

DO WE WANT DEMOCRACY?

"If we want democracy we cannot dispose of our responsibilities by marching to the polls once in a while and giving lip service to the Bill of Rights," writes Carl Dreher in Harper's. "If we want democracy we have to work at it. We have to accept the idea of politics as every citizen's primary and unremitting concern, as our business in a very concrete and personal sense."

We have left politics to the politicians—and what a mess has resulted! We have regarded government as something in which we have no direct interest, and the consequence has been a steady extension of bureaucratic power at the expense of us all. We've worked on the principle of "Let George do it"—and George has done us in, good and plenty!

Not until we all realize that government is our business, will we have the fair, efficient and economical government that is essential to democracy.

Leading citizens should be compelled to take every seventh year off for the good of the community.
