, gay sport tops such as play suits, sun-back dresses, and camp clothes to their first dresses of cotton and shantung. In the group were several attractive dresses made for "little sister" and two lovely evening dresses.

At the conclusion of the show, those in attendance were invited to the Home Economics rooms where refreshments were served.

Re-election of Teachers
Supt. W. C. Strowd announced that all members of the faculty of Mills High School who applied for positions for the school year 1939-40 have been re-elected.

Rev. L. F. Kent, rector of St. Paul's Episcopal Church, was speaking at the seventh grade graduating exercises on Monday morning, May 8th, at 10:30 o'clock.

Rev. Kent's talk to this group of young folks dealt with the idea that the whole of life is a new commencement. He spoke of how we commence to walk, to talk, and of how we commence to go to school to be educated.

"To these boys and girls, he said, 'You are going into a new type of life because you deserve it, because it seems logical, not just because your teacher and principal like you. You are graduating from the seventh grade because you have fulfilled the laws of education.'

When you enter high school, the speaker continued, you will use those same laws of education.

Out of endings come new beginnings. Therefore we should look ahead and prepare for what it to come.

In closing, Rev. Kent expressed the hope that each one of this graduating class after leaving school might lead not particularly a life of happiness (for happiness does not always come with service) but a life of usefulness to mankind.

At the beginning and conclusion of this program the seventh grade accompanied by Mrs. O. Y. Yarborough, gave two musical selections, Springtime, by Strauss, and Summer's Come, the words of which were composed by Helen Tucker, a member of the graduating class.

The speaker for this occasion was presented to the audience by Supt. W. C. Strowd, who also delivered the seventh grade certificates and the perfect attendance certificates.

Those receiving 7th grade certificates are:

Robert Lee Andrews, Virginia Howard, Glennie Liles, Vera Freeman, Doris Strange, Burt Peoples, Frank Amis Reavis, Florence Shearin, Louise Weldon, George Gantt, Joseph Barrow, Elsie Collins, Edgar Lee Perry, James Henry Joyner, Lucille May, Billie Perry, Helen Tucker, Gerald Bunn, Gusty Cobb, Betsy Blue Person, Christine Joyner, Maxine Dement, Gloria Williams, Gladys Shearin, Emmitt Lassiter, Billy Beasley, Elsie Mae Allen, Elizabeth Merritt, Shirley Leonard, Mary Huff, John T. Young, Hallie Merritt, Allen Medlin, Charlotte Frazier, Maurine Wright, Lucius Phelps, Lula Mae Moon, Edward Renn, Viola Mae Hill, Billy White, Hubert Harris, James Ayscue.

The first two in this list, Robert Lee Andrews and Virginia Howard, tied for first place in the state examination, each scoring an equivalent of eleventh grade first month.

Following is the group of forty-six who received certificates signifying that they had been neither absent nor tardy during the entire school year:

Jane Moon, Eleanor Beasley, Eaton Holden, Edwin Kemp, Rebecca Perry, Jane Grey Perry, Jennie Cheatham Alston, Edith Wiggins, Nell Perry, Ethel Charlotte Griffin, Walter Miles Hall, Talmadge Thomas, Juanita Hall, Emma Leigh Strange, Benjamin Stuart Downey, Dorothy Jane

Strange, John Wesley Strickland, Raymond Edwards, Joyce Ann Strother, Mary Leonard Mustian, Bettie Strother, Clifford Joyner, Katherine Joyner, Bob Daniels, Bettie Stallings, Asher Johnson, Jr., Jack Cooper, Ralph Beasley, Nicholas Perry, Clifton Long, O. B. Edwards, Winston Davis, Fred Leonard, Nancy Carlisle Griffin, Irving Harris, Nell Rose Lancaster, Earle Murphy, Jr., Edmon Rabil, Louise Long, Helen Welch Tucker, Doris Strange, Betsy Blue Person, Billie Perry, Vera Freeman, Virginia Howard, Frances Spivey.

Three pupils in this list deserve special recognition for having been neither absent nor tardy during their entire school career. These are Eleanor Beasley, who has a perfect record for eight years, Jennie Cheatham Alston for ten years, and Nicholas Perry for five years.

Mrs. Susie Jackson's grade had the best record of any grade in school as to the number of pupils receiving perfect attendance certificates. Nine pupils in this grade received them, this being between 20 and 25 per cent of the number in the grade.

Graduating Exercises
"Home is the first institution of education in a child's life and mother" is the first teacher, spoke Mr. Claude F. Gaddy, Superintendent of the Raleigh City Schools at the Mills High School commencement exercises on Tuesday night. "My philosophy of education is a way of life," said Mr. Gaddy.

Mr. Gaddy went on to state that there is no one who believes in the two subjects of reading and writing any more than he, but it is not the greatest curses we have today. There are many more and every man and woman in each community of this fair State of ours should endeavor to rid these disadvantages and push the advantages.

Mr. Gaddy likened the seniors and the audience to the stars. Little stars shine, shoot and fade away while large stars have faith. He advised them to have faith in whatever they set out to do and stick to it. Have ability in yourself to judge value. "Evidently your presence here tonight represents that you have found value in something," he stated to the seniors. "Have you learned to work? Have you learned to resist temptation?"

"What the world needs today is that people strive to do what they consider their best and reach their own satisfaction," stated Mr. Gaddy. "I ask that you, graduating seniors, carry with you the willingness to work and to make something of yourselves which will be a monument to you."

Mr. Gaddy was introduced by Mr. W. C. Strowd, Principal of Mills High School.

After the singing of one verse of America, invocation was given by Rev. J. G. Phillips. The welcome address was given by Miss Bobbie Parrish, the Salutatorian of the class.

The valedictory address was given by May Davis.

Miss Ann Allen, accompanied by Mrs. O. Y. Yarborough, rendered a very beautiful solo entitled "Down in The Forest."

At this time Mr. Strowd announced that Miss Frances Spivey of the eighth grade at Mills High School won second place in the Essay contest.

Supt. W. R. Mills was introduced by Mr. Strowd to deliver the diplomas to the seniors, but instead he stressed the facts of Mr. Gaddy's address and asked Mr. Strowd to deliver the diplomas.

The diplomas were delivered to the following graduating seniors and Master Charles Davis, mascot of the class:

Anne Allen, Viola Alston, Frankie Catlette, May Davis, Grace Dement, Jewel Dennis, Kathryn Foster, Lutie Foster, Aileen Fulier, Louise Long, Ruby Grey Massenburg, Bobbie Parrish, Polly Parrish, Helen Peoples, Jewel Poythress, Maxine Strickland, Blanche Weldon, Mildred Wrenn, Hortense Williams, Clarence Bass, Elton Bledsoe, Harry Fuller, Melvin Holmes, George Leonard, Ben B.
